LATE EDITION. PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

No. 25,243. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a newspaper. SYDNEY, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1918. 24 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

SUMMARY.

Crowds in Cologne are clamouring for the extradition and execution of the ex-Kaiser and the ex-Crown Prince.

Placards have been displayed, offering a reward equal to £4000 for whoever brings the arch-criminals from Holland.

A motion is to be submitted to the French Chamber, asking the Allies to consult upon measures to bring the ex-Kaiser to trial.

The British Crown Law authorities have advised the Government that the Entente can claim Wilhelm's extradition.

The situation in Berlin is described as analogous to that in Petrograd during the Kerensky epoch.

The Government and the Soldiers' Council are fighting to obtain power.

The Workers, Soldiers, and Peasants' Council for North Germany declared for the summoning of a National Assembly.

Some travellers state that the soldiers openly rejoice at the defeat of Prussian militarism.

An extensive stoppage of work has occurred in Berlin owing to antagonism between workers and employers.

The German High Command states that it is doing its utmost to deliver prisoners, but the armistice presents difficulties.

Britain has replied that no excuses will be accepted. Full reparation will be exacted for unnecessary suffering.

If reparation in kind cannot be made it will be made in person by the officials responsible.

The goose step has been abolished in Munich. Soldiers no longer salute their officers.

Berlin is greatly concerned over the progress of the Polish revolution against Germanism.

The "Vossische Zeitung" has published the German delegate's account of the armistice negotiations.

"We soon discovered," they said, "that there would be no negotiations, only dictated matter."

"Marshal Foch acted coldly throughout, but not so tactless and brusque as General Desperey.

"We made our protest against the terms, but we were compelled to sign the armistice."

It is reported that the Entente will probably consider the question of abolishing the blockade.

The Bavarian Premier complains that Hindenburg lately issued proclamations likely to disturb the peace negotiations.

The time had now passed, says Herr Eisner, for stirring the German people against their enemies.

Washington officials positively declare that President Wilson will not accept the invitation to visit Germany.

Mr. Daniels says the Peace Conference must be guided solely by principles of justice and also mercy towards the weak.

The French armies are completing the occupation of Luxemburg.

They have reached the German frontier eastward of Weiswampach and Hemerscheit.

Marshal Foch and General Castelnau visited Strassburg, and reviewed the troops of occupation. They were given a great ovation.

The British troops have reached the German frontier. They have taken 1400 guns since November 11.

Mr. Winston Churchill says that no arguments or appeals must lead Britain to abandon naval supremacy.

No colony, he remarked, would be restored to Germany, and none of the conquered parts of Turkey would be restored.

Germany, he added, must make reparation for the damage done. This would cost £1,000,000,000.

People need not be alarmed that Germany would get off lightly. The punishment would be beyond all previous records.

Practically the whole German nation had been guilty of crime, and must suffer for it.

The Admiralty and the War Office have issued a reminder to the public that general demobilisation has not yet begun.

The War Chest appeal was officially launched in Martin-place by the Governor at noon yesterday.

His Excellency pointed out that there was the same need for generous giving as on previous appeals.

The Lord Mayor, on behalf of the people of Sydney, presented Mr. Walker with a large golden key.

The presentation was made to show appreciation of the work done for the fund by one who was known as "Mr. War Chest Walker."

Martin-place and Moore-street were thronged, though there was not quite so much enthusiasm as before.

These thoroughfares were illuminated with electric lights in the evening, and presented a brilliant spectacle.

When counting ceased last night the collections in the city had reached £7751, making the total in hand £38,754.

Another of the Italian reservists among the Medic's troops in quarantine died yesterday from pneumonic influenza.

The position generally, however, shows a substantial improvement, only one fresh case having occurred.

The jubilee of the consecration and opening of St. Andrew's Cathedral in 1868 was celebrated yesterday.

At a luncheon in the Chapter-house the Governor said that under the wise presidency of the Primate the Churches had been drawn together on a common platform.

Bishop Pain, who was present at the consecration of the Cathedral 50 years ago, proposed the principal toast.

Festal evensong was held in the Cathedral in the evening, the music being supplied by the combined choirs.

The Federal Government believes it will be able to arrange for the visit to Australia of an eminent British Admiral.

The object of his visit would be to report on the fleet and the question of a naval base.

The Government has decided not to proceed further with any work at the Henderson naval base.

The Acting Prime Minister sent a telegram to General Pau at Tarcoola yesterday, offering cordial greetings on his 70th birthday.

News has reached Sydney that Flight-Lieut. Geoffrey C. Scarr, of Killara, was killed in England on November 18 through an aeroplane accident.

The total amount collected for the A.I.F. Memorial has reached £57,000, including £3000 promised by the Government.

At the meeting of the Bank of New South Wales the report and balance-sheet disclosed a profit of £273,560 for the past half-year.

A dividend, including interim dividend, at the rate of 10 per cent. absorbed £195,243.

The chairman, Sir Charles Mackellar, urged people to exercise a reasonable and sane economy.

In the District Court yesterday Judge Docker bade farewell to the Court, owing to his retirement from judicial work.

A bill was introduced in the Assembly for the construction of a dam across the Avon in connection with the Sydney Water Supply.

Eighty boys, employed as glass-blowers' assistants at the Australian Glass works, Waterloo, struck yesterday.

All militia camps, including Liverpool, will be closed from to-day on account of the influenza scare.

Mary Agnes Denney was found guilty of the manslaughter of her husband near Goulburn and was remanded for sentence.

Business in investment scrip was limited, and an easier tendency prevailed. Wheat scrip, however, was firm.

The market for mining stocks was weaker, and Barrier scrip eased all round.

A brisk business was transacted in most lines of dairy produce in Sussex-street.

Owing to the sharp advance in price, dealings in butter were on a limited scale.

The opinion was expressed by traders that an increase of 2d per lb was unwarranted for the time of the year.

Forecast.—Cloudy to showery on the coast and parts of the tablelands, with equally southerly winds and disturbed sea, though gradually moderating.

FARMER'S SYDNEY,
1840-1918—
Seventy-eight Years.
THE HOUSE OF DISTINCTION.

NEXT WEEK will be

"CHILDREN'S TIME"

AT FARMER'S,
devoted specially to young Australia's amusement and education, this being the theme of the campaign.

"CHILDREN'S TIME" STARTS ON MONDAY AND LASTS TILL SATURDAY NEXT.

Christmas is drawing near now, and this fact furnishes the idea for "Children's Time," which in reality will be a grand preliminary to the Festival Season at the great House of Farmer's.

BRING THE CHILDREN—ESPECIALLY THE LITTLE ONES—FOR THIS IS THEIR VERY OWN CARNIVAL.

There will be many attractions throughout the week, the enjoyment and happiness of the young folk being our first consideration. Mlle. d'Alroy was successful and likeable in her "Fashion Scene" and "The Business Girl's Opportunity," but in the role she will enact next week—"Aunty Cis, the Hostess of Mary's Christmas Party"—she will be positively delightful. The children will love her immensely.

"MARY'S CHRISTMAS PARTY" will be held each afternoon at 4.15 in the Display Theatre, First Floor, where Mademoiselle, assisted by her two nieces, will entertain ten little visitors at an informal party.

These charming wee folk will wear the loveliest Frocks and Dresses, which should provide inspirations to mothers and others. Children up to 15 years are invited, but must be accompanied by parent or guardian, and both must obtain their admission tickets, good for day of issue only, at Button Counter, Ground Floor.

Please Note.—Adults are admitted only when accompanied by children.

Also timed for Monday is the opening of "THE LITTLE MAN'S DOMAIN," the new Juvenile Boys' Outfitting Section on the Fourth Floor. Here also is the new Children's Barber Shop, the first of its kind in Australia, offering service to boys and girls up to 15 years. Although the "Barber's Shop" is only partially completed, we trust it will be in full commission before the week's festivities are over.

A REAL FATHER CHRISTMAS

will be in attendance, and other features will be wonderful showing of Toys on First Floor, Toys of Australian and oversea manufacture; also special Window Displays, with a Christmas atmosphere; and Holiday Fashion Displays for Juveniles and Adults in every Section of the House, and Gas-filled Balloons Free for the Children attending "Mary's Christmas Party."

CHILDREN'S SHOPPING MORNING TO-DAY.

THE COTSWOLD SUIT

still retains its popularity for school wear. The coat has four patch pockets, yoke, half belt and vent at back. The knickers are the popular Golf style and are smartly cut and lined with strong soft silesia, thus ensuring good service. We are offering this style in a wide range of hard wearing materials, recommended for good service. A special line in Mid and Dark Grey Tweeds.

Sizes	5, 6.	7, 8, 9.	10, 11, 12.	13, 14.
PRICE....	32/6	35/	37/6	40/
In Mid Grey British Tweeds.

Boys' R.M. Clothing, Ground Floor, Market-st. (Fourth Floor after Monday Next.)

CHILDREN'S SMART MILLINERY.

CHILD'S INEXPENSIVE HAT OF WHITE PANDAN, high dome crown with corded ribbon band, binding and bow in various colours; adaptable brim. PRICE 5/11

GIRL'S USEFUL DROOP SHAPE OF PEDAL STRAW, medium round crown with crossed band and bow of fine corded silk ribbon, in good shades; the brim is fluted and bound with similar material. PRICE 11/6

SCHOOL HAT OF PANAMA, comfortable fitting, ridged crown with Black band of Ottoman silk ribbon, with large bow in front. Wide shady brim. PRICE 15/6

DO YOU KNOW ALL THE ADVANTAGES OF THE SAFIX MILLER OUTBOARD MOTOR?

The quickly increasing popularity of the Safix Miller Outboard Motor shows that all classes of Outdoor Men are beginning to see the advantages of a Boat Motor that may be attached to any hired skiff in a minute; with a flywheel waist-high that calls for no stooping. Easy to clean; light to carry, weighing but 70lb complete; yet powerful enough to drive a skiff 8 miles an hour, and costing next to nothing to run.

Booklet H, telling all about the Safix Miller Outboard Motor, is post free from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 912, G.P.O., Sydney.

ANTHONY HORDERNS'

FOR GIFTS FOR MEN.

Goods suitable for Christmas presents are offered in profusion at the New Palace Emporium, and as they are, quality considered, economically priced, no difficulty should be experienced in making wise selections. Presents that are useful are being readily purchased for gifts, and it is in goods with this important characteristic that Anthony Horderns' excel. Enumerated in this announcement are some gift suggestions for men. A man, while not prone to look a gift horse in the mouth, likes something that is serviceable as a present, and he will get his likes if his friends purchase him for Christmas something from the following list of suggestions. Each department is teeming with other economically-priced gifts.

GIFTS FOR SMOKERS.

Pipes, Cigars, and Cigarettes always make highly appreciated Christmas Presents. The Tobacco Department at the New Palace Emporium is prepared for the usual rush of Christmas Gift buyers, the stocks being fresh and the prices the lowest.

EXTRA QUALITY TRIUMPH BRIARS, in all the popular shapes, 7/, post free 7/3; with silver push stem, 7/9, by post 7/11. Every popular shape in many of the favourite makes are offered at equally moderate prices.

HOUSE OF LORDS CIGARS, fine flavour, made in England. No. 1, box of 10, 4/9; box of 50, 22/; No. 2, box of 10, 5/3; box of 25, 12/.

TRIUMPH CIGARETTES are hand-made from selected Virginia Tobacco, and are favourites with men who appreciate good cigarettes. Buy a box for him. Price, 1/3 per oz.

VARIOUS PIPES IN MOROCCO CASES.

Briar Pipes in Cases are always acceptable gifts to the man who smokes. The assortment we offer is incomparable for variety and value. Here are prices and particulars of a few—the quality is assured.

W.D.C. HAND-MADE BRIAR PIPE, best quality Vulcanite Mouthpiece, Silver Band, Morocco Plush-lined Case, Straight and Bent Shapes 14/

TRIUMPH BRIAR PIPE, best quality Vulcanite Mouthpiece, Silver Bands, Buckskin Lined Morocco Case. Straight, Block, and Bent Shapes 12/6

M.B.C. BRIAR PIPE, with two Vulcanite Mouthpieces, Morocco Plush Lined Case. Bent, 15/; Straight, 14/6, 16/.

W.D.C. HAND-MADE BRIAR PIPES, best quality Vulcanite Mouthpiece, Silver Bands, Two Pipes in Plush-lined Case, one each Straight and Bent 32/6

SAFETY RAZORS AND OUTFITS.

Here are some gift suggestions that are bound to be appreciated by men—articles that combine attractiveness and utility. Many others are shown in the Perfumery Department.

TRAVELLING FOLDING MIRROR. The ideal for shaving or toilet purposes, with 5in. bevel edge, 5/ and 6/6.

STERLING SILVER MILITARY BRUSH, plain concave design, 16/6, 21/ each.

SILVER-PLATED SHAVING MUG, satin engraved design, opal lined cup and brush, 15/6 each.

SOLID NICKEL SHAVING SET, adjustable bevelled Mirror, opal lined bowl, and brush, 17/6.

In the Cutlery Department the array of Bengal and other old-style Razors, as well as the selection of Modern Safety Razors, offers a choice that will meet the requirements of every man.

THE EVER-READY SAFETY RAZOR is a world-wide favourite with men who appreciate chin comfort. The Ever-ready Safety Razor, consisting of heavily-nickelled frame, handle, and 12 Radio Blades, is complete in handy case. Price, 5/.

EVER-READY SAFETY COMBINATION SET, comprising Razor, 12 Blades, and Strop-machine. Price, 14/6.

HANDSOME MOROCCO CASE, CONTAINING EVER-READY SAFETY RAZOR, Soap Case, Brush Case, and Mirror. Price, 25/.

XMAS SUGGESTIONS

IN MEN'S MERCERY.

That the Mercery Department offers incomparable value in Men's Handkerchiefs is shown by the consistent support accorded it by men who expect full value for their money. Big Stocks of Handkerchiefs in Cotton, Irish Lawn, Linen, and Silk, are being rapidly drawn upon by patrons, who know that they cannot get such undoubted value elsewhere.

Handkerchiefs in Irish Lawn, full size, are priced from 3/9 to 7/ per half-dozen, or they may be purchased singly; while the prices for Linen Handkerchiefs range from 7/ to 16/3 per half-dozen. With initial letters worked in the corner they may be purchased for 2/11 each for medium size, or 16/3 for half a dozen. White Silk Handkerchiefs are offered from 2/6 to 3/6 each, or 3/9 with initial worked in corner.

MEN'S NECKWEAR.

Seldom has such a big assortment of Fashionable Neckwear been shown at one time as is now on view in the Mercery Department. An inspection is desirable.

The UTILITY OPEN END TIE is cut on the straight, and pulls easily through the Double Collar. In assorted neat and fancy effects, 2/6 and 2/9 each.

THE WEST END TIE is an Extra Wide Open End Tie. Offered in the Smartest Silken Weaves in almost every colour and design, 3/9, 5/, 6/3, 6/9, and 7/6 each.

BAGS AND SUIT CASES

MAKE USEFUL PRESENTS.

The value of a Suit Case or one of the handy little Attache Cases of the type produced to meet the requirements of the week-ender cannot be disputed. These goods are displayed in the Travelling Requisites Department, and make a show that covers an immense variety of goods in leather and the now extremely popular light fibre.

ATTACHE CASES, for lunch, school, or shopping, cloth-covered, with strong clip fasteners and leather handle, 3/11 to 5/.

FORDITE ATTACHE CASES, grained fibre with metal frame, light leather caps and strong sliding locks, 8/9 to 13/6 each, according to size.

LEATHER SUIT CASES, with plain corners, lined cloth, two locks, 38/ for 20in, to 50/ for 26in.

SPECIAL SHOW OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

A section of the lower floor of the Fine Art Gallery has been set apart for a display of goods from various departments eminently suitable for Christmas Gifts. The display will well repay inspection, as it visualises at once many useful gifts previously seen only by visiting a number of departments.

A GUARANTEED CORSET

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

Now that you are looking twice and, perhaps, three times at every little thing on which money is spent,

NOW THAT THE WORLD IS DEMANDING "SERVICE" as of equal or even greater consequence than appearance,

THE GUARANTEE THAT STANDS BEHIND

WARNER'S RUSTPROOF CORSETS

takes on an added significance.

Have you read that guarantee?—that

EVERY WARNER WILL SHAPE FASHIONABLY, FIT COMFORTABLY, AND WILL NOT RUST, BREAK, OR TEAR.

Do you know that they are actually Rust-proof? Have you ever tested them? We wish you would—then you would know what we really mean when we say "Guaranteed Rust-proof."

AND IT IS NOT ENOUGH for a Corset to shape well, it must Wear equally as well as it shapes.

EVERY DAY it must prove its virtue by shaping comfortably, wearing without splitting, breaking, or rusting in these coming hottest times that test the best of Corsets.

YOU CAN DEPEND ON YOUR WARNER.

We can guarantee it because it is guaranteed to us. We know that the Warner people simply CAN'T AFFORD TO SEND OUT ONE PAIR EVEN THE SLIGHTEST DEGREE LOWER THAN THEIR STANDARD.

Hence our confidence, which we find is shared by every customer who has once experienced the advantages of the Warner make.

The New Summer Models are just to hand; won't you come and look them over?

OUR GREAT OFFER

TO COMMEMORATE THE GREAT VICTORY, in an everlasting photograph of yourself, one to hand down to posterity, Showing you as you were (as you are) at the time of the great victory.

To encourage this we are going right back to our pre-War prices, in that enormous value we used to offer every Christmas before the War.

Here it is,
A BEAUTIFUL ENLARGED PORTRAIT,
On a Plate Sunk Mount, Size 24in x 15in.
FRAMED, FRAMED, FRAMED.

Outside measure of frame about 30in x 21in, and present value of frame alone 17/6.

In a Beautiful Moulding, own choice, with 12 12 12 12 12 12
HIGH ART BROMIDE CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS
for 21/, only 21/, 21/, only 21/, 21/, only 21/.

This is our Great Victory offer, don't miss it.

Never in the History of Photography has there been such an offer—Never, never, never.

SEND US A PHOTOGRAPH.

The same offer as above, but with 6 Cabinets instead of 12, taken from a photograph, is 30/. This is extraordinary value. It is much more expensive to copy and enlarge from a photograph than it is from the sitter.

Over the Counter Prices; cut to the quick.

AN EXPLANATION.

During the War we had branch studios in the various military camps, which gave us such an increase in business as to overtax our very large resources, sometimes causing delay in the delivery of our orders.

We beg to thank our patrons who bore with us during that period, and to assure them a quick delivery now that our camp studios are closed and the military business over.

Please note that this wonderful offer can only be obtained at THE CROWN STUDIOS.

We take photos. in any weather, wet, cloudy, or sunshine. Studios open daily till 5.30 p.m.

Fridays we take photos. up to 9 p.m., as good as daylight photos., and the same price.

THE NEW WELCOME HOME SONG TO OUR GALLANT ANZACS.

The Song everybody has been waiting for, and will sing with thrilling pride on the arrival of our gallant heroes. It is a rollicking song, full of life and go, with a swing running right through it which instantly captivates everyone who hears it.

HERE IS THE CHORUS:—
Back home, back home,
Gee! it's great to be safe back home;
While the bells ring a peal of joy,
And the folks at home greet their Soldier boy.
Back home, back home,
Never more far away to roam,
Tho' a welcome like this fills a Soldier with bliss,
Gee! it's great to be safe back home.

Price, complete Words and Music, 2/.
Posted to any address, anywhere, for 2/1.

GET IT and SING IT, so the Anzacs will know you are glad they are back home again.

BAND ARRANGEMENT now ready. Bandmasters, let your Band be right up to date by playing "BACK HOME." We advise Music Sellers to get a good stock of "BACK HOME" for welcoming the local returning soldiers. It is a live seller that is wanted in every town of the Commonwealth.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD of the ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC OF LONDON, ENGLAND, for LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Patron: HIS MAJESTY THE KING.

THEORY EXAMINATIONS.
Entries for the First Theory Examination throughout the States close on May 1, 1919.

PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS.
Entries close as follows:—
Sydney and District, including Newcastle, July 1.
Other New South Wales Centres, and Queensland, May 1.
Victoria and Tasmania, August 1.
South Australia, September 1.

As soon as the Syllabus for 1919 arrives from London copies will be sent to teachers.

THREE EXHIBITIONS will again be offered.
EMMELINE M. WOOLLEY SCHOLARSHIP will be open for competition.

The Examinations are conducted by the Board's Examiners, who come out each year from England.

Any profit made on the work of the Board is devoted entirely to furthering Musical Education, and the scope and standard of the Examinations are similar in regard to musical education to those of the Oxford and Cambridge Local Examinations in connection with general education.

A guarantee of the status and standard of the Examinations is afforded by the fact that the R.A.M. and R.C.M., of which the Board is a joint committee, are the only institutions in the Empire established for the express purpose of giving musical education founded by Royal Charter, and, therefore, having public responsibility.

COMPARE RESULTS.
Every Poultry Farmer owes it to himself to inspect NEWTOWN COLONY BROODERS at work.

Look up your neighbours who have installed them, and find out from the actual users what an immense advance in brooding devices the "Newtown" Colony Brooder represents.
It may be too late to install them for this season, but you will have first-hand knowledge as to the advisability of scrapping your old, obsolete equipment, and installing "Newtowns" in plenty of time for the 1919 season.
Send for special literature.

RESULTS GUARANTEED.

The size of a chick at, say, 6 weeks of age, depends largely on the elements supplied in the feed.

THORPE'S GROWING MASH with THORPE'S WEEK OLD and EXTRA SPECIAL CHICK FOOD, provides the proper balance of all the elements required, and makes chicks develop twice as fast as chicks fed on a purely cereal ration.
Thorpe's Foods are the standard Poultry Foods of Australia, and are sold in every State of the Commonwealth.
There is only one reason—they give results.

IT IS EASIER TO LOOK WISE THAN TO TALK WISDOM.

The best rule is to say less than the other fellow and listen more than you talk. Well, what's that got to do with a Second-hand Car anyhow? Only this, we don't want to try to talk you into buying a Second-hand Car from us. We are glad enough to let others acclaim the merits of their cars, but we do want you to come along before you decide about your car. You see, we employ a competent staff to attend to our Second-hand Cars, inside and out, and then we cover with our guarantee as to its condition. If you can get a Second-hand Car from anywhere else under similar conditions you know more than we know.

Come in and have a trial and demonstration—it will not place you under any obligation to us.

PAIGE MOTOR CO., OPEN ALWAYS,
1-29 Yurong street, junction of Park and William streets.

DISCRIMINATE BETWEEN CAREFULNESS AND MEANNESS.

The man of limited means is not mean because he prefers to invest in a Second-hand Car.

The likelihood is that a new car will strain his purse too much. Moreover he must realise, as all intelligent people do, that a good Second-hand Car in guaranteed condition is a better investment than a new car. This is the class of buyer we cater for. We make "good" all our Second-hand Cars before we offer them for sale, and we are just as careful about the outside as the inside, so that the man who dislikes buying a Second-hand Car because of its appearance takes no risk in this respect, when he buys a car from us.

Come and inspect our stock. Open always.

PAIGE MOTOR CO.,
1-29 Yurong-street, junction of Park and William streets.

CAR BUYERS. THIS CONCERNS YOU.
Mistakes are often made in selecting a Second-hand CAR. But you will make no mistake if your selection is made THROUGH us. We examine all Cars brought to us for Sale, and if they wont pass our inspection, we pass them out.
Splendid Range to select from.

ALL OVER BUICK. THE COUNTRY.

BE SATISFIED. IT'S 'A' BUICK.

Like men—cars are known by the company they keep.
Buicks are owned and used by men and business firms who can afford and should own cars costing double, and would if such better cars than Buick were made.
Just ask any owner why Buicks are so popular—ask the experienced old-timer motorist.
Usually the reply is "I've had several, and the Buick suits me."

STERLING QUALITY.

Just as the word "Sterling" stands for the intrinsic value of silver—so does Buick stand for motor cars.

REMEMBER,

BUICKS, the first successful overhead valve engine.
BUICKS, the first to produce a six with four cylinder economy.

BUICKS HAVE THE STAMINA.

DELIVERY PROMPT. Our arrangements in the past as regards shipping has placed us in the position of being able to deliver promptly all models of six cylinder Buicks.

BUICKS. SECOND-HAND.

To buy a second-hand car in the ordinary way, that is, to look for someone who has a car "cheap to sell," nearly always ends in a mistake.
We do not allow any of our Buick cars to go out in a second-hand condition—in the ordinary way—we deliver them in a condition so as to render them to give, as near as possible, the service as was intended they should give when new.
To do this—all used Buicks that come into our possession are surveyed by our Works Department, and parts worn are renewed, even if only slightly so. Being sole agents for Buicks we know exactly what is required, we know what to expect, consequently hardly anything can escape our notice.
Any intending purchaser can at any time see our works and examine for himself what this reconstruction really means.
You will probably find such a Buick is a better car than cheaper makes when new.
You will also learn why we can give a guarantee with each.

RESULTS.
WORK ACTUALLY DONE.

THIS IS OUR WAY OF SHOWING YOU WHAT A REDDEN TRUCK IS WORTH. WE WILL DO THE WORK YOU WANT A TRUCK TO DO, WE WILL SHOW YOU CONCLUSIVELY THAT THE REDDEN WILL SAVE MONEY FOR YOU, WE WILL CONVINCE YOU THAT YOU CAN ENLARGE YOUR BUSINESS WITH A

REDDEN TRUCK.

The upkeep of a Redden is lower than any other motor truck made. You can get waggons costing twice as much, or even more money, but they also cost more money to run and they wont do any more work. Then the cost of an overhaul to these lorries will cost you more than it will cost to renew the whole power plant of the REDDEN.

We can show you actual figures where we have done city, also suburban, carriage work, under the same conditions as they have to work, and have shown definitely the advantage of installing a REDDEN TRUCK. In each case the carriers have bought a truck, and are proving that they can do the work of two 2-horse teams in less time, with only one driver's wages, and a smaller upkeep cost.

RING CITY 1548 FOR PARTICULARS.

WE WILL BE PLEASED TO ARRANGE TO GIVE YOU A DAY'S DEMONSTRATION WITH A REDDEN TRUCK!

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA. PAIGE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

WHAT YOU NEED IN A CAR.

Believing that self-respect, comfort, and enduring satisfaction have an actual market value the Paige Motor Company built these things into their product. By taking just a little more time—just a little more care in selecting materials—just a little more pride in their work they produced a real motor car—not a makeshift or compromise.
We are not mistaken in our belief that the Paige "six" is just the car you want. It is worth every penny of its price, and you know, too, that the name "Paige" on your car is like "sterling" or silver—there is none better. Come and see the car that by sheer merit earned the title

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA."

Your motor car, motor cycle, or motor lorry taken in part payment. Half down accepted on all cars. Just a little extra and you get a "Paige." Write for Catalogue.
PRICES: 5-seater Cars, £625; 7-seater, £650 and £750. Aust. Bodies £25 extra bodied.
We have a number of cars left with us as deposit on new Paige Cars. Among these are the finest of European and American Cars. Write for lists.

HERE ARE TWO (2) EXAMPLES OF REPORTS FROM OWNERS OF SECOND-HAND CARS BOUGHT FROM US:—

18/11/'18. FROM AN OWNER OF A 20-H.P. 1914 VAUXHALL IN QUEENSLAND. HE WRITES:—
"A line to thank you for sending your man along to me. He is quite the most satisfactory Motor Man I have had anything to do with, and I would like to think I could get him once a year. He got the Vauxhall in fine order again with a VERY SATISFACTORY PETROL CONSUMPTION. On a test of half a gallon we went 13½ miles (27 miles per gallon), and I have just returned from a through trip to Brisbane, most of which was done at an average of 22 miles per gallon, and THE CAR IS PULLING AND GOING BETTER THAN EVER."

FROM AN OWNER OF A 25-H.P. 1914 PRINCE HENRY VAUXHALL IN NEW ENGLAND DISTRICT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.
27/11/'18. HE WRITES:—
"I have just finished a run to Maitland and back, 400 miles, with four people aboard and luggage. We did the run in 12 hours (33 miles per hour average), with a petrol consumption of 22.7 miles per gallon."

THE COMMODIOUS AND CENTRAL PREMISES,
MESSRS. TYRRELLS, LIMITED,
99 CASTLEREAGH-STREET, CITY, on
TUESDAY, 10th DECEMBER, 11 A.M.

The Management of MESSRS. TYRRELL'S, LIMITED, have, at the request of many of their Patrons, decided to inaugurate a system of MONTHLY AUCTION SALES. It is proposed to adopt the arrangement prevailing in England and the United States, similar to Christies, Hodgson, and Co., and Sotheby's, Ltd. By this scheme Collections of Works of Art, Books, Coins, Medals, and Literary Property can be offered to the Public at auction prices. The first of these Monthly Auctions will be held at the spacious premises of MESSRS. TYRRELL'S, LIMITED, on Tuesday, December 10th, and the services of Mr. JAMES R. LAWSON have been secured to conduct the sale.

The want of an Auction Gallery of this description has long been felt in Sydney, and it will be the means of promoting and catering for the requirements of the Connoisseur and Collector. The Articles to be offered will be on view a week prior to the sale, and catalogues will be available on application. Amongst the items offered for sale will be several interesting Autograph Letters from the pens of Charles Dickens, John Stuart Mill, Gerald Massey, Eliza Cook, and George Meredith. Manuscript of Henry Lawson, First Editions of Rare Australian Books, Folios of Prints, Old China, Sheffield Plate, Old Silver, Brass Candlesticks, Old Pewter, Satinwood, Tea Caddy, Fine Jacobean Furniture, Georgian Chairs, Old Norwegian Chest, dated 1796, Cigar Case and Purse, used by Sir John and Lady Franklin, Bartolozzi Prints, and Bookplates, Pictures by Australian and other Artists, including Norman Lindsay, Thea Proctor, S. T. Gill, W. Spong, and others.

PROPERTIES FOR SALE OR LEASE.

The Council of the City of Brisbane invites TENDERS for the Purchase or Lease of Properties having frontages to Queen-street, opposite the Customs-house and the entrance to the Circular Quay Wharves, and Adelaide-street, at present occupied by the Castlemaine Brewery and Quinlan, Gray, and Co., Ltd., and E. A. Jolliffe and Co., respectively. These properties occupy one of the most prominent positions of the city, and are admirably adapted for the erection of either a large block of warehouses or retail premises. The Council is prepared—

(a) To consider tenders for the purchase of the properties, with the exception of so much of the Queen-street frontages as is required for street improvement purposes, according to the plan on view, the purchasers within a time to be specified to demolish and remove the front portion of the existing buildings as far back as the new alignment; and

(b) To consider offers for the lease of the properties, the Council to undertake the erection of buildings suited to the requirements of the lessees.

A plan of the areas for sale or lease, with full description of the buildings erected thereon, and the terms and conditions of sale, may be seen on application at the Town Clerk's office, Town Hall, Sydney.

Tenders, marked on envelope "Tenders for City Properties," must be addressed to the Brisbane City Council, and lodged with the Town Clerk, Brisbane, not later than 12 o'clock noon on MONDAY, 16th December, proximo. W. HENRY G. MARSHALL, Town Clerk.

HEADACHES, BACKACHE, NEURALGIA, ETC.,

ARE THE CRY OF HUNGRY NERVES.

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS THE REMEDY.

Nervous headaches, neuralgia, backache, loss of appetite, anaemia, insomnia, dyspepsia, braining, breakdown, rheumatism, and other kindred symptoms are the cry of starved, exhausted nerves. The remedy is obvious—nourish your nervous system. Don't make the mistake of taking dangerous drugs and poisons. Take something that will promote good digestion. Stimulate the liver and kidneys to normal action, and purify and enrich the blood, thus feeding the nerves and silencing their hunger cries. For this purpose you cannot do better than take a course of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS. A quarter of a century's experience in the dispensing of nerve treatments has proven the efficacy of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS, which have the added advantages of convenience for carrying and economy in cost. Boxes, which easily fit into the vest pocket, contain 12 days' supply, and cost only 3/, or six boxes for 17/8. You may obtain them from your chemist or store, or by post from PASSING CRAFT.

IMPRESSIONS OF DONALD HANKEY.

(M. A. PARKER.)

II.

That third-class journey out to Australia seems to have been undertaken by Donald Hankey as an "experiment," and in a spirit of pessimistic perversity. In one of his odd fits of irritability at breakfast time (due probably to ill-health) he informed us that he didn't want to go to Australia at all—wasn't interested in fact—but as he had not been there he thought he ought to go. On thinking he ought to go he had planned to write a book on emigration, after which the first thing to do seemed to be to "emigrate." For my own part the journey was a conclusion to interesting experiences in London, all of which are pleasant to recall, though nothing that happened in the old metropolis can quite equal the charm of adventure in that third-class journey, which I faced out rather than go back on my pilgrimage vow "not to send home for assistance."

And so for a few weeks I had the pleasure of meeting Donald Hankey, who was at first trying vainly to look like an emigrant in dungaree and a slouch hat. I was too much disorganised by the terrible din of those terrible mealtimes to notice anybody much except myself in that embarrassing way in which one is conscious of oneself as being quite out of it. Those first days at sea were a series of stern astonishments and a whirl of new noises, wherein the human voice stood revealed as an instrument of torture. Recovering sufficiently to become interested in surroundings that to the end of the long trip became increasingly wonderful, I very soon developed some curiosity about the "person sitting next," especially after I discovered him one day asleep on deck with a copy of Wells's then latest book open on his chest. As an emigrant "he hadn't ought to have done that." As far as we could judge Donald Hankey does not seem to have allowed himself one concession of comfort on this voyage. He placed himself in exactly the position of a man with very little means travelling to Australia for better luck. He had booked himself one of the cheapest bunks on the ship, the conditions of which we understood were rather indescribable, though he never referred to them himself. In the very completeness with which he "emigrated" he was, as ever, the thorough Englishman.

Playing at being poor seems to have been rather a hobby of his, but whether he had at any time really cut himself off from his bank account and thrown himself upon his own resources or whether he had only got as far as intending to do so I do not clearly remember; but he referred frequently to the advantages of doing so, and when he left the ship at Fremantle his last remark was: "This is all the money I have. Do you think I will get ashore on it?" The coin he pulled from his pocket was half-a-crown. If it was all he had I could congratulate him, for when you reach your last coin something interesting invariably happens. At any rate it was just the kind of thing Donald Hankey would be game to do. He was game, too, we noticed, to spend quite a good deal at each port, showing some of his less fortunate shipmates sights that they would perhaps not have been able otherwise to see. He was a philanthropist of a fine order, because he did most of his "philanthroping" entirely on the quiet. There was a person on board whose passage money out had been paid by Donald Hankey, and that person did not know it. He was under the impression that some society was assisting him.

The first episode of that journey was hunting for a teapot at Algiers. The tea of the Fatherland being as execrable as all else in the name of food on that German ship, we planned to have our own tea and biscuits. So through the bazaars of Algiers a party of us wandered in search of tea and a teapot. Tea we were able to get at last at a stall devoted apparently to tobacco, but of teapots in Algiers there are none. Coffee and wine are the beverages of that sun-kissed spot, so we were obliged to dissolve our difficulty in the lower half of a coffee pot, which served successfully, and we were Britishly pleased at 3 p.m. each day afterwards. After a happy time amongst the white domes and minarets, and the blue and gold tiles of fair Algiers, we headed for cooler Genoa, and it was then that the "emigrant" broke his mealtime silence and thawed before some reference to Oxford.

Conversation that first day, if I recollect aright, turned upon the oddities of people when travelling, to observe which is one of the best privileges of travel. I remember a passenger at one port who hastened to purchase a deck chair about three minutes after getting ashore. With the whole day before him for the delights of a city of surprises, he burdened himself with this most cumbersome piece of comfort, and persisted in trundling it round with him wherever he went. The state of intellect that would permit of such a proceeding interested Donald Hankey very much from the point of view of modern education—and the fallacy of it. He had interesting views on education, insisting on less of the three R's and more of a sound drilling in a science of existence on satisfactory lines. "Life and How Best to Live It" he thought a good title for a school primer.

Donald Hankey was just as much a stranger to most of us when he left the ship at Fremantle as when, near Genoa, he broke the ice of his first silence. Whether this was really characteristic of him or not we could not judge, for we met him only under unfavourable conditions, and it may have been that the constant inconveniences and discomforts of such uncongenial surroundings, which were just those difficulties which he has admitted being unable to contend with, prevented him from showing us more of his real self. I always had the impression of him that he was missing some customary atmosphere or companion. Probably he missed the supporting personalities of those brothers and sisters who, we have learnt from his books, seem to have taken his existence in hand from its inauguration.

Many as were the discussions we had with "The Student" on general topics, of his personal interests we learn comparatively little, but we were privileged to appreciate a mind rich in fine thoughts and high ideals. He spoke a little of his Junior Republic work in Bermondsey, and in a way that showed that he had left his heart there. I remember making a remark to the effect that the boys would miss him. "No," came the quick, reprimanding reply. "I have taught them to do without me." By the significance of his tone he seemed proud of the accomplishment, and seemed, in fact, to have made a point of not allowing his presence and his efforts to become necessary to the organisation. Where are the leaders who are proud to be done without?

That Donald Hankey should so often and so deliberately have placed himself in uncongenial surroundings is strange. He did not impress me as a suitable person to do that kind of thing. It seems incompatible to me that he should ever have chosen "soldiering" as a profession. I mean the old-fashioned soldiering. To-day soldiering has become universal, but at the time when Donald Hankey trained at "The Shop" it was distinctly a matter of choice. Perhaps those over-seeing brothers and sisters had something to do with it, or was it just another of his odd irrationalities?

Travelling experimentally like this may mean taking risks, but it is worth it, if only for the sake of the concerts on board, from which there would seem to be no escape. We gathered in the saloon for a "concert" with terrible frequency, for talent knew no restraint. It was as prolific as it was torturing, and the enthusiasms and ambitions that came to light on those occasions would build empires. There was a great upheaval of voices when the choruses came round, which they mostly did. Soloists were graciously permitted a few moments for personal display, but concerts were for the most part "chorus" and "chorus again." But "The Student" developed no musical perfections on board; he as usual looked on from the edge and smiled—or fled—as the noises justified. With the programme over, we fled to the deck to cool hot faces, and gaze up at uninterrupted views of stars and the steady mast-lights of our good ship, and to gaze down into the strange night mystery of the great secretive sea.

Surrounded by much that was uncongenial in human life and character we had an opportunity of seeing Donald Hankey finding out the good in the worst, just as later we read he did in the army. On this voyage he was brought into contact with people of primitive emotions, gathered from many communities and from various nations; and their primitive expression of their primitive emotions at times opened a very wide schedule of human qualities. All the usual disastrous possibilities of ship life were accentuated by lack of control and the elements of helplessness that generally result from a lean purse. And here I remember an interesting remark of Donald Hankey's: "Because you have no money in a bank is no reason why you should not keep your feet out of other people's way." Which seems to be very much to the point.

PRE-SELECTION BALLOT.

Mr. A. C. Willis, vice-president of the A.L.P., said yesterday that he was in favour of the pre-selection ballot of candidates being done away with. He said that if this were brought about it would go a long way towards purifying the public life of the country.

LIEUTENANT CECIL HEALY.

(BY A. W. RELPH.)

Nearly everyone in Australia has in the war experienced some sense of loss—a son, a brother, some near relation or close friend. One of the best-known of the Australians who now lies buried in France was Cecil Healy. By thousands to whom he was personally known, by many close and intimate friends (perhaps no other young Australian who left these shores to do duty for his country had more), by even his many merest acquaintances, Cecil Healy will be truly mourned, for, besides being one of the world's champion swimmers—if not at one time the actual champion—he was a man of a most lovable disposition, modest in the hour of victory, ready at once to generously acknowledge defeat if beaten, chivalrous and courteous always. He deserved to be a champion, for no man ever took such assiduous pains to fit himself by every means in his power for his arduous contests. He lived carefully, practised certain strokes patiently and with the utmost perseverance, and whether the weather was wet or dry, cold or hot, regularly practised his exercises in and out of the water. On more than on occasion he trained right through the winter, going for his swim regularly day by day, to prepare himself for the races that were to come off in the following summer. Quite a number of friends used to devote their lunch hour for some years to that brisk walk through the Botanic Gardens with him, and a twenty minutes' plunge in the baths in the harbour.

Most champions, in whatever branch of sport, and more particularly in swimming, reach the zenith of their success in early youth, generally at or about the age of 21. Swimming beyond all other sports needs great powers of endurance, but Cecil Healy went on competing with more and more success as year followed year, and in the course of his career he met all the great amateur champions that the world has known. In his race with Daniels in England for the championship of the world, he would undoubtedly have won in the hundred yards contest, if the course had not contained four turns, each lap being only 25 yards, for while Healy gained on his rival in the actual swimming, Daniels proved more adroit in turning and kicking off, thus winning by a touch, the watches being unable to measure any difference in their time. But Daniels did not compete in the longer events, and Healy again and again proved himself the best man in the world in middle distance and long distance events.

It was not only at swimming that Healy excelled. He was one of the best amateur boxers in Sydney, and won a name for his forcible hitting, good nature under punishment, and scrupulous fairness. He was one of the finest public speakers I have ever heard. Always a great reader and thinker, Healy made speeches that always commanded rapt attention. He was, indeed, an orator, and, being possessed of a good memory, very often embellished his speeches with particularly good quotations. At one time he took an active part in an election campaign, and was sought after by the Liberals to speak at their meetings, which on several occasions he did with very great success.

In an article written to the Press by Cecil Healy in 1913, he warned the public of Germany's intention to make war at an early date. He had just returned from the Olympic Games in Sweden, having also spent some time in Germany, and referring to the fact that it was proposed to hold Olympic Games in Berlin in 1916 he said, "Will they ever be held, or will Germany by then have declared war on France and England?" The following comments on the war contained in a letter addressed to the writer of these reminiscences on June 9 last, just after he had obtained his commission in England, and on the eve of his departure again for France, will be interesting:—

"Until America ranged herself definitely on our side, I entertained strong misgivings as to what the ultimate issue would be, but when the U.S.A. declared war, the Teutons' chances of obtaining world domination vanished for ever, in my estimation. I at once ventured to prophesy amongst my coterie of friends that it would be Yankee brains, Yankee wealth and resources alone that would enable us to stave off defeat. The prediction, I need hardly add, was received with incredulity, if not ridicule, because at the time of which I speak things had a very different complexion to what they do to-day. Later on, when the first Yanks put in an appearance in France, they aroused contemptuous looks and remarks from Australian and Imperial soldiers. I thereupon took on myself to do a little propaganda work on their behalf. To any groups that I happened to come upon in our camp that were discussing them in an unfriendly spirit I related my own experiences for their edification. I told them that I had made one of a bunch of athletes who left Australia to compete against Americans at the Olympic Games, and who entertained the same poor opinion of their worth and ability. We were quite convinced, I assured them, that the Yanks were all talk, and that we had nothing to fear from them. But I explained that after we had had an opportunity of seeing for ourselves what they could do in the way of organisation, and had seen evidence of their shrewd and businesslike systems, and observed the fact that they were equipped with everything that brains could suggest and money buy, and moreover had met them as man to man (in most instances receiving a sound trouncing at their hands), we began to regard them from a very different standpoint of view. Ultimately we returned to Australia with the firm impression that the Yank was about as tough a proposition as would be met with in any hemisphere.

"Men are dying like flies in the effort to stem the Teutons' onward rush, and I do not think it is reasonable to expect to come through the ordeal alive. If I get off with the loss of a limb I will consider myself extremely lucky. I am prepared for the worst, and quite resigned to my fate. My conscience would not permit me to occupy a safe job indefinitely, notwithstanding that I was assured by my C.O. that I was doing good work where I was. It was against the repeatedly given advice of officer friends that I transferred from the Army Service Corps to the Infantry, but I had been under fairly heavy shell fire, and knew what I was doing. It was out of no love of the military that I took the step, as I hate and detest everything associated with the machine, having seen too many inconsistencies perpetrated in it, and too much of the seamy side of it. I was influenced by a desire to live up to the best expectations of my personal friends. This is what it amounted to. I cherish the hope that I will be able to sell my life dearly, and earn the respect of the men whom I command."

Years hence, when history recounts the deeds of Australians in the greatest world war of the centuries, few individual names will be mentioned, for so many heroic deeds have been performed, so many marvellous feats of bravery and endurance recorded by individuals, as well as by bodies of men, that the historian will pause and hesitate to accord fame to any where so many have richly deserved it. In the fighting at Pozieres, Villers Bretonneux, and many other places in France and Belgium the Australians excelled themselves, and they were again and again referrd to by General Haig and the French generals in terms of the very highest commendation. Perhaps one of their most difficult and probably important undertakings was the capture of Mont St. Quentin in the fighting that took place between August 28 and 31 of this year. Here temporarily the Germans held up the British forces just when they were commencing to get well into the stride of their great offensive. The country was ideal for defence but frightful for an attack. Mont St. Quentin stands like a sentinel, guarding Peronne, which lies on low ground in a bend of the Somme. The Bapaume road from Peronne runs up over the nearer side of Mont St. Quentin, and above it rises a series of naked clay cliffs. Bare green slopes to the north and south make it difficult for troops to advance without great peril.

The attacking Australians had to contend against heavy artillery from the northward, but they gradually, though with utmost difficulty, forced their way onwards, although the Germans counter-attacked them fifteen times in 24 hours. Holding these attacks up tenaciously they again battled on till they had won the whole crest of the mountain. It was in the early stages of this attack on Mont St. Quentin at dawn on August 29, and while leading his men to a glorious victory, that Cecil Healy fell. A brother officer who saw him fall has described the scene as follows:—"Out in front of his platoon he and another officer raced forward to clear a copse on the heights in front of them from which an intense machine gun was mowing down their men. Healy, through his fearlessness, supplied the enemy with too good a target to miss. A bullet caught him in the neck and he fell. While lying wounded a burst of machine-gun fire got him on the breast. When he fell a stretcher-bearer ran over to him, and while bandaging him up was unfortunately wounded himself. Comrades crawling across to Healy asked him where he was hit, but he was too far gone to answer. He was breathing very heavily and making a good fight for his life. But he died an hour after being hit. It was his first stunt, and unfortunately it was his last. For the first time under heavy fire, he displayed splendid coolness and courage. He died a true soldier—leading his men, and he has left a name that will be cherished by all who knew him, just as his record in the athletic world can always be recalled with feelings of admiration and respect."

So he died, as gallant a man as ever lived, and his remains lie buried at the edge of the Sword Wood, just west of the Somme Canal where it runs west of Peronne.

THE CHURCHES.

MISSION WORK AMONG ABORIGINES.

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Aborigines' Inland Mission, held in the Pitt-street Congregational School Hall recently. The annual reports, which were of a most encouraging nature, stated that four new mission stations were opened during the year—at Gayndah (Q.), Tweed Heads, Bulgandramine, and Walgett (N.S.W.), and three more missionaries accepted, making a total of ten mission stations and twenty-one out-stations, with seventeen missionaries ministering to 1400 aborigines. The report drew attention to the large number yet unreached by the gospel—probably about 70,000. This constituted an urgent call to the Churches of Australia. A number of the aborigines were on active service. The receipts for the year amounted to £935, including £60 subscribed by the aborigines themselves. A large number of donations in kind were also received.

During the meeting addresses were delivered by Miss M. Brown, missionary, of Condobolin, and Mr. H. G. Harward, of the City Temple. Of special interest was the testimony given by the aboriginal king of Port Stephens. The director of the mission (Mr. L. W. Long) presided over the gathering.

This afternoon the Archbishop of Sydney will conduct a confirmation service at St. Andrew's Cathedral. To-morrow morning he will preach at the Cathedral in connection with the jubilee of its consecration, and at night he will preach at Haberfield. Next week the Archbishop will conduct confirmation services as follows:—Monday, Croydon; Tuesday, King's School, Parramatta; Wednesday, Camden; Thursday, St. Paul's, Burwood.

The Rev. R. E. Woodhouse, who has been attached to All Saints' Church, Singleton, during the last two and a half years, has been transferred to the charge of the Church of England at Toronto.

The jubilee celebrations in connection with St. Andrew's Cathedral will be continued tomorrow. Mendelssohn's oratorio "St. Paul," which was to have been rendered by the choir in the afternoon, has been postponed until Sunday afternoon, December 22.

At the November meeting of the Australian Board of Missions of the Anglican Church the following resolutions were passed:—

> We, the Australian Board of Missions, record our high appreciation of the life and work of the late Rev. Copland King, M.A., Th. Soc., for 27 years mission priest in New Guinea. We recognise with thankfulness to Almighty God the valuable service rendered by him to the Church as the pioneer evangelist, translator of Scriptures and prayer book into several dialects in New Guinea, and a devoted minister of the Word and sacraments. We fervently hope that his example of faith, patience, and perseverance may inspire many Australian priests to follow him in service, and that it may lead to more adequate support in prayer and gifts for the mission to which he devoted his life. We extend our deep sympathy to the Bishop of New Guinea and the mission, and the the relatives of our dear friend and fellow worker in their great loss, and that of the Church in Australia.
> The Australian Board of Missions offers to Mrs. Stone Wigg sympathy in the loss sustained by the death of her husband, and places on record its sense of the great services rendered to the Church by Bishop Stone Wigg as Bishop of New Guinea, and his unfailing inspiration in the cause of the mission work of the Church.

During Advent Archbishop Kelly will preach at St. Mary's Cathedral every Sunday morning. He will be present at the secondary schools' tennis tournament at Double Bay Tennis Grounds next Wednesday, and on Thursday he will make a visitation to Chatswood, and hold a confirmation.

Commencing to-morrow the Rev. Father J. Forster, S.J., will conduct a week's retreat for the Children of Mary at St. Augustine's, Balmain.

The new Roman Catholic Bishop of Forbes-Wilcannia, Dr. Hayden, received a civic reception at Forbes, and was presented with an address of welcome.

Mrs. Laughton, widow of the late Rev. J. B. Laughton, formerly of Orange, has died after a short illness.

Mrs. Laughton, widow of the late Rev. A. B. Laughton, formerly of Orange, has died.

The Rev. George Logan, of Maclean, has accepted a call to Chatswood Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. W. D. McIlwraith, B.A., of Grafton, has been appointed clerk of the Presbytery of Clarence, vice Mr. Logan.

The Rev. E. J. Stacey, of the Congregational Church, Broken Hill, has returned there after collecting in Sydney and elsewhere towards the erection of a Sunday-school at Broken Hill.

A new Methodist Church at Croydon Park will be opened this afternoon by Mrs. J. C. Stone. The Rev. F. W. Hynes, superintendent of the circuit, will preside over the ceremony, and the president of the Conference will participate.

The results of the banneret competition in connection with the Methodist Sunday-school scholars' examination are as follows:—Schools with enrolment not exceeding 74, Malebo; not exceeding 100, Roseville; 125, Concord; 150, Orange; 200, Mosman; 250, Bondi; 300, Waverley. To retain a banneret permanently, a school must win it three years in succession. This has been achieved by the three lastnamed schools.

On Sunday last the Mortdale Churches Patriotic League held a memorial service for Australians who had fallen at the front. From 1300 to 1400 persons were present. Short addresses were given by Mr. T. J. Ley, M.L.A. (chairman) the Rev. Adrian Steel, and Staff-Captain Simms.

A Bible school has been opened at Dumbleton, near Hurstville, by the Church of Christ.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, resolutions were unanimously passed urging the Government to make 6 o'clock closing of liquor bars a permanent law, thereby saving the needless expense of a referendum, and endorsing the views of Mr. Grahame, Minister for Agriculture, concerning the wine industry, and suggesting that the land now under cultivation for wine grapes be planted with raisin and table grapes.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has made arrangements for a musical afternoon of praise and thanksgiving in the Conference Hall, C.M.M.-buildings, 139 Castlereagh-street, on Wednesday next, at 3 p.m. The vocal soloists will be Mrs. F. C. Brown, Miss Leonie Trevitt, and Miss Nellie Foulcher. A violin solo will be rendered by Miss Doreen Bowes, and the "Te Deum" and other hymns of praise will be sung.

On Saturday next the annual appeal of the Sydney City Mission is to be made throughout the suburbs, and at the City Railway Station and ferries. For 12 years past this appeal has found growing favour, until that of 1917 proved to be a record of £752. About 1000 collectors willingly give their time and services with the collecting boxes, and it is hoped that this year's income will pass all records.

To-morrow afternoon a thanksgiving service will be held at Birchgrove Park, Balmain. The choirs of the various churches and 500 senior pupils from the five Public schools in Balmain, numbering 1000 altogether, will sing the hymns.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish Esther Kahn's "Hymn of Peace," dedicated by permission to his Majesty King George V. This is altogether a happy and appropriate effort, the music possessing dignity, and a melodious theme that may be fairly described as impressive. The lyrics by Wrenn Sutton are rhythmical and poetic in their emphatic contrast between peace and war, closing with the lines "God's Peace shall reign triumphant while Truth and Justice stand." The musical setting is for solo voice with choral refrain, and the whole may be cordially recommended.

Messrs. Enoch and Sons, of London, forward some of their latest songs. Two of these are by May H. Brahe, namely, "A Song of Exile," which is of a tender and intimate character, and "Cuckoo Calls." The latter refers to the legend that the number of calls heard by an engaged lass at one time will represent the number of years before her marriage. The melody has a buoyant charm, with the cuckoo notes running through the accompaniment. "God's Bright Morning," by Arthur Meale, is a serious song of hope and consolation to sorrowing hearts, in which the voice is well supported, whilst the change of key to the major in the middle section is also effective. "Wales for Ever" ("Cymru Am Byth") is a song in Welsh and English, composed by Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, distinguished by a march-time of great animation and movement. "Inside the Bar" is a sailor's song, the lyrics by Gilbert H. Parker, the music by Edward Elgar, displaying a good deal of character, so that the whole ballad possesses a virile quality. "Away in the West," by Donald Crichton, is a lilting, joyous song of longing for "my dear little home in the glen." Henry Lowell's "Content" is a clever and melodious song, with a swinging rhythm and of bells in the accompaniment. "Blue Butterflies," by Staley Dickson, is light and dainty, without other special characterisation. Helena M. Bland's "Stars in the Dimsey," suggests a happy, simple rustic atmosphere, allied with animation. "A Rose Dream," by Cecil Cook, may be recommended as an attractive song with effective harmonisation of the accompaniment. Four songs under one cover by Gerald Carne are entitled "Our Village." The lyrics by Helen Taylor conjure up four aspects of life in some quiet little English hamlet, and the simple music cleverly follows the suggestion of the verse.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish Esther Kahn's "En Avant," a marche militaire for pianoforte solo, dedicated to the A.I.F. Miss Lilian Frost has played the music at the Town Hall. It is dashing and martial, and the trio is especially melodious.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

TO BAGDAD.

Mr. A. Tillotson Clark, the author of "To Bagdad with the British," is an American, who was an undergraduate at Princeton University when an appeal came for volunteers to serve in the American Y.M.C.A. organisations with the British armies. Mr. Clark responded, and was delighted to learn that he was assigned to Mesopotamia. The very name spelt romance to him with its associations of Haroun al Raschid, Sinbad the Sailor, and all the glamour of Oriental legend. His expectations were not entirely fulfilled; true, there was romance, but it was of a very different kind from that of the Arabian Nights. Bagdad (when at last he saw it) was a mere mud-built Eastern town with squalid bazaars and filthy lanes; Mesopotamia, the reputed Garden of Eden, was a desert with a few miserable native villages huddled along the rivers. So much for anticipation. But soon Mr. Clark found in compensation another sort of romance, the true romance of endurance which suffered the extremes of hardship without a murmur, of resolution which refused to admit defeat, of human courage which simply for the sake of an idea, faced and finally conquered incredible difficulties.

Mr. Clark sees the Mesopotamian campaign as a great drama, in which each act ends with sensational "curtain," sometimes tragic, and, indeed, perhaps in no other theatre of war has the action been so complete in itself, the alternation of fortune so rapid, and the climax so dramatic. The expedition began in a small way; a division was sent by the Indian Government to protect the oil pipe line from Persia to the Gulf. To do this effectively it was necessary to advance some distance up the delta. But "the desire for success grows by what it feeds on." The occupation of one point led to that of another, and it was not long before the expedition found itself committed to an enterprise for which it was quite inadequate. In operations in open country, especially where the fighting has to follow several rivers, it is hard to know where to stop. The objectives are liable to become indefinite. But in vain did the War Office advise that "a safe game must be played in Mesopotamia," in vain did General Townshend warn his headquarters of the risks that his force ran. Warnings were unheeded; the pyrrhic victory of Ctesiphon led to the siege and fall of Kut-el-Amara, and the temporary eclipse of British prestige in the East.

Great as was the disaster of Kut the defenders were in no way to blame. They did all that mortal man could do, and Mr. Clark, who tells the story of the siege with some fresh detail, believes that their resistance will rank among the great defences of the world. Nor were their efforts in vain. This war has shown us the need of a broad perspective. The siege of Kut immobilised a large force of Turkish regulars, and Kurdish irregulars, who might otherwise have helped in a drive towards the Canal, have prevented the fall of Erzerum, or even swept eastwards towards India through Persia. "It is impossible to tell how much good may have come from the sacrifice of Townshend." But the loss of Kut was nevertheless a severe setback, which was directly due to mismanagement. The interest of the public was aroused in this remote sideshow; the Royal Commission followed. The Commander-in-Chief was held to have exercised an "over-confident optimism," but all connected with the affair were found responsible to a greater or lesser degree. "Everyone had a share in the bungle. Some were found to blame for misstatements; some knew things they did not tell. Some had used poor judgment; some had been ambitious; some had had fears, and had been too reticent; some had seen the chance to grasp at a straw, and had grasped. Some had been just careless. Many had been overworked." But the reverse in Mesopotamia had immediate effects; failure had to be redeemed. Mesopotamia was no longer only a "side show." The Imperial authorities relieved the overtaxed Indian Government of its supervision. This time there must be no mistakes, no lack of foresight, no inadequate preparation. Busra soon became a vast clearing house, with miles of shipping, acres of cantonments, and mountains of supplies, all called into being as if by the Djinns who once presided at miracles in Mesopotamia. Then the pendulum swung again with a heavy swing. The swing carried the British to Bagdad—and this time there was no recoil. There was hard fighting on the advance, but the organisation of transport was immeasurably improved. The resistance of the Turk became less stubborn as his lines of defence fell; Mr. Clark throughout his book insists on the point that, though the Turk is a good man in the trenches, he has no aptitude for "open warfare" against a disciplined force. Mr. Clark's diagnosis has been confirmed by recent events in Palestine. And so, sometimes by steps, sometimes by bounds, the British approached Bagdad and took it. They were welcomed by the remaining inhabitants, who had found little difference between the "requisitioning" of the Germans and Turks and the frank "looting" of the Kurds and Arabs. They had been skinned bare under Turkish rule; they rejoiced at the coming of law and order. Mr. Clark hoped that the news of the taking of Bagdad would reach General Townshend in the island in the Bosphorus where he was held prisoner. General Townshend has since received and brought even greater tidings. The book is an interesting one, which throws some vivid sidelights on the Mesopotamian sideshow. The author has an immense admiration for British phlegm and pluck, and proclaims to the world that whatever blunders the "heads" may have made, the Tommies and the Indian troops did their duty unflinchingly, took their gruel unmurmuringly, and left a record of heroism and endurance which cannot be surpassed in any theatre of war. Mr. Clark's record stops with the capture of Bagdad. Till America's declaration of war he perforce had been a non-combatant. As soon as the news reached Bagdad he whisked himself off and got a commission in the United States' Flying Corps. In this he has been able to emulate the exploits of Sinbad's "magic carpet," which he sought but did not find in its original home. (Appleton: Dymock's.)

AUSTRALIAN POETRY.

Mr. C. J. Brennan belongs to a school of Australian letters which, so far from courting popularity, has spurned it with both hands. He has the distinction of being our most "difficult" poet. He has out-Browninged Browning and outdone Mr. B. O'Dowd. He has packed thought and condensed expression, and has added a symbolism and an allusiveness which often left his readers groping in the dark behind him. But the war has moved him to greater directness. "The Chant of Doom" contains some of the best poetry which the war has produced in Australia, and if the author may regret the need which has impelled him to renounce his obscureness he will have his compensation. For these verses will live; they breathe a patriotism which transcends the noisy platitudes of the street. Mr. Brennan's sonorous declamation has at times the ring of the Old Testament. "Those who are not with us are against us," and on those who are not with us he pours out illimitable wrath. He has a tremendous faculty for denunciation; his righteous indignation turns against the shirker, the rebel, the false prophet, and the pacificist demagogue no less than the German. He does not mince words; he uses stark adjectives and unusual nouns. He does not indulge in satire, the amiable weapon of peace, but in the bitter irony that flays. He fulminates in lines like the roll of thunder; he is often intentionally brutal. But although Mr. Brennan is a forthright hater, he is never hysterical, never undignified, and he can be a devout and eloquent lover also. He is not only a Jeremiah inveighing against the iniquities of his adversaries, but one who delights to honour the deeds of the worthy. There is a fine sonnet to Kitchener, who lies buried "Where the great surge sets past the Orcades"—a sonorous epitaph in itself. There are verses to France which emblazon her honour in golden lines. But chiefly Mr. Brennan is the prosecutor with a voice of thunder. We forbear to quote from him because quotation once begun would be endless.

It is an excellent idea to have published a selected and revised edition of Mr. Henry Lawson's poems, which will be welcomed by his many admirers. Mr. Lawson's work is curiously uneven; it rises to the heights and it also has its abysses of bathos. But this selection shows him at his best, and a very good best it is. The choice of poems has been judicious, though everyone will have his particular grievance in that he misses some old favourites, and will feel that certain of these verses could have made room for them with advantage. But it is impossible to please everyone, and this selection shows Mr. Lawson in all his range and power.

There is a critical preface by Mr. David M'Kee Wright, which analyses Mr. Lawson's work, and very fairly estimates his place in Australian literature. Mr. Wright is by no means blind to its shortcomings, its technical deficiencies, its occasional crudities, and its prejudices. But in spite of these, nay even perhaps because of them, Lawson remains the poet who for the past thirty years has most surely interpreted the spirit of Australia. "He is," claims Mr. Wright, "the first articulate voice of the real Australia. Other singers in plenty the southern continent knows and has known; but one alone has found the heart of the new land, its rugged strength, its impatience of old restraints, its hopes and fears and despairs, its irreverence and grim humour and the tenderness and courage that underlie them all. Lawson is never exquisite, as are our greater lyrists. The axemarks show in his work everywhere; but he is sincere and strong and true. This edition contains as a frontispiece the well-known portrait by Mr. John Longstaff, and nine admirable illustrations by Mr. P. Leason, who proceeds from strength to strength, and has contrived to capture the atmosphere and sentiment of the poems most successfully. (Angus and Robertson.)

A FIELD-MARSHAL'S REMINISCENCES.

In "Winnowed Memories" Field-Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood gossips agreeably and discursively about the incidents of a long and busy career. The author is a link between the old and the new armies of Britain; he first saw active service in the Crimea, and later fought in India, Egypt, Zululand, and the Transvaal; he held important commands at home, and at one time was Governor of Natal; he knew all the distinguished soldiers, British and European, of his day, and his adventures in literature made him free of another sort of society. Naturally he has abundant material for reminiscences, which in this book follow no set plan, but flit hither and thither episodically as one anecdote reminds him of another.

One can open "Winnowed Memories" at any point with the assurance of finding something interesting, but Sir Evelyn Wood is most happy when he is speaking of the army, and he gives us an idea of the improvement in personnel and training which the last few years have seen. The British soldier used to be intensely conservative. In 1854 he still used the rifle with which Waterloo had been won; at the Crimea whole divisions did not possess a rifled weapon. Even in the late 'Eighties the main artillery exercise in which batteries were sedulously drilled was an evolution "of as much direct use in battle training as dancing a cachucha would be to a prizefighter when emerging from his corner." The South African war revealed the bad results of an antiquated system, and the lessons learned there were turned to account in the interval before this war. But in no branch of the army has the improvement been so marked as in the medical services. Sir Evelyn Wood describes their former insufficiency and incompetence; it was again not until the South African war that the authorities realised that a large and thoroughly trained establishment was vital if the soldier was to regain his health and recover from his wounds. But the conditions in peace were worse even than those in war; there was no preventive medicine in the army. The author tells us how, in the middle of the 19th century, the soldiers were recruited mainly from farm labourers and journeymen, healthy classes. The medical examination was strict, and those who fell seriously ill were invalided out into the civilian population. One would imagine that the death rate of an army of picked men in their prime would be lower than that of the civilians, yet the latter suffered less than half the mortality of the soldiers even in peace. The reason was chiefly lack of sanitation and fresh air. The soldiers were herded into crowded, undrained barracks constructed in defiance of the most elementary principles of hygiene. The horses were much better off; "the ventilation of Government stables received great attention; the Government allowed our soldiers to be poisoned by foul air." It was thought that the soldier was "toughened" by such a regimen. But things have changed very much since then, and Sir Evelyn Wood is convinced that, instead of being impaired by what the old school suspiciously regarded as "pampering," the moral of the soldier has been infinitely improved. (Cassell).

RECENT FICTION.

There is a saying that three generations will see a self-made family from the gutter back to the gutter. Miss Elinor Mordaunt illustrates the reverse of the process in "The Pendulum," an analysis of heredity and environment in conflict. Michael Saere is the descendant of an old Irish house, once notorious for its reckless escapades, but now gone to seed. His father had run away from home, come down in the world and coarsened in the struggle for bread. But Michael, though brought up as a child of the people, is made of very different stuff, and is conscious of the difference which becomes more marked as the years wear on. For all his democracy, he is an aristocrat to the finger tips; for all his fierce disdain of birth and his aggressive independence, he knows that in his heart of hearts he is proud to be a Saere and eager to be worthy of their tradition. This duality of temperament affects every activity of his existence; it colours his home, his lovemaking, and his politics, for Michael is an aspirant Labour leader who arouses by turns the most fervent admiration and the most intense indignation in his followers. War makes him see his way more clearly. Certainly Michael is no hero; he is hard, self-centred, something of a prig, redeemed chiefly by his devotion to his mother. But he is a subtle character whom Miss Mordaunt has drawn with skill. There are some interesting glimpses of political and industrial life, and an interlude in Melbourne, where Michael not only becomes engaged to a plutocrat's daughter, but is promised a safe Labour seat in the House of Representatives any time he likes to take it. (Cassell; Dymock's.)

A.I.F. MEMORIAL.

OVER £57,000 COLLECTED.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the A.I.F. Memorial Fund it was announced that the total collections amounted to over £54,000, of which £39,579 19s 5d remained in hand, after distributing £2000 to the New South Wales Kindergarten Union, and £5000 to the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League, and paying expenses in connection with the collections.

The honorary organiser (Brigadier-General A. Jobson, D.S.O.) reported that over £500 had been received since the preparation of the audited statement. This sum, with the donation of £3000 promised by the New South Wales Government, made the grand total over £57,000, and virtually gave the hon. treasurers over £43,000 in hand.

It was stated that, at the request of the trustees of the A.I.F. Memorial Fund, Mr. Hemsley had drafted a bill, with the idea of placing the fund on a sound basis, in the hands of trustees. The draft had been approved by Mr. Adrian Knox, K.C., and copies had been forwarded to the trustees and the Attorney-General, and the bill was being considered by the trustees.

BOY STRIKERS.

About 80 boys employed as glass-blowers' assistants at the Waterloo works of the Australian Glass Manufacturing Company, Ltd., went on strike yesterday.

A member of the firm explained yesterday that during the peace celebrations these employees were away from work for three days, and they were paid a day's pay for the time they were away. However, the boys demanded full pay for the three days they were absent from the works.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The Ninth (Choral) Symphony of Beethoven is to be repeated this afternoon by the Conservatorium orchestra and choir, and as it is so seldom heard, something further may be said of the impressions, past and present, caused by it. The invaluable programme-notes issued by the State Conservatorium are probably founded upon Sir George Grove's masterly commentary on the work, which used to be published and republished in the more elaborate programme books of the Richter concerts at St. James's Hall, London (since demolished). This analysis was prefaced by Richard Wagner's nine-page rhapsody of praise, which pre-supposes a close connection between the first three movements and the choral finale. Grove gives sufficient reasons for showing this assumption to be incorrect. In Wagner's youth there was a general diversity of opinion about the Symphony. Many people to this day must be inclined to side with those early critics who found "the three instrumental movements sublime, but the choral portion ridiculous." The last word, however, should be softened to "incongruous." Fanny Mendelssohn-Bartholdy described this choral portion as "a burlesque." The great composer's sister, a pianist, composer, and woman of the highest cultivation, knew the work intimately through hearing her brother conduct it at Leipsic. Doubtless what she saw, and did not fear to point out, was this incongruous element in the choral portion. Wagner must have seen it, and might have explained it, defended it, or might have trenchantly criticised it, but he thought it wiser to pass it over in a whirlwind of vaguely admiring words. An attentive perusal of the "Ode to Joy" shows that Schiller was inspired by the great and exalted idea of universal brotherhood, of joy arising from eternal peace. The verses throughout are on a high devotional plane. "O, ye millions, kneel before Him." Beethoven's theme, on the other hand, is essentially of the earth, earthy. It lacks dignity, it suggests merry-making of a humble character, or the noisy effervescence of a street celebration. The variations on it do not conceal this basic characteristic; did not do so even when rendered in the Town Hall by the Sheffield Choir, in 1911, with the group of English solo-artists brought over for the festival, and with whom no fault could be found. It was then, as it will be again this afternoon, the exquisitely beautiful orchestral movements of the work that elicit enthusiastic admiration, and have, in fact, immortalised the Beethoven Symphony as a whole.

The writer of "A Woman's Letter" continues her tour of the London theatres with a visit to "The Live Wire," of which she remarks:—The Spy Play is not nearly played out yet. Others are to come. "The Live Wire" is one of the best of this class of drama that I have seen. It is neatly conceived by its authors, Messrs. Sydney Blow and Douglas Hoare. Not for the first time is the public shown the inner workings of a large newspaper enterprise. "The Live Wire" might stand as a model for one of the largest enterprises in this country, which hits hard, say a certain wrong till its public wishes, some light relief might be looked for. The play opens at Sir Harvey Merstham's country house somewhere on the East Coast. An air raid is in progress, and secretaries with notebook and pencil in hand are told to "take it down" for the purposes of a "story." It is supposed to be the result of German spies in seaside places. The whole play is on these lines very cleverly done; for each one suspects the other of being a spy, and it is not until near the fall of the curtain that one spots the criminal. He is one of the employees in the editorial office, and it is through an adroit advertisement that his plan came off. You have exciting scenes through the coming of a prisoner wrongly arrested for a breach of regulations, and from him we learned that he was on the track of a spy, and he runs him to earth in the person of one of the most trusted men in the "Daily Wire" office. The disgust of the proprietor of that paper and many others can be imagined. The piece was cleverly played by Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Mr. G. M. Hallard, and Donald Calthrop, lately "The Boy" at The Adelphi. Then there was Alexander Scott Gatty as the Spy, and perhaps second to none was George Shelton, whose Irish brogue made him a delight.

"Katinka," which will reach 80 performances before the production of "Oh, Oh, Delphine" on December 7, owes its artistic success to an especially strong vocal cast, embracing three leading sopranos, with Gladys Moncrieff in the big singing role as the heroine. It is a little over three years since this brilliant lyric soprano was last in Sydney, half the period of her entire career, and in that interval of time she has matured into a capable artist, possessed of aplomb as an actress. Two years of her long absence were devoted to a tour of South Africa with a J. C. Williamson combination, with which she played leading roles in such pieces as "The Girl in a Taxi," "High Jinks," and "Betty." The last named has not been produced in Australia. Miss Moncrieff describes it as a simple and delightful little piece of comedy calibre, and remarks of her doings generally:—"I stayed for two years at the Cape, visiting all the big centres, as well as Salisbury and Bulawayo, and the experience was invaluable. We met Ruth Lincoln at Salisbury, as her husband had a station in the district, but I have heard lately that she has resumed stage work. Since my return I have played long seasons in Melbourne in the "Pink Lady" (in which I was replaced in Sydney by Ethel Cadman) and in "Katinka" (about 100 performances), which accounts for my extended absence. You may remember that when my parents, who belong to the well-known Scottish family of Moncrieff, left Bundaberg (where I was born) and Townsville, my prize-winnings at Eisteddfods led to an introduction in Sydney to Mr. Hugh Ward. I sang to Dame Melba at a chorus voice trial on the stage, during which the diva took me up to E in altissimo. This resulted in assiduous study under Mrs. Hugh Ward for 18 months, and she skilfully and successfully reformed my voice so as to equalise the middle register. When the English Gilbert-Sullivan company came out I made one or two fugitive appearances, beginning with Casilda, but the first character I took regularly was in Brisbane as Elsie Maynard. When the company returned to Her Majesty's, Sydney, I sang Josephine in "H.M.S. Pinafore" on November 28, 1914, and from that success I never looked back. I sang all the leading soprano roles in succession to Ruth Lincoln throughout New Zealand, and again on the return to Sydney in June and July of 1915, the date of my last appearance here."

Owing to Christmas changes at all the J. C. Williamson Theatres, the new musical play, "Oh, Oh, Delphine," will run from December 7 for 12 nights only. The Christmas attraction at Her Majesty's will be the new revue "Hullo Everybody," by the same company as that which appeared in "The Bing Boys." Miss Starr's season will be continued at the Criterion with "Nobody's Wife" next Saturday, after which the Christmas production will bring forward a fresh combination in "Friendly Enemies."

"The Thirteenth Chair" company, after a long and prosperous tour, ended their travels under the cloud of the pneumonia epidemic at Auckland, where Miss Tien Hogue suffered a severe illness, and finally all the Australian artists were quarantined on reaching Sydney. Miss Margaret Wycherley and Mr. Brinsley Shaw were detained at Auckland to the serious disarrangement of important plans. The star was under engagement to create the leading role at New York of Bayard Veiller's new play "Set a Thief," for which a date had been booked for Boxing Night. Mr. Shaw was due for picture acting under Mr. and Mrs. Smalley (Universal Film Company) at Los Angeles. Mr. Gaston Mervale, who was released from quarantine during the week, with Ian Maclaren, and ten other artists, made but a brief stay here, hurrying over to Melbourne to rehearse "Friendly Enemies," a powerful drama, which Mr. George Highland is producing at the Sydney Criterion for J. C. Williamson. The "Potash and Perlmutter" group will appear in the new piece. The actor, whose powerful impersonation of Svengali to the Trilby of Nellie Stewart during his last visit is still remembered, may reappear in the character should it be found possible to secure a suitable representative of the Parisian model.

THE CASE FOR THE CROWN.

"This only confirms what I have heard," Archenfield said. "Does he spend much time in Lyddmouth?"

"Two or three days a week as a rule," Mockett said. "He has got rooms here, and spends most of his evenings at the Gaiety Music Hall."

"Do you think he will be there to-night?" Archenfield asked.

"I should think it is a dead certainty. Lyddmouth is always full of people at race times; we have all sorts of people here, from the aristocracy downwards, and, of course, the usual quantity of young mugs with money. The lounge at the Gaiety Music Hall is always full of 'em. It's a happy hunting ground for sharks like Flint, and you are pretty certain to find him there after 10 o'clock to-night."

"Then I think I'll go," Archenfield said. "No thanks, Mr. Mockett, I think I'll go by myself. So far as I am aware, Flint has no idea as to my identity; but if I am seen with you he may ask questions. I have my own particular reasons why the fellow should not know of my interest in Mrs. Molyneux. I have my man waiting at the Dragon Hotel with my car, and therefore I shall not want to trouble you any more."

"Well, sir, come and see us when you like," Mockett said. "And if there is anything I can do for you I'll do it with pleasure."

Archenfield turned his back presently upon the hospitable bookmaker and his wife, and made his way through the crowded streets of the great seaport town in the direction of the Gaiety Music Hall. He knew the streets fairly well, for he had been there on a good many occasions, so that he did not have to inquire his way. He skirted presently along the docks where the mean streets crowded with public-houses and lodging-houses represented so many traps for the sailors of the world. Here were low boxing saloons and dancing establishments, and further back from the front the opium dens where the Chinese and Malays gathered to smoke themselves into insensibility. In the latter Archenfield was more or less at home, for he had visited most of them from time to time in search of local colour for a drama which had been one of his greatest successes. As he passed one set of dock gates a thin, cadaverous, white-faced man in a blue overall rose up like a ghost and confronted him. This battered human derelict greeted him eagerly.

"Want to go down the street to-night?" he asked.

"Not just now, my friend," Archenfield said. "Oh, it's you, Jim, isn't it? Where have you been lately?"

"Been nowhere," the man said. "Had no money, not a penny for the last two days."

The speaker, a half-breed hanger-on and tout for some of the opium dens along the water front, touched the brim of his ragged cap and held out his hand. Archenfield produced a shilling and dropped it in the clutching claw.

"There you are," he said. "Come over and see me on Sunday morning. It's not a long walk, but it may be worth your while. I may require you to keep an eye on some one for me, somebody whom I suspect is in one of those dens of yours at the present moment. That'll do. And now, drop back and don't follow me another yard."

Obediently enough the human wreck dropped back into the shadows and was seen no more. Archenfield turned away thoughtfully, his mind engaged upon the problem before him and the new development that had just occurred to him, and this chain of ideas occupied him till he came at length to the big staring front of the Gaiety Music Hall, blazing with electric light and luringly attractive with its big posters. In the vestibule a florid-looking individual with a vast expanse of white shirt front and a palpably paste diamond in the centre thereof pulled off his hat with a flourish as he caught sight of Archenfield.

"Good evening, Mr. Archenfield," he said. "Very pleased to see you here again, sir. Must be months since you were here last. Have you got another drama on? Come here to look up some local colour, perhaps?"

"Well, you might have made a worse guess, Cheeson," Archenfield said.

"Something in the racing line, perhaps?" the manager suggested. "If so, you've come at the right time. We've got a rare squash inside. Everybody from the aristocracy downwards. Anybody in particular you're looking for?"

"Well, no," Archenfield said. "By the way, do you know a client of yours called Flint?"

The man with the shirt front shrugged his shoulders.

"I know nothing good about him," he said. "So far as I am concerned, I should be glad if he stayed away altogether. A man like that hanging round a music hall only does it harm. And we have to be so particular over our license nowadays, what with people writing to newspapers and visiting magistrates and all the rest of it. Two or three months ago there was a nasty card swindling case connected with a young man who was staying in one of the hotels here. They made him drunk and robbed him of over two thousand pounds. And when the case got before magistrates it came out that the whole conspiracy was hatched here, and that Flint was at the bottom of it. Of course, he got off scot free, as he always does, but the superintendent of police told me that if anything of the kind happened again he would see that I lost my license. Of course, I do the best I can, but all the same I should be jolly glad to see Flint's back for the last time."

Archenfield paid for his admission and strolled into the lounge at the back of the hall, which was filled, as the manager had said, with all sorts and conditions of men and women. No one appeared to be paying the slightest attention to what was going on on the stage; indeed, it would have been difficult to say why the great majority of the shady crowd were there at all. For a little time Archenfield stood back in the shadow of the dress circle and looked about him. It was some little time before he saw Flint seated by himself at a little table in an alcove moodily smoking and refreshing himself from time to time from the long glass at his elbow. Stephen Flint was in evening dress as usual, as indeed was a large majority of the men gathered about him. From the way he glanced up from time to time and surveyed the passing crowd, it was evident that he was waiting for someone; but though Archenfield stayed there till long after the clock had struck eleven, nothing happened to reward him for his patience. He was just turning away when two figures brushed past him and walked straight across to the alcove where Flint was sitting.

Archenfield drew a deep breath as he saw that the men in question were two Chinamen, the same two Chinamen beyond the shadow of a doubt that he had seen quite recently in the library of the Red House. Of that he was convinced. The two men seated themselves one on either side of Flint, and the latter summoned a passing waiter to his side. And there they sat, talking in eager whispers, till the performance was over.

CHAPTER XXIV.

OUT OF THE PAST.

Archenfield lingered in the comparative darkness of the mean street in which the Gaiety Music Hall stood much like a brilliant insect against a background of sombreness and decay. He waited there with that sublime patience of his, as he always waited when he was on the track of anything vital. He meant to throw away no chance, even of the smallest scrap of information. And presently he was rewarded, for he saw Flint emerge with the two Chinamen following him like faint blue shadows. They walked down the road, still eagerly discussing a matter that seemed to greatly concern them, gesticulating violently, and ever and again Archenfield could catch a word or two that proved to him that they were in anything but accord on the matter in dispute. It was getting very late now, and the streets were practically deserted, so that it was a difficult matter for Archenfield to keep his quarry in sight and follow them discreetly thirty or forty yards behind. Then they turned at length into a side street and disappeared into one of the mean houses there, a house that Archenfield knew very well as an opium den, and into which, in the circumstances, it was impossible for him to follow.

He was turning away to retrace his footsteps when the door of a neighbouring house opened, and a man came hurriedly down the broken steps; so hurriedly, indeed, that it looked as if he had been impelled by force, then, muttering angrily to himself, he wheeled sharply round and came swiftly in Archenfield's direction. They met almost face to face under a lamp post and exchanged glances. Then the stranger stepped in the middle of the road, and vanished in the gloom, leaving Archenfield standing there surprised and shaken, and filled with a certain almost unreasonable fear.

"Chang Hen," he muttered. "Chang Hen" himself, beyond the shadow of a doubt. What is he doing here? Is it possible that he has come all this way——"

Archenfield broke off abruptly and made his way as speedily as possible to the hotel on the other side of the town where Chim Fang and the car were awaiting him. The Chinese was seated huddled up on the driving seat in his usual patient attitude; he hardly moved as Archenfield jumped up by his side and gave him a sign to start. It was not until they were well in the country that Archenfield broke the silence.

A LIFETIME COMPANION.
THE BEALE PIANO, MADE IN AUSTRALIA.
Each piece of timber used in a Beale Piano has been perfectly kiln dried to prevent warping or splitting. We have found this absolutely necessary to ensure tone permanency. Fine workmanship and painstaking effort are wasted if poor materials are used. The Beale Piano is built to endure, and that it does endure and give satisfaction is evidenced by the fact that seldom is one seen for sale in auction rooms, etc. This kiln-drying of timber is only another instance of the determination of the Beale organisation to keep under their own control all those vital processes in the manufacture of a good piano.
BEALE and CO., Ltd., 339 George-street, Sydney. Factory: 41-47 Trafalgar-street, Annandale. Branches throughout Commonwealth.

ENNIS and WELBECK PIANOS are building up a solid reputation for beauty of tone and touch, and for general all round excellence they stand unrivalled in Sydney to-day. Large Shipment just landing. Call or write us for illustrations, etc.

HOW WOULD YOU JUDGE A PIANO?
By its casework, its tone, and its touch. But all of these things may be excellent whilst the piano is new. The question is: "How long will they endure." Here you must take into account the standing of the maker, and of the firm who sells you the piano. No maker of repute will put his name on a faulty piano. No reputable agent will sell a worthless instrument.
Let us show you our splendid Pianos.

APPLICATION FOR LEASE FOR OYSTER CULTURE.

It is hereby Notified, for general information, that the undermentioned person has applied to lease for oyster culture the portion of land described below. A tracing, showing the position of the portion, may be inspected at this Department (Fisheries Branch) daily, excepting Saturdays, between 11 and 3 o'clock, and on Saturdays between 11 and 12 o'clock. Any person may, by memorial to the Chief Secretary, within thirty days from the date of this notice, and on grounds to be stated in such memorial, pray that a lease of the portion may not be granted. All objections on account of interference with alleged hauling grounds must be accompanied by a statutory declaration by one or more of the licensed fishermen so objecting that they have personally known bona fide hauls to have been made over the area during the preceding twelve months. They must also be prepared to make a test haul with their own nets when requested to do so.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

RED CROSS NURSES ABROAD.

It will be remembered that more than two years ago the New South Wales division of the Australian Red Cross conceived the idea of sending 20 nurses and two masseuses to help in the French hospitals. The Australian Jockey Club, on hearing of this plan, immediately offered to pay for the equipment and the maintenance of the nurses for six months. From time to time this generous allowance has been renewed, and the nurses have not cost the Red Cross Society a single penny. Now, the Jockey Club has notified the society that they intend to give a Christmas gift of £25 to each nurse and masseuse, those who are still on duty and also those who have returned to Australia.

The nurses have done excellent work in France, and have all occupied important positions. One was an anaesthetist in a large military hospital, and others have acted as matrons. Many of them have been in hospitals which have been bombed, and others have been stationed in the closest proximity to the firing line. Included in the nurses is the daughter-in-law of Sir Joseph and Lady Cook, whose husband has been on active service since the outbreak of war. At one of the hospitals in which Mrs. Cook was nursing a bomb came and shattered the building, causing a lot of damage. The four Australian nurses who were there went through the wards (which were, of course, in complete darkness) reassuring and comforting the men. In the morning one of the soldiers said: "Oh, how brave you were, how noble!" "But they little knew," said a nurse, "how our knees were trembling."

Colonel Hayward, writing on September 20, commented upon the very valuable assistance that the Red Cross nurses had given the French Government, and quoted several extracts from a letter he had received from the Director-General of the French Red Cross, who said: "We could never be too grateful to the Australian Red Cross Society for having placed this unit of nurses at our disposal, thereby bearing a notable part in the Empire's work for the sick and wounded soldiers of France."

THE EXETER SOUTHERN HOME.

The official opening of the Exeter Southern Red Cross Home by his Excellency the Governor has been fixed for Saturday, December 14, at 3 p.m. If the weather is good there should be a large and representative assemblage of people present at the opening of this beautiful home, which has been set apart for the use of shell-shock men who have played their part in the great struggle for liberty.

With the great news of the victory still ringing in our ears, and the feeling of intense thankfulness which must pervade the hearts of the whole Empire to-day, how better can we give vent to our feelings than by doing all in our power to tend the boys which have been spared to us and restore them to health and strength. And to those who have laid down their lives in the same cause, and cannot be with us in body on this day, surely we can honour them in no more fitting way than by caring for the comrades who fought by their sides and shared their dangers.

The response to the appeals for help has been magnificent, and the southern towns have done all in their power for the home which it is their privilege to support. The house itself has undergone certain changes and renovation, and is now being equipped and furnished to receive the men who will come into residence very soon after the opening ceremony. The home is ideal, and the grounds spacious and beautiful and the many people who have given their support cannot help feeling that the men who have been through all the trials and sufferings of war will have every chance to rest and recover after the strain of nervous tension they have been called upon to bear. A charming calendar of the home has been printed for 1919, which may be obtained from the secretary. When a war ceases and the enemy has yielded, the tension of public anxiety, is to a great extent removed, and a certain amount of reaction is bound to set in, but the men who have given us the liberty, which the whole world is rejoicing in to-day, have paid a heavy price, and borne the blows. The nation has an enormous responsibility and a sacred charge in the mending of the broken and shattered ones who have taken part in the fight against all that is opposed to the welfare and true advancement of humanity.

These are some of the reasons why we wish to see a great number of people show their interest in the opening of a Red Cross Home. Our enthusiasm and well-wishers will show our men who have returned and given so much for us that we appreciate their sacrifice and enter into the spirit which prompted them to fight for the Empire, and to lay the foundation-stone of honour and liberty, on which a great nation such as Australia promises to be, must assuredly be built.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

The entertainment which was to be given by Mrs. Hector Wilshire in St. James's Hall on December 9, in aid of the 17th Battalion Comforts Fund, has been postponed indefinitely. Will holders of tickets kindly return to the hon. secretary, 17th Battalion, Terranora-buildings, Reiby-lane.

There will be a special meeting at the Old Linen Depot, Town Hall basement, on Tuesday, December 2, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. MacKinnon and Major Edginton will address the meeting on the necessity for a constant supply of old linen and hospital dressings for our sick and wounded soldiers. Workers are urgently needed for this depot.

The Adelaide Art Gallery has purchased a silk fan, painted by Florence Mofflin, which was recently exhibited at the Loan Exhibition of Australian art at the National Gallery, Sydney, in which institution this artist is already represented.

Under the auspices of the Soldiers' Entertainments, the following concerts were arranged by Mrs. George Earp for the fortnight ending Saturday, November 30. The Cheer Oh Girls, the Blue Birds, and Mr. Bert. Morrison gave concerts on 18th, 19th, and 20th instant, respectively, which were the last concerts given to the A.I.F. at Liverpool. On Tuesday, 19th, Mr. Guy Martin gave a concert at the Engineers' Depot, Moore Park. On Wednesday, the Carlton Girls' Club entertained the soldiers at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, and on Thursday, 21st, the Mosman Mummers gave a performance at the Military Ward, Coast Hospital. On Saturday, 23rd instant, Miss Lurline Hammond entertained the guard of Holdsworthy Concentration Camp. The Carlton Girls' Club gave a concert at the Engineers' Depot, Moore Park, on Tuesday, 26th instant, and on Thursday, the Mosman Mummers gave a performance at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital and the Stafford Strollers and the Vagabonds' Orchestra entertained the soldiers at the Coast Hospital. On Saturday, the Stafford Strollers gave a concert at Holdsworthy Concentration Camp for the guard. In addition to these concerts, pictures were shown every night during the fortnight at Liverpool Camp.

WEDDING.

A wedding was solemnised at St. Paul's Church, Chatswood, by the Rev. E. Walker, between Leonard B., third son of the late Mr. B. R. and Mrs. Carver, of Hill End, New South Wales, and Phyllis Lucy, youngest daughter of the late Sidney Edward and Mrs. Tapner, of Chatswood. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. V. Harcourt Peate, and wore a frock of white organdi muslin and Malines lace, with a large tulle bow and wreath and veil. She also carried a sheath of lilies. Little Joy Peate was maid of honour, and wore a white organdi muslin frock, and carried a horseshoe of pink Dorothy Perkins roses. Owing to both the bride and bridegroom's brothers being on active service, only immediate relatives were present at the ceremony.

LATE MR. J. MASHMAN.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Mr. John Mashman, of Auburn, potter, who died on August 5 last. His estate is of the net value of £20,805, of which £11,878 is realty. Legacies to employees of Mashman Bros. are £200 to Charles Smith, and £100 each to Baldwin W. Lees, Percy C. Jones, and Aubrey R. Whiteman. The residue of the estate is bequeathed to members of the testator's family.

DEATH OF AN AIRMAN.

Mrs. H. H. Scarr, of Killara, has received information from the Royal Air Board that her only son, Flight Lieutenant Geoffrey Campbell Scarr, was killed in England on November 18, as the result of an aeroplane accident. Lieut. Scarr, who was the son of the late Mr. H. H. Scarr, manager of the City Bank of Sydney, was educated at the Sydney Grammar School, and was at the time of enlistment a member of the chemical staff of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company. After spending some time in India with the Pioneers, he joined the Royal Flying Corps, and saw active service in Palestine until January of this year, when he was transferred for duty in England as instructor in aerial gunnery.

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT OF AUSTRALIA.

(Before Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. Justice Isaacs, Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy.

THE NOCK WILL CASE.

COMMENTS CONCERNING EXECUTORS.

Judgment was delivered in the case of Jessie Emily Nock v Austin and another respecting the validity of a will. On December 11, 1917, Edward Nock executed a will whereby he gave very substantial benefits to Arthur John Samuel Austin and Alfred Joseph Morgan. The instructions for the will, it was alleged, were given to Austin, who is an estate agent, and Austin conveyed them to Morgan, who was Nock's lawyer. Morgan caused the will to be prepared, but did not interview Nock. Austin read the documents over to Nock (the testator), no one else being present. It was attested by two strangers (justices of the peace) in the presence of Austin, but in the absence of Morgan. Nock died about three weeks afterwards. The testator's widow thereupon challenged the will on the grounds that it was not duly executed, that the testator was not, at the date of the alleged will, of sound mind and understanding, and at the time did not know and approve of the contents. The first ground was not insisted on in the appeal, and there then remained only the two grounds as to capacity and as to knowledge and approval of the will. The last was the one seriously relied upon.

Mr. Justice Barton, in delivering his own and the judgment of Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy, said the evidence appeared to be overwhelming in favour of the will, and Mr. Justice Harvey had come unequivocally to that conclusion. "This Court cannot therefore disturb the conclusions of fact," said Mr. Justice Barton. "We think also that it is a question of fact whether the suspicion attaching to the execution of the will has been dispelled, and that suspicion was dispelled from the mind of Mr. Justice Harvey. Our perusal of the evidence satisfies us that he was right. After commenting on the terms of the will, Mr. Justice Barton said, "We agree with Mr. Justice Harvey upon the merits, but we are of opinion that his order may properly be varied as to costs. Mr. Morgan, the solicitor, should not have prepared a will which gave him a large share in the estate, and Mr. Austin, his co-executor, has acted somewhat indiscreetly in not asking the testator to let him take the instruction for a will to some uninterested solicitor. These were suspicious facts deserving consideration, not only on the merits, but on the question of costs. And they deserve the more consideration in the latter aspect when it is recollected that provision much less than the plaintiff might have expected was, to their knowledge, being made for the widow and son, provision which, in its slenderness, at least in the case of the widow, they can scarcely have considered to be adequately explained by any facts which they have brought forward." We are therefore of opinion that the defendant should have the costs of the Court below out of the residue. As to the costs of this appeal, seeing that the defendant has succeeded as to portion of the order appealed from, we think that the dismissal should be without costs.

Mr. Justice Isaacs, in his judgment, held that Morgan and Austin fell short of the care that is most desirable in such circumstances. Morgan especially should have seen that Nock had independent advice, and he should have told Austin so. But outside that nothing could be pointed out as displacing either their honesty as witnesses or their recollection. On the main issue the appeal, his Honor said, must fail. As his Honor was not present during Mr. Shand's argument as to allowing the appellant the costs of her suit he would say nothing as to the order that should be made on that point.

The appeal was dismissed without costs.

Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. C. Davidson (instructed by Messrs. M'Donell and Moffit) appeared for the appellant, Jessie Emily Nock, who was defendant in the suit. Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Monahan (instructed by Mr. Harold T. Morgan) appeared for the respondents, Arthur John Samuel Austin and Alfred Joseph Morgan, who were the plaintiffs in the suit.

Haddy v Paul.

Judgment was reserved in the case of Haddy v Paul, concerning a bill of sale.

The Court adjourned till Monday.

SUPREME COURT.

BANCO JURY COURT.

(Before Sir William Cullen, C.J., and Jury.)

FALKINER v RICHMOND.

This case is still proceeding.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

Decrees nisi, returnable in six months, were granted in the following suits:—Cornelius Bernard Gimbert v Alice Gimbert (formerly Riley), on the ground of desertion; Mr. L. B. Bertram appeared for the petitioner. Herbert Norris Waters v Katie Waters (formerly Benbow), on the ground of desertion; Mr. Harper, instructed by Mr. C. L. Doherty, appeared for the petitioner. In the suit for restitution of conjugal rights, John Jacob Barnett v Hinda Barnett (formerly Altson), a decree was made directing the respondent to return to the petitioner within 21 days of service of the order. Mr. Hardwick, instructed by Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co., appeared for the petitioner.

Ambrose Lancelot Hallen sought a divorce from Henrietta Frederica Clare Hallen (formerly Adler), on the ground of desertion. There was a cross-petition by Mrs. Hallen against her husband for a judicial separation, on the ground of his desertion. Mr. W. W. Perry, instructed by Mr. Harold Kent, appeared for the husband; and Mr. W. A. Windeyer (Messrs. Windeyer and Williams), for the wife. His Honor reserved judgment.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before his Honor Judge Rolin.)

IRON AND STEEL MANUFACTURES.

An application was made by the Federated Ironworkers' Association of Australia (New South Wales branch) for an award under the Iron and Shipbuilding Trades Group, No. 9 Board, to cover employees engaged in iron and steel manufacturing in the State, except G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., and the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., which companies have separate awards. Mr. Cantor (Messrs. Cecil A. Coghlan and Co.) appeared for the union; Mr. Vero Read (Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co.) for Brown and Brown, Ltd., and Morrison and Bearby, Ltd., Newcastle; Mr. H. A. Mitchell for the Broken Hill Proprietary Co., Ltd.; Mr. T. W. K. Waldron (Messrs. Dawson, Waldron, and Glover) for Messrs. G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., Lithgow.

The case is part heard.

A BUSH TRAGEDY.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

The trial of Mary Agnes Denney, a middle-aged woman, on a charge of having murdered her husband on a farm about 12 miles from Goulburn was concluded yesterday.

Ebenser Denney, husband of the accused, died in January last from the effects of a gunshot wound on the leg, and the finding at the magisterial inquiry was accidental death. Subsequently, as the result of admissions made by some of the witnesses at the inquiry, Mrs. Denney, widow of deceased, was arrested on a charge of having caused the death of her husband.

Mr. Herbert Harris prosecuted for the Crown; and Mr. Mack, K.C., and Mr. McGhie (instructed by Mr. Thomas, of Goulburn) appeared for accused.

Mary Denney, the accused, gave evidence on oath, and denied having shot her husband. On the particular day that deceased received the injury she had been in Goulburn. "When I returned," proceeded accused, "I said to Maggie, my daughter, 'Where's dad?' Maggie replied, 'He's in the house drunk.' It was dark at the time. A few minutes later I heard my husband calling out. I went into the house and saw him lying on the floor in a pool of blood. I ran to him and lifted his head. We were all crying. My husband said, 'Don't cry, mum, it's an accident; I took the gun to shoot a rabbit, the gun caught in the wire of the fence, I fell, and the gun went off and shot me.'"

The accused also denied having urged the children to say what was untrue concerning the manner in which their father had been shot, nor had she threatened them.

Several witnesses for the defence gave evidence, and some of the Crown witnesses were recalled.

The jury retired to consider their verdict at 6.15 p.m., and 10 minutes later returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter.

Accused was remanded till Monday for sentence.

NEW ZEALAND VIEW OF PEACE TERMS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

Mr. Massey, in an interview, made the following statement:—"I trust the terms of the armistice with Germany will be strictly enforced. We cannot afford to take any risks with an enemy so unscrupulous as Germany has proved herself during the last four years. The Germans should be devoutly thankful the Allies have not carried war into Germany, as the Germans carried war into France and Belgium, and as the Huns would have carried it into British countries, if they had got an opportunity. As for indemnities I do not know of what Germany is financially capable, but so long as Germany is able to pay for the injuries she has inflicted then Germany should be made to pay. Anything less will not be just to those who suffered injury or those whom they left behind. There must be adequate reparation as far as it is possible to obtain it."

"Regarding the Kaiser and those immediately associated with him, apart altogether from what is considered legitimate in war," said Mr. Massey, "they are guilty of crimes without number, not the least of which is their inhuman treatment of British prisoners. They should be compelled to suffer the consequences of their actions. Common justice demands that the crimes and iniquities for which they have been responsible should not be allowed to go unpunished."

CALLED TO PEACE CONFERENCE.

The Imperial Government has asked Mr. Massey and Sir Joseph Ward to leave as soon as possible for the peace conference. Mr. Massey has promised the House a statement in detail shortly. The Liberal party caucus carried a resolution of unabated confidence in Sir Joseph Ward as leader, promised continued loyalty and support, and expressed the opinion that Sir Joseph Ward should accept the invitation to represent New Zealand with Mr. Massey at the British War Cabinet and peace conference. They also were of the opinion that the agreement between the political parties should be loyally adhered to till after the Leader's return.

BOY SHOT AT TOONGABBIE.

At Parramatta Courthouse on Thursday the district coroner (Mr. H. Richardson Clark) held an inquest concerning the death of a boy named Allan Hemington Harris, aged 15 years and 9 months, which occurred in a paddock at Toongabbie on the 23rd inst., the result of a bullet wound in the heart. A boy named George Malcolm Riley (11 years and 9 months) was present in custody. He was represented by Mr. A. J. Leary (for Mr. Abigail), and Mr. King appeared for the relations of the deceased. The lad Riley sobbed in a distressing manner throughout the proceeding, and Dr. Waugh suggested that he might be allowed to leave the court, as the continued shock might permanently injure his health. The boy and his father were allowed to go to the back of the courtroom. The police evidence was that the boy Riley had stated: "The truth is that we were walking through the paddock together, and Harris said that if a hare came along he would shoot it. I said, 'I don't think you could hit it.' He then said, 'If you were over there I could shoot you.' With that, Harris raised his gun and pointed it at me. I pointed my gun at him. We both had our fingers on the trigger, and I fired first, and he fell." The boy stated he fired the shot in self defence.

The inquest was then adjourned till next Tuesday.

LATE MR. B. H. EVE.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Benjamin Harvey Eve, of Stanmore, who died at Stanmore on September 5 last. His estate is valued at £49,186/5/5.

METROPOLITAN LICENSING COURT.

At the Metropolitan Licensing Court yesterday the following publicans' transfers were granted:—

Royal Exchange Hotel, King and George streets, Sydney, Francis Belfield, as administrator estate of John Bartholomew Belfield, deceased, to Francis Belfield; Mount View Hotel, Riley and Foveaux streets, Sydney, Jack Collins to William John Dennead; Belmore Park Hotel, Reservoir-street, Sydney, Ernest Cochrane and Frank Joseph Gordon, as executors will of Margaret Alicia Cochrane, deceased, to Ernest Cochrane; Oxford Hotel, Crystal-street and New Canterbury-road, Petersham, Joseph Elkan to James Frederick Newman; University Hotel, Broadway, Glebe, Henry William Hardley to William M'Intosh; Stepney Hotel, Henderson-road, Alexandria, Thomas Joseph Hargraves to John Shanny; Junction Hotel, City-road and Cleveland-street, Darlington, Laura Williams to John Joseph Vernon.

REAL ESTATE.

The Real Estate market was fairly active this week. The indoor sales were well attended, and a fair amount of property changed hands. The general inquiries were good, and on the whole there was an improvement on the previous week's totals. There still continues a big inquiry for first-class residences in the Eastern suburbs, which are evidently difficult to obtain at reasonable rates. In fact, the future of the eastern section of Sydney is so assuring, and is limited in area to such an extent, that values will always remain firm. Even smaller houses are hard to rent. As a result, people are buying for themselves. The reason given is that owners do not care about letting. They prefer to sell at a good price; thus for letting purposes it is most difficult to obtain a house at Woollahra, Rose Bay, or Vaucluse, which suburbs are particularly in demand just now.

The indoor sale of Messrs. Hardie and Gorman on Wednesday was fairly well attended. Mr. Henry Gorman submitted a list of city and suburban properties in the estate of the late Mr. W. E. Sparke. There was good competition for several of the lots offered, and Mr. Gorman sold the Westralia Hotel and two shops adjoining for £7500; eight shops and dewllings in Erskine-street for £9500, and a terrace of eight house, Woollahra, for £5100. The firm have also sold during the week 10 allotments in the Rockleigh Estate at Croydon, at prices from 75/ to 85/ per foot (£1420), and a block of land on the Canterbury-road, Canterbury, for £1000.

Messrs. Raine and Horne had a fine attendance at their rooms on Thursday, when Mr. Rabett submitted an attractive list of properties, several of which he sold at fair prices. One of five water frontage sites at Elizabeth Bay he disposed of for £689, a pair of brick houses at M'Mahon's Point, Lavender Bay, he sold for £1300; and he sold, subject to approval, a subdivision block at Botany for £600. He refused £4800 for the residence, Chester, at Potts Point; and £3500 for the residence, Coppabella, at Mosman. A cottage at Mascot was passed in at £1275, also a week-end cottage at Port Hacking at £530. During the week the firm sold a residence at Bellevue Hill for £6500; a residence, Liverpool-road, Summer Hill, for £1950; and a water frontage lot at Pearl Bay, Middle Harbour, 50ft, at £5 per foot.

The firm will conduct another indoor auction on Thursday next, at their rooms, when an attractive list of properties will come under the hammer.

Despite yesterday being War Chest Day, Messrs. Richardson and Wrench had a fairly successful indoor sale at their rooms. Mr. Little occupied the rostrum, and submitted a list of 18 properties, for a number of which there was fair competition, and several were sold. Two cottages at the Glebe (leasehold) were disposed of for £490, a block of land at Lewisham was sold for £700, and a house at Stanmore was knocked down subject to approval for £750. For three shops at Forest Lodge Mr. Little refused £3350. He declined an offer of £23/10/ per foot for land, King-street, Newtown, now occupied with a coach-builder's shop. The residence, Leuross, at Coogee, was passed in at £1125, and three houses at Petersham were passed in at £1775, while four cottages in the same suburb were also passed in at £1625. There was an offer of £2000 for the residence, Mallara, at Greenwich.

During the week this firm sold a cottage, fronting England-avenue, Marrickville, for £875; three lots, Orange Grove Estate, Turramurra, £500; an allotment, Terry's Estate, Eastwood (third subdivision), £200; two allotments, Edenlee Estate, Eastwood, £184; one allotment, Burra-road, Artarmon, at £3 per foot; two lots, Kulmar Estate, Manly, at about £10 per foot (£1082); and 16 lots, Kershler's Estate, at Campbelltown, at prices from 18/ to 24/6 per foot (£723).

Stanton and Son, Limited, report having sold the following properties during the week:—Haberfield, brick cottage with 54ft to Parramatta-road, £1450; Redfern, brick house with 25ft frontage to Cleveland-street, known as Boronia, for £650; Ashfield, brick cottage with 45ft to Oak-street, for £885; Rosebery, lots 504, 505 Rosebery Model Suburb, 150ft frontage to Primrose-avenue, £4/10/ per foot (£630); Summer Hill, brick cottage, Lyndhurst, 43ft frontage to Drynan-street, £950; Summer Hill, brick cottage, 45ft to Hurlstone-avenue, £1100. This firm at their next sale in the rooms of the association on Tuesday, December 10, will offer the city property known as Alcock's-building, at the corner of Barrack and York streets; a block of flats, known as Kelburn Hall, Elizabeth Bay-road; the well-known property Earls Court, on the Espanade, Manly, and vacant land at the rear, fronting Gilbert-street; cottage at the corner of Albion and Ferris streets, Annandale; cottage, No. 529 Elizabeth-street, city; brick cottage in Devonshire-steet, Chatswood; a pair of shops at Bankstown, opposite station; brick cottages at Railway-street, Petersham and Leichhardt; and vacant land at Campsie.

Arthur Richard and Co. Ltd., report a week of satisfactory business. The inquiries for good home sites were numerous, resulting in a number of choice blocks being disposed of at Bellevue Hill, Five Dock, and Hurstville. Buyers also made selections at Bankstown, Ryde, Clyde, and of medium-priced lots. Seaside lots at Ettalong Beach, Woy Woy, and Mona Vale were included in the list. The result of the firm's auction sale of the Crown of Vaucluse subdivision at Vaucluse on the preceding Saturday was highly satisfactory. There was a large attendance, bidding was brisk. Seventeen lots were sold at prices ranging from 55/ to £9/15/ per foot.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. (A. T. Carpenter) are offering in their sale rooms on Thursday next, residences, Vaucluse Heights, Bellevue Hill, Chatswood, Haberfield, Petersham, and an investment property at Newtown. During this week the firm report having sold the following properties:—Various allotments, Cleves Estate, Ryde, £1800; cottage residence, Laurel-street, Chatswood, £800; cottage, Waratah-street, Chatswood, £900.

Mr. Percy S. Holmes reports having sold a terrace investment fronting Bayswater-road, Darlinghurst, for £4750; also a block of land 40ft frontage to the Edgecliff-road, Woollahra, for £350.

There are a number of subdivision sales set down for this afternoon. Messrs. Raine and Horne will offer 45 business and residential blocks on the Burwood Heights Estate, between Burwood and Enfield. This is a most progressive locality, and the land fronts main thoroughfares. The Burwood-Enfield-Ashfield tram passes the property, which is also one section from the Burwood station. This is said to be the best available building land in this well-developed district.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench have three sales set down for this afternoon. One is at Bundanoon, where the Liberty Estate, with its nice sites close to the railway station, will come under the hammer. This is a coming summer resort.

The second sale by this firm to-day will take place at Concord-Cabarita, where the Allenby Estate will be offered. This is a subdivision of 97 choice building sites, in an excellent position for the erection of homes.

The third sale is at Belmore-Lakemba, where the Hillview Estate, subdivided into choice cottage sites, fronting the Main Canterbury-road, will come under the hammer. This is elevated, level land, with good views.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. will to-day offer White's Estate, at Bankstown. There are business and residential sites, a few minutes from the railway station.

Messrs. Horning and Co. have another sale this afternoon at Manly, where the Wymston Estate will be offered. This is good building land, overlooking the golf links, and three minutes from the tram.

This afternoon Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. offer the Asquith Acres Estate, at Asquith, one mile beyond Hornsby. In all 82 choice residential sites will be submitted on easy terms. There are also orchard blocks, from 1 to 2 acres each.

Stanton and Son, Ltd., will hold an auction sale of Lakemba Heights Estate, Lakemba, on the grounds, next Saturday afternoon. This estate of 23 lots has frontages to Remley and Walter streets.

SALES OF THE WEEK.

Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., report the following sales for the week ended Friday, November 29:—Bankstown: Sydney Park, lot 23, sec. "F," £17/10/; Sydney Park, lot 56, sec. ALLEGED ROBBERY AND FORGERY.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, John Foley (40), a labourer, and May Livingstone (38), were charged with having forged a number of totalisator tickets, with intent to defraud; with having forged a Commonwealth £5 bank note, with intent to defraud; and with having entered the shop of Price and Jardine, Ltd., jewellers, Kent-street, city, and stolen jewellery of the value of £1300. The accused were remanded to December 5. Speaking on the question of bail, Sergeant Spyer said that with regard to the breaking and entering charge, the premises of Price and Jardine were entered in September last, and the backs of two safes were completely cut out. About £1300 worth of jewellery was stolen, and some jewels found in a room occupied by the female accused had been identified as portion of the missing goods. Each of the accused was allowed substantial bail.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Petition was, on the fourteenth day of November instant, presented to the Supreme Court of New South Wales in its Equitable Jurisdiction by The Farmers and Settlers' Co-operative Grain Company, Limited, to confirm an alteration of the said Company's objects proposed to be effected by a special resolution unanimously passed at an Extraordinary General Meeting of the said Company held on the Twenty-fourth day of September last, and subsequently unanimously confirmed at an Extraordinary General Meeting of the said Company held on the Twenty-second day of October last, which resolution provides:—
That the objects of the Company shall be extended—
(1) By adding at the end of sub-clause (2) of paragraph 3 of the Memorandum of Association the following words:—
"And with live stock and animals of all kinds and wool, tallow, hides, and skins, and all or any products of live stock and animals of any kind, and for supplying all the requirements of farmers, graziers, and settlers in connection with the carrying on of their business, or otherwise assisting them to carry on the same."
(2) By adding after sub-clause (3) of the said paragraph 3 the following sub-clause 3a:—
"3a. To buy and sell by wholesale and retail all kinds of meat, and generally to carry on the business of a meat salesman in all its branches, butchers, meat freezers, and preservers and storers, and dealers in all animal products."
And (3) By adding after sub-clause (4) of the said paragraph 3 sub-clauses 4a and 4b, which enable the said Company to carry on practically all sorts of insurance business, other than life insurance, and to acquire or extinguish or otherwise deal with any insurance made with the Company.
AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the said Petition is directed to be heard before the Honorable the Chief Judge in Equity on Tuesday, the Tenth day of December next, and any person interested in the said Company, whether as creditor or otherwise, desirous to oppose the making of an order for the confirmation of the said alteration under the Companies (Amendment) Act 1906, should appear at the time of hearing by himself or his counsel for the purpose, and a Copy of the said Special Resolution will be furnished free of charge to any such person applying for the same during business hours to the Company at its offices, Number 7 Bent-street, Sydney, or to the Company's Solicitor, Mr. John Williams Maund, at his office, 3 Castlereagh-street, Sydney; as will also a Copy of the said Petition on payment of the proper charge for the same.
Dated this twentieth day of November, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.
JOHN WILLIAMS MAUND,
Solicitor for the Company,
3 Castlereagh-street, Sydney.

ON THE LAND.

A MEMORY OF SPRING.

(BY R. C. DOYLE.)

The little patches of orchards down there in the valley are bursting into their spring bravery; the tender tinge of the young green is creeping over the drooping branches of the weeping willows, and a wattle tree is sharply golden against the blue of a morning sky. The snowy white of the plum tree and the delicate pink of peach blossoms are out in all their transient loveliness; the old eternal magic of the spring which, like a magician, conjures up from the years that have gone memories of Nature's pageants. One spring of blossoms remains fragrant in memory. One of those rare years when rain had come at the psychological moment, and the river flats were vivid with the green of trefoil, and the strong-scented creamy-pink "dog flowers" were in millions, with here and there the metallic yellow of buttercups and the deeper hue of dandelions. The snowy pall of the almond trees was giving place to the young leaves, and the clear water of the mountain-fed creek had carried away countless showers of white petals to lie like an edging of foam against the driftwood of the sighing oaks that fringed the banks. The waxen grace of wild clematis hung like a cloud-straying against the sombre green of an oak tree; wistaria had curled and coiled about the crumbling old log-fence where the tiny grey lizards darted to and fro in the sunshine; the brickish red of wild bignonia had clamboured up the unyielding uprightness of a loquat tree, and glossy-leaved native vines, with their tiny white pungent flowers, grew everywhere their wandering tendrils could find opportunity to cling.

Spring tarried in the orchard, which was a peaceful place of blossoms and birds and bees and dreams. For many a year neither plough nor fork nor spade had disturbed the grassy carpet, but the trees blossomed and fruited with serene abundance in spite of that. The memory of the great pear trees, with their beautiful blossoms amongst the green leaves, remains as never-to-be-forgotten loveliness, and also the exquisiteness of apple blossoms, with the tightly-folded pink buds, and the pale pink quince blossoms, with their setting of downy greyish-green leaves. There were cherries, plum, apricot, and nectarine trees, and rows upon rows of peach trees of all kinds, which strewed their petals to the winds until there were acres of blossomy carpet that stretched to the rose hedge, where briar and climbing pink roses made a tangle of ineffable fragrance. There was the sweet scent of honeysuckle, yellow and white jasmine, japonica, hawthorn, and spiraea. Mauve periwinkle had taken possession of the ground all about, and as one walked through it the clean, fresh smell of crushed mint would come, still bravely fighting for a foothold. It has all come back to me with the sight of the pink blossoms, the orchard and the spring scents, the green of the lucerne paddocks beyond the hedge, and the blue peaks of the Liverpool Ranges in the distance.

It is not the dry years one remembers when the blossoms shrivel. That is why spring on the plains the year after the big drought broke remains as an oasis. That year the earth responded to the rain with a perfect vehemence of growth. The blue grass rippled in the wind like a vast wheat paddock, and was well over the sheep's backs, while the wild flowers made the treeless stretches look like immense Mosaic floors. On the sand ridge about the homestead the rising sun shone over acres and acres of dewy wet, satiny crimson poppies—a sight always to be remembered, and beyond the paddock was white with daisies, the small, plain daisies that somehow have a place in the heart of the bush-lover that many a finer flower cannot take—gallant plucky little beggars they are, smiling from the sun-baked soil.

There was the speedwell-blue flower of the crowsfoot, the purple star-shaped spice flower, the pale cadmium of a bulb-like flower—nameless to me—the purple of wild violets, and continents of yellow pinheads. They are hard and unbeautiful in the hand, but spread over miles and miles of grassy country they make a golden glory. Have you ridden home in the evening with the mirage hanging like a pinkish lake on the horizon, and smelt the unmistakable scent of pennyroyal as the horse's hoofs crushed it? If so, ever afterwards, it will have an open sesame to the plains for you when you smell it. You will see it all again, the long grey coolabah trees, the brolgas dancing about the tank with affected stately writhings of their long graceful necks, the whirring flight of green ground parrots, the shrill cries of plovers going homewards. Maybe a few kangaroos will speed from the short sweet grass about the road they were eating, and there will come the sharp ring of the wire fence as they strike it.

Up in the Ninety Mile scrub we only knew spring as the time for planting seeds and "breaking up a bit o' ground" to get a crop in. The stumps of the belars, that had been felled to make a square of clearing for the little dutch-pink, pine-walled, pile-built dwelling, had to be burnt out to make a cultivation paddock, for we did not have forest devils up there in the "new country." Stone fruits languished, and so every new homestead had its row of fig and lemon trees, and there were no pink and white blossoms to usher in the spring. A little wilding flower was so rare that it gave one a nostalgia for the blossoming time in the south.

The seasons meant little to the grey softness of the dense belars, that someone once likened to a wall of grey-green cottonwool with brown sticks through it, and yet, they had a charm of their own after rain, when the leaves seemed to fluff out mysteriously and the branches seemed touched with a silvery light. In the white of the Queensland moonlight they were velvet shadowed and mysterious. Spring was in the song of the birds that found sanctuary in the scrub, and built their nests, undisturbed by man for the most part, and in the soft warmth of the wind with its hint of coming summer, but she passed us in the night, leaving only the fragrance of her breath.

THE WOOL TRADE.

REFLECTING AN ADVERSE SEASON.

Wool continues to arrive freely, the stores are taxed to their fullest capacity, and appraisements are proceeding uninterruptedly. There is an increase of nearly 124,000 bales in the wool received for the current season to date, compared to the corresponding period last year. This is due to early shearing and the rapid forwarding of consignments into store; not to any increase in the wool production. The probability, owing to the adverse growing season, is that there will be a decrease in the quantity of wool grown during the 1918-19 season compared to the previous 12 months. This is estimated at from 5 to 7½ per cent. Parts of the State, including the famous Riverina, were favoured with a good growing season, but there were very dry periods in other wool-growing districts, and the clips from there reflect the adverse pastoral conditions. Riverina wools have shown exceptional character, being well-grown, of good length, colour, and condition; but wools from several other districts compare unfavourably with a good average season, and the prices realised are consequently below the previous levels. Wools are now being catalogued from some of the later shearing districts; but clips or portions thereof from the early sheds continue in evidence. Referring to some of the wools now appearing the Australian Mercantile, Land, and Finance Company says:—"It is with regret that we notice a number of wools now coming forward are showing the effects of the long, dry period early in this year, the staple of the wool not equalling last season, and in a number of instances wools are wanting in colour. These defects were not noticeable in the very early shorn wools, which compared favourably with the previous season, whereas this cannot be said of many of the wools now being brought forward, with the exception of those from the Riverina, which district is well known to have enjoyed a particularly good season."

Among the notable brands appraised during the week are the following:—

POST-WAR AUCTIONS.

Although the wool production in the Commonwealth has been contracted for by the Imperial Government for the season ending June 30, 1920, the opening of wool auctions in London towards the end of June or early in July next may have some interest to woolgrowers. According to our cable this week the Director of Raw Materials stated that "it ought to be possible to reopen the London auctions in the middle of the year without conflicting with the Government's interests respecting the purchase of Australian and New Zealand wool." He does not intimate whether Government owned wools are to be disposed of in London and by auction; but, as the agreement with the woolgrowers is for half the profits to be divided between the Government and the growers, both parties will be concerned in the sale of the wools. The wools were primarily acquired for war purposes, but a part of the contract was that the proceeds of all wools not used for military purposes and sold at a profit were to be equally divided between the Imperial Government and the growers. It is this phase of future developments in an open market that growers will possibly have a monetary interest in beyond the prices they have already received.

HILL.—No. 2004, Signaller Hector Ernest Hill, passed away October 29, 1918, in England, of cerebro spinal meningitis, late 60th Batt., after 2 years and 10 months' active service, dearly loved son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, Daytona, 19 Yule-street, Dulwich Hill. Sadly missed.

Could I, his mother, have clasped his hand,
The son I loved so well,
Or kissed his brow when death was near,
And whispered "My son, farewell."
I seem to see his dear, sweet face
Through a mist of anxious tears,
But a mother's part is a broken heart,
And a burden of lonely years.

HILL.—No. 2004, Signaller Hector Ernest Hill, passed away October 29, 1918, in England, of cerebro spinal meningitis, late 60th Batt., after 2 years and 10 months' active service, dearly loved brother of Emily, Gordon, and Ruby Hill. Duty nobly done.

May the winds of heaven blow softly
O'er that hallowed spot unknown,
Where sleeps our dear brave brother
So far away from home.
A shadow rests upon our home,
We miss our dear one's face,
Where'er we turn, where'er we look,
We see his vacant place.
He always had a willing hand
For those who needed help.
He never spoke of what he did,
He kept it to himself.

HILL.—No. 2004, Signaller Hector Ernest Hill, passed away October 29, 1918, in England, of cerebro spinal meningitis, late 60th Batt., after 2 years and 10 months' active service, dearly loved brother and uncle of Albert and Beatrice Hill and their children, Fraser-street, Dulwich Hill.

His duty called him, he was there,
To do his bit and take his share.
His heart was true, his spirit brave,
And there he sleeps in a hero's grave.
The hardest part has yet to come
When the other boys return.
We'll miss among the happy throng
Our dear brother, who never will return.

HILL.—No. 2004, Signaller Hector Ernest Hill, passed away October 29, 1918, in England, of cerebro spinal meningitis, late 60th Batt., after 2 years and 10 months' active service, dearly loved brother and uncle of Arthur and Alice Hill and their children, of Piggott-street, Petersham.

If we could have clasped his dying hand
Or heard his last farewell,
It would not have been so hard to part
With a brother we loved so well.
We often pictured him returning,
And longed to clasp his hand,
But death has postponed the meeting
Till we meet in a better land.

HILL.—No. 2004, Signaller Hector Ernest Hill, passed away October 29, 1918, in England, of cerebro spinal meningitis, late 60th Batt., after 2 years and 10 months' active service, dearly loved brother and uncle of Rowland and Charlotte Hill and their children, of Tupper-street, Enmore.

Greater love hath no man than this,
That he lay down his life for his friends.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1918.

THE TWO VISITS.

There is proof of an admirable sense of the fitness of things in King George's visit to Paris at the close of the war and before the assembling of the Peace Conference. The King of England does not control the foreign policy of his country, although even in the hands of his Ministers it is not dependent on the fluctuations of the party system. But his personality is an important element in its success, and his position enables him to express the feeling of the nation more clearly than any official statements. It was for these reasons that King Edward's visit to Paris assumed the importance of a turning point in history. It was the end of a period in which the interests of Great Britain and France had come into conflict in many parts of the world. Under Lord Rosebery, Sir Edward Grey, and Lord Salisbury there had been disputes in Siam and Northern Africa, in Newfoundland and the New Hebrides. A French Minister had accused the British Government of violating the law of nations as laid down in the Treaty of Berlin. British Secretaries and Under-Secretaries of State had unmistakably threatened France with war. While the two nations who had shown most aptitude for dealing with native races had come to the brink of a senseless struggle the Germans had been making their profit by taking sides first with one and then with another. King Edward's personal popularity and his unfailing tact enabled him to begin the period of reconciliation on which his own and the French Ministers were determined. In Paris, at Reval, and in Berlin he set himself to create an atmosphere in which his Ministers would be able to carry out their policy of eliminating the causes of war. With France and with Russia he and they were completely successful. Lord Lansdowne and after him Sir Edward Grey in two successive treaties settled a type of litigation which had threatened permanently to place Great Britain in one camp and France and Russia in another. Unfortunately they were unable to make a similar settlement with Germany. The causes of difference were of less importance and the concessions which Great Britain was prepared to make were far greater; but on the part of Germany there was lacking the irreplaceable factor of goodwill. Germany was offered everything necessary to satisfy her desire for expansion. Her full claim to the Bagdad railway was conceded. She was given all that she asked in Africa, the scene of her most ambitious colonial enterprise. It appeared from the papers of Prince Lichnowsky, who negotiated the treaties, that the only difference between the parties was that the British Government wished them to be published and the German Government refused. We know now that there was a more serious obstacle than the difference between secret and open diplomacy. The German Government desired not any specific object but world-power, and they were determined to attain their ambition by war. Their object was not expansion but the prestige of a conqueror. Neither the tact of a king nor the concessions of his Ministers could have safeguarded the peace in such an atmosphere as this. As Prince Bulow confessed in the days of confidence, the German Government was anxious to placate Great Britain for a time. But the peace was to be temporary and for a definite object. The object of Germany was to be able to crush France and Russia, and then to treat with Britain as the mistress of Europe and the controlling Power not only of Europe but of the routes to the East.

King George will be hailed in Paris as the head of a country whose Ministers were clear-sighted enough to avoid the German trap, and whose people had the endurance, the foresight, and the patriotism to survive these many years of war. But King George's visit will be welcome not only as the end of one most memorable chapter in human history but as the beginning of another. The two peoples will be as much in need of sympathy and co-operation in the future as they have been during the war. The Peace Conference will lay the foundations of a League of Nations if it does not complete the building. The best test of the possibilities of the scheme will be found in the willingness of the Allied nations to stand by each other so that each will be able to recover in the new Europe the position which it held in the old. Obviously it is only by close co-operation that the Allies can finally escape from the evil which they have fought to avert, the reduction of one or more of them to the status of second-rate Powers. France has gained the peace for which her people hoped. The nation is reunited, her inexorable enemy has been broken and humiliated. But the cost has been terrible, beyond precedent or imagination. Of a people who for years past had been stationary more than a million and a half have been killed in the prime of life, many hundreds of thousands have been crippled, the whole active manhood of the nation has been incapacitated for settlement work by four years of mobilisation. France when she entered the war was in a bad financial position. Her funded and floating debt was continually increasing and included the loan raised to buy off the German army of occupation after 1870. During the war credits have been voted to the amount of some seven billion pounds or 144,737,000,000 francs, about two-fifths of the pre-war wealth of the country. If France had been able to apply her whole resources to pay the cost of the war her position would have been serious enough. But in fact one-tenth of her departments of more than average value have been occupied by the enemy, and during the war she has been saddled with the cost of their refugees. To pay her debts she has borrowed largely abroad, over two billion dollars having been raised in America. Her exports to America before the war were valued at a hundred million dollars. If she were to resume her trade to-morrow on the old terms the whole of her receipts would go in the payment of interest instead of in payment for goods needed in France. It is plain that after the war all orthodox laws and all the prospective rules of a League of Nations must give way to the necessities of such a case as this. The German indemnity will not do everything, and will not be paid in full for some time to come. The Allies must stand by France and must help her in proportion to the immunity which her sufferings have gained for them. In Mr. Brennan's magnificent image France will always be remembered as

Worn but not wasted, mournful, yet with crest
Still unsubdued,
She holds the perilous gate, her lance in rest
'Gainst that fell brood.

It is impossible to imagine that after her inestimable service in the war the Allies will not insist on taking whatever steps their resources and their wealth permit to enable the French people to use their incomparable gifts to the best advantage in an era of peace.

CITY COUNCIL ELECTIONS.

On Monday the ratepayers of Sydney will decide who is to represent them in the administration of the city during the next three years. They have had ample opportunity of acquainting themselves with the issues involved and of comparing the programmes of the rival parties; all that remains for them is to make their choice, which, for better or worse, will have far-reaching consequences. Indeed the importance of this election is such that it is difficult to understand the indifference of a section of the ratepayers who have most to gain by the good government of the city, and most to lose from the bad. Their apathy may be attributed to two causes, neither of which is adequate. In the first place some have resented the intrusion of politics into municipal affairs; in the second, some may think that since the sphere of civic administration is limited and local it does not matter very much who is elected to the council. In both cases they show a dangerous short-sightedness. Who is responsible for the raising of political issues in these elections? The Labour party, seeing some advantage to be gained in capturing the municipal machine, came out with a Labour ticket and a platform dictated directly by the Trades Hall and the apostles of the One Big Union. To have refused to meet organised attack by counter-attack would have played into their hands. Those who deplore this intrusion forget an essential fact, that, as soon as one side adopted the political weapon the other had perforce to choose between an effective reply and prompt extinction. Equally misguided is the attitude of those who "can't be bothered" to vote at municipal elections with their petty local issues. Everything is relative, of course, but do these people realise how nearly the activities of the City Council touch their interests, and how extensive these activities are? The City Council has wide functions and responsibilities almost equal to those of the Government of a small State. It is an employer of labour on a big scale; it handles large revenues; it has to tackle vast problems in the way of future resumptions, and has to deal with those arising out of past resumptions; it is a landlord; it controls markets; it supplies public utilities; it is the custodian of the health of Sydney, and the trustee of promises to make our city more hygienic and beautiful; it keeps hundreds of miles of streets clean and in order. The City Council has long outgrown the days when it could be regarded as a small affair; it is now a huge business organisation, and it needs competent men to manage it.

In some respects the work of the City Council affects the ordinary inhabitant of Sydney more closely than even that of Parliament. Parliament is more remote; and between it and the public stand the permanent departments which administer the law, which should curb extravagance and generally temper the wind to the shorn lamb. But in the City Council there is no such merciful intervention; the administration is directly in the hands of the aldermen. In such a large and complex business organisation it is fair to require from those who aspire to its management some degree of business training or aptitude. How much of this can the average Labour candidate show? What experience has he had of business affairs? What would be his chances of election to a seat on the board of directors of a company, whose concerns are infinitely smaller than those of the City Council? The possession of certain extreme views on politics and industry does not compensate for the absence of the most elementary qualifications to govern the city; and to elect such men, or, through apathy, to allow them to be elected, is to give a blank cheque to bungling incompetence and extravagance. Moreover, great as are the powers and multifarious the activities of the City Council now, they are likely to increase. The idea of unification is in the air; already the State Parliament has delegated wide functions to local government, and the process will doubtless continue. We may expect to see the municipal sphere enlarged, and must accustom ourselves to the idea that municipal elections will be of scarcely less importance than Parliamentary elections. The elector who does not vote may realise one day that he has been asleep at the hour when vigilance was most needed. There is yet another aspect of the question. Why is Labour putting forth such a vigorous effort to capture the City Council? The Labour candidates include many avowed disciples of the One Big Union, and the One Big Union declares that it has no belief in the value of Parliaments or representative bodies of any kind, but proposes to substitute industrial for constitutional government. Meanwhile it does not disdain to seek the control of representative bodies as a step towards the fulfilment of its own ideals. When official Labour frankly asserts that one result of its success at the polls on Monday will be "to hasten the revolution" it is high time for the ordinary citizen who objects to anarchy and Bolshevism under any name to take a hand in the game. Let property owners remember this. They have been conspicuous by their absence in recent elections, and their weight in some wards may easily turn the scale. In Phillip Ward, for instance, are more than six hundred owners whose votes are essential to success, while in Belmore Ward there are over five hundred. Let every voter do his duty, and for the next three years we shall have progressive municipal government in the City of Sydney.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The following official announcement has been issued from Federal Government House:—"There is no foundation for the announcement made in a newspaper this morning that the Governor-General is leaving shortly for England."

PEACE CELEBRATIONS.

A suggestion has been made by Mr. Downs Johnstone, honorary organiser of strong posts, that in view of the early celebration of peace in Australia steps should be taken to organise the local residents of the various Allies so that different parts of the city and streets may represent the different Allied nations with all their local colour and atmosphere.

ST. ANDREW'S.

JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

FIFTY YEARS OF CHURCH LIFE.

Yesterday St. Andrew's Cathedral celebrated its jubilee.

As Dean Talbot said, it was a happy circumstance that the event should fall at a time when the community was rejoicing over the cessation of the hostilities which had disturbed the peace of the world for over four years.

Prior to the luncheon in the Chapter House there was a choral celebration in the Cathedral at 11 a.m. Archbishop Wright outlined the history of the Cathedral, and brought into retrospect such distinguished figures as Bishops Broughton, Barker, Barry, and Saumarez Smith.

Among those present at the luncheon, in addition to the Primate, were the Governor (Sir Walter Davidson), the Chief Justice (Sir William Cullen), the Premier (Mr. Holman), Mr. Justice Rich, Judge Backhouse, Bishop Pain, Sir John Russell French, Sir Albert Gould, Captain Glossop, Archdeacon Boyce, Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine, Canon Wilton (Bathurst), Canon Charlton, Rev. Clement H. Lea (Precentor), Mr. Joseph Massey (Cathedral organist), and Mr. A. P. Cooper (hon. secretary of the Cathedral choir).

The Archbishop, in proposing the health of the King, said that right through the darkest days his Majesty had struck the true note. (Applause.)

The health of the Governor was given by the Archbishop. He said that right through the story of the Cathedral there had been linked in different ways the Governor of the State. Governor Macquarie laid the first foundation-stone; Governor Bourke the second foundation-stone, and Governor Hampden presided at a meeting at Government House, at which steps were taken to remove a debt of nearly £8000 which in 1898 rested upon the Cathedral. Since Sir Walter arrived in New South Wales he had found a very warm place in the hearts of the people.

Sir Walter Davidson, who was accorded an ovation, said it was a very happy inspiration that it should have been decided to copy the internal structure from the beautiful Church of St. Mary the Virgin at Oxford. At the close of 50 years it was somewhat of a tribute to the life of the Church that it should be found that the Cathedral was, on State occasions, too small for the congregation. He had noticed recently the spirit in which the people of Australia had received the unexpected joy of a victorious peace. On all occasions the religious note had been struck very clearly. (Applause.) Under the wise and benign presidency of the Primate, the Churches had been drawn together on a common platform, so as to render to God the thanks of the whole community. (Applause.)

Bishop Pain, who was present at the consecration of the Cathedral 50 years ago, gave "The Jubilee of the Cathedral." He said that he was a passenger with Governor Belmore in the good ship Sobraon, now the Tingira—(Applause.) Fifty years ago, when they had the task of raising £60,000 to build the Cathedral, the population of Sydney was less than a quarter of what it was at present; the railway station at Redfern consisted of one platform, the Post Office was a wooden building, and the postage on a letter to England was 10d, and on one to Melbourne 6d. The late Bishop Barker had done wonderful work for the Church of England. (Applause.) When they thought of the greatness of the task which confronted Bishop Barker they should be full of admiration for the way in which he executed it. (Applause.) When the Cathedral was consecrated the "Sydney Morning Herald" devoted almost a page to a report of the proceedings. (Applause.)

Archdeacon Boyce said they should remember the late Dean Cowper, Mr. William Atkins (registrar), and the late Mrs. Walter Hall. The last-named had given £1,000,000 for religious and charitable work. (Applause.)

The toast was also supported by Mr. C. R. Walsh and Sir John Russell French. The latter paid a tribute to the work of the late Dean Cowper.

In submitting "The Archbishop," Mr. Holman said the Archbishop had not to deal with such questions as preferential voting and proportional representation, but he understood he was concerned with allied questions. Those terms, preferential voting and proportional representation, had almost a theological smack. Preferential voting was like "grace abounding," and proportional representation reminded him very much of predestination—(great laughter)—with a lively realisation of what the judgment to come would mean. (Laughter.) If he were Archbishop he would not find important newspapers urging his removal, and that somebody else should take his place. (A voice: Oh, wouldn't you.) There was never a more devoted servant of the cause of humanity in the position of Archbishop of Sydney than the present occupant. (Applause.)

The toast was supported by the Moderator-General of the Presbyterian Assembly, on behalf of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational, and Baptist denominations, the heads of which were present.

Dr. Wright suitably responded.

Festal evensong was held in the Cathedral in the evening, the music being supplied by the combined choirs. The processional hymn, as choirs and clergy entered the Cathedral from the Chapter House, was "Forward be Our Watchword." The volume of tone was enhanced by a large contingent of sopranos from suburban choirs, who were stationed near the chancel. "Hear, Lord, our Petitions" (Tschaikowsky), the opening anthem, was sung by the full vocal strength with fine effect, and the other anthems were "The Heaven and the Earth Display" (Athalie), and "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace" (Wesley). The Archbishop was the preacher, and the "Hallelujah Chorus" was sung at the close of the service. The rendering of the music by the combined choirs was well up to the Cathedral standard, and the service throughout was performed with devotional spirit and impressiveness. Mr. Joseph Massey directed the music, and kept his vocal forces well under control. Mr. A. Livingstone Mote presided at the organ, Mr. J. G. Lee was at the piano in the chancel, and the Rev. Clement H. Lea officiated as Precentor.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Lady Davidson, and attended by Captain Stanham, officially opened the War Chest Day yesterday in Martin-place.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Captain Stanham, was present yesterday at a lunch in the Chapter-house on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Yesterday afternoon his Excellency received Surgeon-General Sir Neville Howse, V.C., and Colonel Murdoch.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Webster) and the Minister for Recruiting (Mr. Orchard) left Melbourne for Sydney yesterday.

On the occasion of the 70th birthday of General Pau the Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Watt) yesterday sent a telegram offering cordial greetings to him at Tarcoola.

Mr. Louis C. M. Reed, of Chicago, will be farewelled by the Millions Club at luncheon at 12.45 on Tuesday next.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Croft, of Stanley-street, Epping, have received a private cable message informing them that their son, Lieutenant F. W. Croft, has been awarded the Military Cross.

Mr. V. F. Allen, who was recently promoted from Rockdale to the Tenterfield branch of the Bank of New South Wales, was, prior to his departure, entertained by a number of prominent citizens of the district in the School of Arts, Rockdale, and presented with a framed illuminated address and a wallet of notes.

The Rev. A. B. and Mrs. Palmer, B.A., who have been spending a year's furlough in Australia, will leave by the steamer Montoro to-day for Singapore, en route to East Africa and the Belgian Congo.

RED CROSS NEEDS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The London Red Cross Commissioners have cabled cancelling prisoners of war foods, but asking for the regular monthly quantities:—50 cases meat extract, 10 tons biscuits, 400 cases preserved fruits, 100 cases condensed milk, 50 cases rabbits, 3 tons sweets, 2½ tons chocolate, 50 cases old linen, 10,000 suits pyjamas, 3,000,000 cigarettes, and 2 tons tobacco. From Egypt a cable has been received requesting the immediate shipment of 3000 pairs of socks. These have been despatched, together with three tons of flour, for use in Red Cross kitchens attached to the Australian hospitals, as well as beef extract, honey, malted milk, soap, tobacco, cigarettes, tinned fruit, vegetables, shirts, and pyjamas.

QUARANTINE SITE.

At a meeting of the committee of the Ashfield branch of the National Association, the following resolution was carried unanimously:—"That his committee views with alarm the danger threatening the city of Sydney by the retention of the quarantine station at North Head, Manly, and respectfully requests that the Federal Government be urged to take immediate steps to have the quarantine station removed to some site more isolated."

NAVAL DEFENCE.

COMPLETION OF BASES DEFERRED.

HIGH AUTHORITY TO ADVISE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Government believes that it will be able to arrange for the visit to Australia of one of the most eminent admirals of the British fleet to report on the fleet and base programme of Australia.

Acting on advice received from the Admiralty authorities through the Minister for the Navy, Sir Joseph Cook, the Government has decided not to proceed further with any work at Henderson naval base other than that which is considered protective and necessary until a report is received from the authority after he visits Australia.

The Government is also considering the advisability of obtaining the services of the best authorities to advise on the allocation, lay-out, character, and organisation and equipment of the arsenal at Tuggeranong.

"Whatever be the terms of peace," said the Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, in the House of Representatives to-day, "any dominion that will sit in an absolute state of unpreparedness for the future will live in a fool's paradise. A country separated from the mother country and natural allies by so many thousands of leagues of ocean will set at defiance all experience if it does not say 'We will make ourselves prepared for crises if they should arise in our future history.'" The [illegible] realised, added Mr. Watt, what unpreparedness had cost the Empire in the war. They had been endeavouring for the last 12 or 18 months to see whether the Admiralty authorities were able to advise Australia whether the Henderson programme should be modified or retarded. Various cables had been exchanged through the Naval Board and the Allies and the British Admiralty. Tentative advice had on several occasions been received. The substance was that the Lords of the Admiralty would not attempt to provide final opinion on the matter in view of enormous pressure placed upon them by the naval warfare, but they gave certain interim advice to push on with the first stage of the Henderson naval base programme, which was estimated to cost £5,600,000 for the first portion; to postpone for the present time all preparations for the second stage, which was estimated to cost over £5,000,000; and to complete Flinders base and make it available for smaller craft, providing shelter for destroyers and submarines, for which it was originally designed. That involved a transfer of the naval depot from Williamstown to Flinders, and as the work was relatively near completion the Government had observed that programme and pushed on as far as it was able to complete Flinders base.

The third portion of the tentative recommendation was that the remaining portion of the Sydney base should be completed. The Admiralty had also advised that all other propositions associated with the base portion of Admiral Henderson's programme should be suspended. The Government came to the conclusion that it would not be fair to ask the Admiralty authorities to take their attention away from the more immediate [illegible] of the war and to give Australia any final advice. It became plain to the Government that the Admiralty authorities were not prepared to commit themselves to a statement that this war had not taught them some [illegible] lessons. He referred chiefly to his own impression, and said that the undercraft warfare might cause a revision of some of what was known as the capital base system of the British Empire. Rather than proceed on the recommendation at full pace, the Government had placed the Minister for Navy (Sir Joseph Cook) during the last few months in touch with the advisers of the British Government on naval affairs. His advice to the Government was that they should get from the British Admiralty a vigorous, able, expert, and qualified man to visit Australia, a man who was well versed in the teaching of this war, and in the prospects and outlook of this and other portions of the Empire—to take another view of the naval base position. They believed that Sir Joseph would be able to arrange very shortly for the visit to Australia of one of the most eminent of the admirals of the British fleet. After receiving that information from Sir Joseph Cook they asked him to confer with the authorities as to the advisability of suspending the works they had determined to go on with. His advice was to suspend the Henderson base, all except protective works, and as salvage work, until this new adviser was able to visit and report to Australia. Sir Joseph Cook believed that they should finish Flinders base. The Government had authorised Mr. Watt to announce to the House that they did not propose to do any work at the Henderson base other than what they considered to be protective and necessary, pending this further report. The eminent authority who would visit Australia would be asked to report on the fleet programme as well as the naval bases.

As to the arsenal, said Mr. Watt, the difficulty the Government laboured under when the site was selected was that they were not sure that they had obtained the very last advice on arsenals, and when the manager (Mr. Layton) was sent to England to get experts, the British Government commandeered him, and placed him in a very high position where he had been ever since, doing work of the utmost value to the British Munitions Department. The armistice brought two new phases to the position. The Government could now get Mr. Layton back, as well as obtaining experts who could advise as to allocation, lay-out, and character of organisation and equipment, their information being right up to the end of this year. The Government also found that instead of having to lay out a large sum of money at war cost for a great deal of machinery and equipment of those buildings, it could probably now get them at a very much lower price, and very much more modern things from the munition factories which were about to be scrapped or converted in Great Britain. These main considerations caused them to pause at this stage of the arsenal project. He believed that it would still be wise to push on with the arsenal preparation. This pause was not an abandonment of the project, but it was a cessation of expenditure until they could make sure they had got the most modern advice they could get.

CITY ELECTIONS.

THE RIVAL PLATFORMS.

On Monday the electors of the city will have the responsibility of selecting a City Council to serve a term of three years, if Greater Sydney does not meanwhile become an accomplished fact.

There are 13 wards in the council, each returning two aldermen. In three of the wards the sitting members have been returned unopposed. There are contests, therefore, in 10 wards.

The following are the respective platforms of the parties:—

CIVIC REFORM.

1. Greater Sydney.
2. Efficiency, competency of control and administration, and economy consistent with efficiency.
3. A clean and healthy city.
4. The retention of open spaces and parks.
5. Adherence to present system of rating.
6. The beautification of the city.
7. Organisation of milk supply.
8. Organisation of housing accommodation.
9. Extension of playgrounds for children, especially in congested areas.
10. Effective supervision of food supplies and cheapening of food for the citizens.
11. Non-payment of aldermen.
12. Superannuation scheme for all City Council employees.

LABOUR.

1. Full adult franchise for every citizen of the age of 21 years, and election of Lord Mayor by direct vote of the citizens.
2. Rating on unimproved capital value.
3. All work to be carried out by day labour where practicable, with preference to unionists.
4. Municipal housing.
5. Municipal insurance.
6. Power to establish food markets, especially for meat, fish, and fruit, and to open shops throughout the city for the sale of these commodities.
7. Power to undertake trading undertakings for the benefit of the citizens, but not for profit.
8. Power to resume land under a fair system of valuation for any municipal purpose.
9. Power to subsidise bands and orchestras and to control theatres, picture shows, music halls, and other places of amusement.
10. Power to acquire coal mines for generation of electricity or for other municipal purposes.
11. Superannuation scheme for council employees.
12. Appeal board for redress of council employees' grievances.
13. Adequate conveniences for both sexes.
14. Advocacy of Greater Sydney, as laid down in the Labour policy.

LATE MR. J. C. CRAWFORD.

Mr. James Cameron Crawford, retired grazier, of Sandringham, died there on February 13 last, leaving an estate of [illegible] of £20,107/19/5, the bulk of which is represented by shares in public companies.

GERMANY.

ALLIED BLOCKADE.

POLITICAL TURMOIL.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

A Copenhagen message says that it is semi-officially stated in Berlin that owing to President Wilson's representations the Entente will probably consider the question of abolishing the blockade.

A Copenhagen message states that the Bavarian Premier, Herr Eisner, complains that Hindenburg lately issued proclamations likely to disturb peace negotiations. Herr Eisner protested that this was an inadmissible interference in politics by Hindenburg. The time had now passed for stirring the German people against their enemies.

An extensive stoppage of work has occurred in Berlin owing to antagonism between the workers and employers, the latter fearing that industries will be nationalised.

The Imperial Conference in Berlin is inclined to create a Government embracing the largest federal States in order to secure Imperial unity.

It is reported the Government asked the President of the Reichstag to convoke the Reichstag immediately. The President declared his willingness if sufficient military protection were assured.

A Copenhagen message describes the situation in Berlin as analagous to that in Petrograd during the Kerensky epoch. The Government and the Soldiers' Council are fighting [illegible] power. Despite the Bolsheviks' [illegible] the Workers, Soldiers, and Peasants' Co[illegible]r North Germany met in Bremen and [illegible]d for the summoning of a national assemb[illegible]. Some travellers state that the soldiers openly rejoice at the defeat of Prussian militarism.

GERMAN ARMY.

AGAINST BOLSHEVISM.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Amsterdam correspondent states that the German newspapers give long accounts of how the Fatherland's vanquished army is pouring in good order and with speed towards and over the Rhine. Since Saturday two armies have marched through Cologne. The city was lavishly decorated, and the troops enthusiastically welcomed. Rifles, guns, and horses were decked with flowers, but the German flag was forbidden by the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils.

The Dusseldorf Council states: "Criminal Imperialism has so greatly dishonoured the Prussian and German colours that they are now completely inappropriate for worthily greeting our returned soldiers." The people's welcome was rather forced, but great efforts are being made to maintain the appearance of genuine welcome. The soldiers themselves are unfeignedly glad the war is over. Newspapers display in great headlines the words, "Our Unbeaten Army."

The biggest army now marching through the Rhine province is General von Hutier's Eighteenth Army, comprising half a million men and 150,000 horses.

A Copenhagen report says the German troops in Cologne issued a manifesto denouncing Bolshevism, adhering to the present Government, and favouring a national assembly. The manifesto adds: "Unless the people resist the Bolshevists, the returned troops will be compelled to fight the Bolshevists." The Soldiers' Council of Marshal von Mackensen's army, also German troops from Turkey, have announced that they will support the Government against Bolshevism.

The goose step has been abolished in Munich. Soldiers no longer salute their officers.

POLISH REVOLUTION.

Berlin is greatly concerned over the progress of the Polish revolution against Germanism. It is feared that the Poles intend to take the whole of Posen, and parts of Silesia and face the peace conference with the fait accompli.

THE ARMISTICE.

ENEMY DELEGATES' VERSION.

The "Vossische Zeitung" has published the German delegates' account of the armistice negotiations.

It says: After reaching the French lines the delegates were motored for 10 hours, probably intentionally, in order to take us over the devastated provinces and prepare us for the hatred and revenge shown in the armistice conditions. During the negotiations, which took place in Marshal Foch's train in the Compeigne forest, Marshal Foch only twice showed himself. We soon discovered there would be no negotiations, only dictated matter. Marshal Foch acted coldly throughout, but was not so tactless and brusque as General Desperey. The English Admiral adopted the tone of the French. We made our protest against the terms, but we were compelled to sign the armistice.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says the State Department has not yet received a new Note from Dr. Solf, protesting against the annexation of the Rhenish provinces.

TREATMENT OF WAR PRISONERS.

The Press Bureau announces that in response to Britain's protest against the shocking condition of released prisoners, the German President states that the German High Command is doing its utmost to deliver prisoners in good condition, but the severity of the armistice conditions presents difficulties.

Britain has replied that no excuses will be accepted. Full reparation will be exacted for unnecessary suffering. If reparation in kind cannot be made, it will be made in person by the officials responsible.

The German High Command replied that the Government fully realises the seriousness of the situation, and will do its utmost to alleviate the conditions of prisoners.

The majority of the main prisoners' camps in Germany informed the British Prisoners of War Department that more food is not required.

Private W. Mahoney, of Melbourne, 5th Battalion, who has been a prisoner of war, relates that he and four other Australians were flogged with a piece of rubber hose on their naked bodies for refusing to work in rain, although French prisoners were allowed to cease work.

The War Prisoners Department announces that 494 officers and 14,235 men have arrived from Germany and Holland, and 5841 are expected to arrive this week from Germany, Holland, Denmark, and Norway, while 2500 civilians from Germany, and 2045 soldiers are arriving at Dover from Germany, Bulgaria, and Turkey.

Reliable information has been received that prisoners who are escaping from the German lines in Belgium are not in a serious condition. They are in good spirits, though dirty and badly clothed. The Belgians are feeding and sheltering them.

APPEAL FOR BLIND SOLDIERS

Sir Arthur Pearson makes a renewed special appeal for St. Dunstan's Blinded Soldiers and Sailors' Hostel, Regents Park, London, where nearly 700 are now training. He hopes, amid the present feeling of exhilaration, the public will remember with generous sympathy those who have given their sight, second only to life itself, to win the war.

CONTRABAND WOOL.

The Prize Court is hearing a claim by the Crown for the confiscation of £500,000 worth of wool consigned from the Argentine to Sweden. The Crown alleges that the Swedish army administration, under the late Government, assisted in traffic which really aimed at introducing wool into Germany.

PEACE CONFERENCE.

PRINCIPLES OF JUSTICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says it is practically certain the American Peace Delegation will be composed of Colonel House, Mr. Lansing, the ex-ambassador, Mr. White, and Secretary for Agriculture, Mr. Houston.

Mr. Daniels (Secretary United States Navy), speaking at Buffalo, said the coming peace conference must be guided solely by principles of justice, also mercy towards the weak. The result of the war had confirmed the theory that every man must have equality of opportunity. It remained only for democracy to define its aims, clarify their purposes, and enact into law its essential aims.

"GOODWILL AMONG MEN."

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has replied in a long letter to Professor Diessmann's plea that Christian leaders should use their influence so that peace will not contain the seeds of new universal catastrophies, but release all available conciliatory rebuilding powers between nations. The Archbishop of Canterbury says that Britain was forced into the war in order to vindicate freedom and justice. He recalls instances of German savagery, and expresses the opinion that righteousness must be vindicated, though such vindication involves sternness. Nevertheless, Christians recognise the sacred ties which bind the children of Our Father in Heaven. This fellowship may be broken and impaired. It cannot perish. As this fellowship is maintained, so the sorrows of the world will be healed and true peace and goodwill established among men.

THE ROMAN QUESTION.

According to a report from Rome the Vatican prelates confirm the report that the Holy See will submit the Roman question to the Peace Conference, requesting a settlement between the Vatican and the Quirinal. It is also stated that the Pope personally has prepared a plan under which he would have greater liberty of movement, while the installation of wireless telegraphy at the Vatican would enable the Holy See to communicate with foreign Governments and nuncios. The Pope also is willing to accept the annuity of a million lire which Italy has offered him since 1870, but which has never yet been accepted.

BRITISH DELEGATES.

The British peace delegates and their staffs will number between 450 and 500. They will be housed in the Majestic and Astoria Hotels, Paris. Mr. J. R. Clynes (Food Controller) has undertaken the catering arrangements, and is providing the staff.

GERMAN NAVY.

Twenty-seven submarines surrendered at Harwich on Wednesday, making a total of 114.

A Copenhagen message on Wednesday stated that a fifth group of 25 submarines had quitted Germany for England.

An officer of the Grand Fleet, who was engaged in receiving the surrender of the German destroyers, states:—In one case a junior officer presented himself. When I asked "Where is the commander?" he said, "I command. The commander gave us some trouble four days ago so we just threw him overboard." A representative of the Workers and Soldiers' Council aboard supported the junior officer's statement.

The Admiralty announce that Admiral von Reuter, commanding the interned German fleet, has protested against Admiral Beatty's instruction forbidding the German flag to be flown as a breach of international custom, and contrary to the idea of chivalry between honourable opponents. Admiral Beatty replied: "The armistice suspends hostilities. A state of war still exists between Germany and the Allies. No enemy vessel can be permitted to fly its national ensign in British ports while under custody."

THE EX-KAISER.

Crowds in Cologne are clamouring for the extradition and execution of the ex-Kaiser and ex-Crown Prince. Placards have been displayed all over the city, signed by the executive committee of the Soldiers' Association, which offers a reward equal to £4000 for whoever brings the arch-criminals from Holland.

It is reported from Paris that Deputy Castelnau is submitting a motion to Parliament asking the Allies to consult upon necessary measures to bring the ex-Kaiser to trial.

It is reported that the British Crown Law authorities have advised the Government that the Entente can claim Wilhelm's extradition under International law.

ALLIED MARCH.

Sir Douglas Haig reported on Thursday night: Our most forward troops have reached the German frontier, between the neighbourhood of Beho and Stavelot. We have taken possession of [illegible] German guns since November 11.

A French communique states:—The French armies are completing the occupation of Luxemburg. We have reached the German frontier eastward of Weisswanpach and Hemerscheit.

A French official message states: Marshal Foch, accompanied by General Castelnau, visited Strassburg and reviewed the troops of occupation, who marched in procession through the city. They were given a magnificent ovation.

French troops have occupied Budapest. The population accorded them an ovation.

The German councillor, Von Schultze, committed suicide on seeing the reception accorded the French.

A Copenhagen message says Budapest newspapers assert that General Desperey demanded the internment of Mackensen's army. Mackensen protested that the request violated the armistice.

DEMOBILISATION.

The Admiralty, the War Office, and the Air Ministry have issued reminders to the public that general demobilisation has not yet begun, and that the naval and military situation does not admit of any general release of men from the forces.

When general demobilisation does begin, priority will be given to officers and men who have definite employment awaiting them. However, a strictly limited number of men will be released before general demobilisation for "pivotal" industries and professions which include agricultural machine-makers, agriculturists, bootmakers, brickmakers, cementmakers, builders, miners, wharfmen, foodmakers, papermakers, railway men, shipbuilders, shipbrokers, oversea commercial agents, accountants, and architects.

BRITISH INDUSTRY.

The Press Bureau states that Dr. Addison Minister of Reconstruction, on the advice of the council upon postwar priority, announces that the following classes of work have first claim upon war materials and producing capacity released from war work—[illegible], the repair of existing machinery in the United Kingdom, the maintenance and repair of railways, roads, and docks. Shipbuilding, repair of merchant shops, the manufacture of agriculture, mining, and textile machinery used in public utility services in the United Kingdom. The manufacture of approved orders placed by the Governments of the Dominions and the Allies.

DARDANELLES CAMPAIGN.

Sir Ian Hamilton declines to comment on General Von Sanders' interview, but says that, although the landings were not made where Von Sanders would have made them, it was fortunate that the British did not do what the enemy commander expected, and landed where the main Turkish forces were expecting them.

BRITISH NAVY.

THE TOLL OF WAR.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The total naval casualties to November 11, including the naval air service to March 31, but excluding the naval division, are announced as follows:—

Dead: 2466 officers, 30,895 men.
Wounded: 805 officers, 4378 men.
Missing: 1533.
Prisoners of war: 222 officers, 953 men.

In addition 14,661 officers and men in merchant ships and fishing vessels were killed, and 3295 were taken prisoners.

AUSTRIAN SHIPPING.

UNDER ITALIAN FLAG.

A telegram from Trieste received in Rome states that the entire Austrian-Lloyd merchant fleet is flying the Italian flag.

BRITISH AIR RAIDS.

BERLIN'S ESCAPE.

The "Evening Standard" states that everything was ready for bombing Berlin on the eve of the armistice. Nineteen Handley Page aeroplanes were ready, and trial flights had been taken, and the minutest details made. The date for the raid was November 9, but weather was unsuitable and it was postponed to November 11. The armistice then intervened.

The Press Bureau states: Altogether 709 British air raids were made into Germany during the 13 months to November 11, comprising 374 on large towns, 209 on aerodromes established for the defence of the Rhine, and 126 on other military objectives in Alsace and Lorraine and Germany.

Altogether 660 tons of explosives were dropped. The number of British air raids into Germany during the twelve months were five times greater than the German air raids.

TRICKY AUSTRIA.

The "Evening Standard" publishes the text of the agreement whereby Austria handed over her navy to the Southern Slav Council. The document contained the following clause:—"All material to be handed over with the express reserve that the ownership rights of the non-Southern Slav States of Austria-Hungary are vindicated. Obviously Austria-Hungary hoped firstly to trick Italy in drawing up the armistice conditions three days later; and secondly, to cause a quarrel between Italy and the Southern Slavs. The plot failed, but it showed that Austria's duplicity persisted to the very moment when she was fully resolved to seek an armistice.

BATTLEFIELD GRAVES.

PROBLEM OF REBURIAL.

The Press Bureau reports that the Imperial War Graves Commission is considering the re-burial of soldiers in isolated graves scattered across battlefields which will shortly be re-brought into cultivation. It has been decided where necessary to remove them to cemeteries where they can reverently be cared for. There are over 150,000 isolated graves in France and Belgium, notably on the Ypres and Somme battlefields, where they are thickly strewn over several miles in length and breadth. Any other course would be excessively painful to relatives and unfair to the landholders. Volunteers from among the comrades of the fallen will carry out the re-burials under chaplains. There are overwhelming reasons against the exhumation of bodies for removal to soldiers' native countries. It would be contrary to the principle of equality of treatment, as few could afford the expense. The task of emptying 400,000 graves will be colossal.

The Press Bureau announces that Mr. Rudyard Kipling, in submitting to the Imperial War Graves Commission a suggestion for an inscription for the Great War Stone which is to form the central feature in all cemeteries abroad, wrote: 'It was necessary to find words of praise and honour which should be both simple, well-known, comprehensible, and of the same value in all tongues, and standing as far as might be outside the flux of men and things. After search and consultation among all ranks and many races, in our armies, and navies, as well as with those who have given their sons, it seemed to me no single phrase could be better than that which closes the tribute to 'famous men' in Ecclesiastics, namely, 'Their name liveth for evermore.'" The commission has approved of the recommendation.

The Commission has decided upon the principle of uniform headstones for marking the graves of all ranks, and points out to those who anticipated supplying a memorial of their own choosing, the necessity for no differentiation, and for co-operating in an action of the highest significance—namely, community of sacrifice. The Commission recommends a headstone 30 inches high and 18in wide, bearing the fallen man's rank, name, regiment, date of death, and next of kin, it being permitted to add a three-line inscription.

ANGLO-FRENCH UNITY.

SPEECH BY KING GEORGE.

The Press Bureau announces that the King, speaking at the Champs Elysee banquet, said: "It is a pleasure to be the guest amidst the great nation with which the British have mingled their sorrows and joys for four years, which now triumphantly have been crowned in overwhelming victory over the common enemy. Thanks to the bravery of the splendid French army and Marshal Foch's skilful strategy, repeated and desperate German efforts to reach Paris were defeated, and the enemy hurled across the frontier and compelled to sue for peace. I congratulate the noble French nation on their great victory. The British armies are proud to have participated. The English and French peoples during the life and death conflict have learned to appreciate each other and their respective ideals. They have created a union of hearts and identity of interests which, I trust, will ever grow closer and contribute materially to the consolidation of peace and advancement of civilisation."

King George and the Princes crossed the Channel in H.M.S. Broke.

GREAT DISASTER AVERTED.

A remarkable disclosure has been made of a narrow escape from disaster which occurred at Dover just before the last big advance in Belgium. The monitor Glatten, which was anchored in Dover Harbour, took fire. Several explosions shook the town, and the fire spread, threatening the ship's magazine, also other warships and an ammunition ship lying near. Admiral Keyes secured military help to keep the crowds from the harbour front, and he himself boarded the Glatten. Many tugs and pinnaces assisted in removing the wounded. In order to prevent a greater disaster, Admiral Keyes ordered the destroyer Broke to torpedo the burning ship. Accordingly three torpedoes were fired, and the Glatten sank.

The Admiralty report at the time stated that fifty lives were lost.

"GOVERNOR OF TRIPOLI."

A telegram to Rome from Hous, on the Tripolitan coast, states that a Turkish general landed at Cape Misurata from a German submarine, and proclaimed himself Governor of Tripoli.

EXPORTS TO HOLLAND.

The War-trade Department announces that exports to Holland can be resumed under license. This does not yet apply to cotton, cotton goods, wool, and woollen goods.

SEA SUPREMACY.

MUST BE MAINTAINED.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

Mr. Winston Churchill (Minister of Munitions), in the course of an important declaration in Dundee, said that no arguments, however specious, and no appeals, however seductive, must lead Britain to abandon naval supremacy. He hoped the League of Nations would result in immense reassurance in all countries. It should render secret diplomacy and secret agreements impossible, but it would be no substitute for the British fleet. He uttered a warning against the defeatists, who would say "We do not want an expensive navy because we had a League of Nations instead." For a century the seas had been free. Britain was the only nation whose ports were open to the world markets, unrestricted by a tariff. Even our well-loved kith and kin—the United States—had never practised that broad liberal policy.

No colony would be restored to Germany. None of the conquered parts of Turkey would be restored. Germany must make reparation for the damage done. This would cost a thousand millions. People need not be alarmed that Germany would get off lightly. The punishment would be beyond all previous records. Poland must be reconstituted with access to the seas. Germany must give up her Polish provinces. Practically the whole German nation had been guilty of crime, and must suffer for it. Individuals convicted of breaches of the laws of war should be brought to trial, and treated as criminals, however highly placed. (Loud cheers).

RUSSIA.

FATE OF EX-CZAR.

Mr. Ackerman, correspondent of the United Press, who has been investigating the ex-Czar's fate, and is now in Vladivostock, gives an account of the brutal and humiliating persecutions to which the Royal family were subjected by the Bolsheviks, and adds: "An examination of the house in Ekaterinburg where the Royal family were imprisoned reveals innumerable bullet holes in the floor and walls, but I believe with most people here that these are insufficient evidence to prove the family were executed. There is circumstantial evidence that they still live. The Czar's fate is a conundrum.

The Tokio correspondent of the United Press states that newspaper despatches report that Vice-Admiral Kolchak (formerly in charge) was assassinated in Omsk.

ALLIES AT SEBASTOPOL.

A Paris official message says that an Allied squadron consisting of five battleships, four cruisers, and 11 destroyers, under Admiral Calthorpe, sailed on Monday for Sebastopol.

A Zurich message says that a British warship has arrived at Sebastopol.

THE AUSTRALIANS.

WARM APPRECIATIONS.

Replying to the congratulations of Mr. Hughes (Prime Minister of Australia) on the armistice, Marshal Foch said: "Please convey to your people my undying remembrance of the magnificent valour of their troops."

Sir Douglas Haig replied: "The part played by Australia, both on the battlefield and at home will live gloriously for all time."

Admiral Beatty says: "We value greatly the congratulations of a people who throughout the war, by sea and land, have magnificently upheld the fighting traditions of the Empire."

General Birdwood says: "It is entirely a source of pride to me to have had as real comrades the brave men of the Australian force. I trust yet to be able to serve the men I loved so well to the last."

Rear-Admiral Halsey says: "It is a matter of no small gratification to officers and men that they are privileged to serve the Grand Fleet."

General Monash said: "We are proud to have held our place and fulfilled our part in the great work, and rejoice in the share of the glorious end to the struggle."

Generals Allenby and Chauvel also replied.

V.C. AWARDS.

The Victoria Cross has been awarded Lieut. William Donovan Joynt, of the 8th Battalion of Australians, for conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. During an attack in Herleville Wood, Peronne, on August 23, Joynt's company commander was killed early in the advance. He immediately took charge of the company, which he led with courage and skill. Approaching Herleville Wood the troops of the leading battalion, which Joynt's battalion was supporting, suffered very heavy casualties, and were much shaken. Joynt, grasping the situation, rushed forward under heavy machine-gun and artillery fire, collected and reorganised the remnant of the battalion, and kept them under cover, pending the arrival of his own company.

Lieutenant Joynt made a personal reconnaissance, and found the fire from the wood checking the whole advance. Dashing out in front of his men, Lieutenant Joynt inspired and led a magnificent frontal bayonet attack upon the wood. The enemy was staggered by the sudden onslaught, and a very critical situation was saved. Later, on the plateau of the wood, Lieutenant Joynt, with a small party of volunteers, after severe hand-to-hand fighting, turned a stubborn defence into an abject surrender. He continued to do magnificent work until badly wounded by a shell.

Sergeant John Gilroy Grant, for most conspicuous bravery at Bancourt on September 1, when commanding a platoon and leading an attack on the high ground east of Bancourt. On reaching the crest, it was found that five enemy machine-gun posts were stopping a further advance, but the company advanced under point-blank fire. When twenty yards from the posts, Grant, closely followed by a comrade, rushed forward ahead of the platoon, and with great dash and bravery entered the post, demoralising the garrison. He similarly rushed a post on the left, enabling the company to quickly occupy the remainder. Throughout three days' fighting Grant displayed coolness, determination, and valour of the highest order.

Viscount Gort, commanding the Grenadier Guards, has also received the Victoria Cross for splendid bravery in forcing the crossing of the Canal Du Nord, near Flesquieres, on September 20th. He was severely wounded, but continued the leadership until he collapsed.

CAPITAL AND LABOUR.

Mr. Andrew Weir, in an interview, said he did not fear competition in British shipbuilding. We could build ships cheaper and better than anybody. No nation was so well placed as Britain in regard to meeting liabilities. The Prime Minister should make a pronouncement as regards the relation between capital and labour. He admitted the latter had grounds for suspicion. The Government should declare that labour must participate in the profits of industry. If this were done the national wealth could be multiplied to an extraordinary degree.

THE CASE OF MOONEY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.

A San Francisco report states that the sentence of death on Tom Mooney has been commuted to life imprisonment by the Governor.

[Mooney was sentenced to death for complicity in the bomb outrage during the "Preparedness Parade" in 1916. There has been continual agitation since for a new trial on the ground that he was convicted by corrupt evidence.]

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

The Home Office announces the relaxation of the restriction upon British-born women who are aliens by marriage.

Mr. Fisher (Commonwealth High Commissioner) has arranged for the entertainment of 8000 Australian troops in the Albert Hall on Boxing Day.

The Queen sent a message of sympathy to Lady Coghlan on the death of her daughter, who died as the result of being thrown from her horse.

Secret documents published in Vienna show that the Emperor Charles continued to receive a salary of £62,000 as Commander-in-Chief for a month after resigning the command.

In the matter of Lennon versus Gibson and Howes, special leave to appeal from the judgment of the High Court has been granted.

BRITISH ELECTIONS.

LABOUR PROGRAMME.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

The Labour election programme refers to Labour's share in the victory. It states that the democratic diplomacy expressed in Labour's war aims has been a powerful factor in winning the war, and will be a powerful factor in rebuilding the world. Labour demands a peace of international co-operation. It opposes secret diplomacy and any form of economic war. It demands as an essential part of the peace treaty an international Labour charter incorporated in the structure of a league of free people. Labour welcomes the extension of liberty and democracy in Europe, and demands the immediate withdrawal of the Allied forces from Russia.

The programme includes freedom for Ireland, abolition of conscription, repeal of the Defence of the Realm Acts, nationalisation of land, mines, railways, shipping, armaments, and electric power; free, open education for all; a million good houses, a levy on capital, and free trade.

Labour proposes to pay the war debt by a special tax on capital, also those who have made fortunes out of the war must pay for it. The programme concludes with a protest against a large part of the youth of the nation becoming arbitrarily disfranchised.

The Labour executive has arranged a series of meetings at which Mr. Will. Dyson's cartoons will be a feature.

ALLOTMENT OF SEATS.

The "Westminster Gazette," in criticising the Coalition's allotment of seats, says "The London seats are divided in a proportion of 61 Tories and 15 Liberals, while outside London Liberalism, as certified by the coalition, so far only gets 113 seats, compared with 279 Coalition Unionists, and four Coalition Labour. Thus the scheme for the new Parliament, as drawn up by Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law, would make the Government majority Unionist in the proportion of three or two to one.

Mr. Philip Snowden (Socialist), in his election address, describes the coalition as a combination of reactionaries, who, under pretext of maintaining the unity of the country, deceive the workers. It is a scandal, he says, that so many soldiers are deprived of a vote.

MR. ASQUITH'S MANIFESTO.

Mr. Asquith, the Liberal leader, in his election address to East Fife, says: "With peace we must set our own house in order. There must be no tampering with the essentials of freetrade. Peace will bring a call and stimulus to inter-imperial development of our common resources in men and material, and a more frequent and more intimate interchange of counsel, without impairing complete local autonomy. We ought not to be content until every British citizen is within reach of a standard of existence—physical, intellectual, moral, and social—which makes life worth living. I will give whole-hearted support to any policy, whether Liberal, Unionist, or Labour, which is animated with this spirit."

Mrs. Hope, widow of Colonel Hope, of the Grenadier Guards, who was killed in October, 1917, is opposing Mr. Asquith for Ladybank, on behalf of the widows and fatherless. She advocates the trial of the ex-Kaiser, who, she declares, murdered thousands of people; also the repatriation of all enemies.

Sir Newton Moore's constituency (North Islington) has 15,000 women electors whom it is proposed to organise on Sir Newton Moore's behalf.

Sir Walter Runciman has withdrawn his candidature for Hartlepool after vehemently denouncing the coalition.

Captain Wedgwood Benn, who has had four years' war service, has withdrawn his candidature for Whitechapel. Captain Benn refused to pledge himself.

CHILI AND PERU.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.

Despatches from Santiago say the differences between Chili and Peru are not yet settled. The announcement that this was the case is incorrect, and was due to a misunderstanding.

REVOLTING BRUTALITY.

CAPETOWN, Nov. 28.

A Johannesburg message states that, speaking last night at a meeting to form a soldiers' club, Sergeant-Major Urquhart, an Anzac, said he had learned in an interview with Mr. Gerard, the late American Ambassador to Berlin, further details of the execution of Nurse Cavell, from which it appeared that the Germans cut the victim's hair because she would not put it up before the execution. They also cut off a finger in order to obtain two rings—one from her mother, and the other from a brother who was killed during the retreat from Mons.

END OF A SUBMARINE

Dundee newspapers disclose that some time ago an aeroplane detected a large submarine lying at the bottom of the Tay, a few miles from Dundee. It was probably hoping to destroy the Tay bridge, which is an important link in the communications northward. A large number of trawlers swept the locality with depth-charges, which brought up wreckage, and divers recovered 13 bodies within the wreck. They were buried in Dundee cemetery. The mangled remains of others floated ashore, one being an arm wearing an officer's sleeve. Much equipment, including guns, were salved. They are now being exhibited in Dundee Museum.

WHEAT.

OBSTACLES TO SALES.

PERTH, Friday.

Indignation is expressed locally that, while the Federal Government is feverishly looking for purchasers of wheat and products, difficulties are put in the way of sales being effected. An Eastern buyer sought to purchase 1000 tons of flour from a local miller for shipment by the Charon to Singapore, stipulating that permission should be obtained for the transhipment of the flour at Singapore for Egypt or the Mediterranean. The price offered equalled 6/4½ per bushel of wheat. Requests to Senator Russell for the necessary permit were refused. The Minister replied that permission could only be obtained from London. The Charon was soon to leave when the Minister, under further pressure, sent the desired permission. The deal means £16,000 to the State, and a full, instead of a half-empty, vessel leaving Fremantle. A similar case is awaiting settlement. A Japanese buyer is offering to buy 3000 tons of flour for Egypt at a price equal to 7/ per bushel. The buyer will provide the ship. Stocks of flour in Egypt are controlled by a Greek ring, who are selling at £100 per ton. The Wheat Board refuses to permit the sale, stating that London controls the situation. More than £50,000 is involved to the farmers of the State and the Wheat Pool.

FRUIT-GROWING INDUSTRY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Sitting in High Court jurisdiction, Mr. Justice Higgins to-day, at the suit of the Australian Workers' Union, made an order that a dispute exists beyond the limits of one State in the fruit-growing and horticultural industry. The respondents made parties to the dispute are established in Victoria, New South Wales, and South Australia. The other respondents were struck out of the list, as not employing labour in the fruit and horticultural industry, namely: Northern District Fruit-growing Association, Merrigum Fruit Growers' Association, and Shepparton Fruit Growers' Association (Vic.), and Australian Dried Fruits' Association, Mildura, Vic., and Renmark, S.A. It was arranged that the parties should confer with a view to coming to a temporary settlement that would provide for the work being done as usual during the fruit-picking season, now about to commence.

BUTTER PRICES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The price of butter in metropolitan and proclaimed areas in New South Wales has been fixed as follows:—First grade, wholesale, 56lb boxes, 172/8 per cwt.; 28lb boxes, 175/ per cwt.; 1lb prints, 175/8 per cwt.; and ½lb prints, 182/ per cwt. Quantities in bulk, or less than 28lb weight, 175/8 per cwt. Retail, 1/9 per lb., and 1/9½ in prints.

Second and Third Grade: Wholesale, 168/ and 163/4 per cwt. respectively, in 56lb boxes. Retail, 1/8½ and 1/8 per lb respectively.

For all other areas the actual cost of transportation from place of purchase is to be added to these prices.

LATE CABLE NEWS.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

SOCIALISTS WORK TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.

Mr. Dosch Fleurot, the New York "World's" Berlin correspondent, telegraphs: The Independent and Majority Socialists having decided to work together, the Government is now in a much sounder position. There is still a danger of a bolt by the Independents owing to the objections to Dr. Solf and Herr Erzberger, but so far the combination is working well. The Socialists' rupture would be the signal for the bourgeois movement, which has been growing stronger daily. The bourgeois are willing to remain behind the Government if the Government convokes the Constituent Assembly. It seems certain the stability of the present working status is likely to be attacked only from the Extreme Left, led by Dr. Liebnecht and Herr Leimernburg. Their success depends upon the conditions of their finances, which are reported to be considerable and of Russian origin. All interests except the Extreme Right and Extreme Left accept the present Government as the best possible compromise.

WAR NOTES.

BRITISH NAVAL LOSSES.

Although the German High Sea Fleet decided at the finish to surrender rather than fight, the list of British naval casualties published this morning shows what the command of the sea cost Great Britain in lives. Over 33,000 men of the Royal Navy made the extreme sacrifice, and over 5000 were wounded. The proportion of wounded men is remarkably small, and in this respect the naval casualties differ very much from military losses. In the list of casualties sustained by the American forces during their participation in the war the totals revealed a proportion of five wounded men to every one killed. The figures published this morning show that for every wounded man in the navy there were over six killed. These figures are eloquent proofs of the manner in which the enemy conducted warfare at sea. Rarely, if ever, did a German commander make any attempt to rescue the crew of a British warship which he succeeded in sinking. Even in instances when delay would not have meant danger, as was the case with von Spee off Coronel, British officers and men were left to sink, while, on the other hand, the British repeatedly took serious risks in order to save the crews of sunken German vessels. By the loss of nearly 15,000 officers and men the mercantile marine has sustained close on half as many fatalities as the navy. Here again we are able to witness the result of frightfulness at sea. Whatever losses of merchant ships a belligerent might have been expected to sustain in modern warfare, no one outside of Germany anticipated that officers and men would also be sent to the bottom with those ships. When we realise the wholesale murder which Germany has committed on the high seas, it is easy to understand why British seamen intend to boycott Germans in future.

SALVAGE OF SUBMARINE VICTIMS.

Amongst the classes of work which Dr. Addison states must be given post-war priority are shipbuilding and the repair of merchant ships. Of the importance of the former there can be no doubt, but it is questionable whether the remarkable amount of work effected in ship repairing has been fully appreciated. One of the factors which upset Germany's calculation in connection with the submarine campaign was the manner in which vessels which had been regarded as victims were salved, repaired, and placed in the trade once more. This fact largely accounted for the enemy's exaggeration, to the extent of over 50 per cent. of the losses inflicted by his submarines upon Allied shipping. Throughout the war the British Admiralty kept a chart showing the spot at which each victim of submarine or mine was supposed to have sunk. The salvage section of the British Navy, which, by the way, owes its very existence to the war, has been working hard for some considerable time past raising vessels which have been sunk in home waters. The valuable work accomplished by it was shown by figures published a few months ago. In January last 14 ships were salved, in February 41, in March 37, in April 36, in May 19, which, together with those raised in previous months, made a total of 407 vessels salved and returned to service, the majority being upwards of 1200 tons each. The efforts of the salvage section were restricted, as, owing to limited depth at which divers are able to work, it has been impossible to raise vessels which were sunk when well on their voyages. Many of the earlier victims, however, were torpedoed within reasonable distance of their home ports, and in many cases were able to reach comparatively shallow water before sinking. The salvage section was frequently attacked by submarines while engaged in its work, but it should now be able to proceed with it under more favourable conditions.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD.

The Public Service Royal Commissioner, Mr. G. Mason Allard, has replied to the charge of unfairness levelled against him by the members of the Public Service Board.

The Royal Commissioner shows that he was specifically charged to inquire into the administration of the Public Service Acts by the Public Service Board. He then points out that the Board's duly appointed assessor had the right of examining witnesses whose evidence appeared to reflect upon the Board's administration. But, he says, if permission to cross-examine had been given to members of the Board, such privilege must also have been conceded to the assessors and to other members of the representatives of officers of the service. "The spectacle of members of the Public Service Board, permanent heads, and other witnesses being cross-examined by their subordinate officers, and even by association representatives who are not members of the Public Service, was thereby prevented, while, on the other hand, the possibility of any appearance of intimidation of witnesses by highly-placed officers subjecting subordinates to severe questioning, was removed," says the Commissioner.

Mr. Allard further points out that Mr. Loveridge, as assessor for the Board, was present at the public sittings of the commission. When matters affecting the administration of the Board arose Mr. Loveridge exercised his right repeatedly and continuously of suggesting questions to be put to the witnesses under examination. Every matter of any moment affecting the Board's administration was noted by him, and officers of the Board subsequently attended and produced the papers in connection therewith. Over a week was spent in the Board's office, during which Mr. Loveridge as assessor, produced all papers in connection with matters that had arisen affecting the Board's administration.

It is further stated that every opportunity was given the Board to traverse the evidence submitted, to reply to any statements reflecting upon the Board's administration, or to submit any suggestions in regard to the Public Service.

CITY FIRE.

A fire was discovered in the premises of A. B. Pyke, in Market-street, at the back of Sargent's cafe, shortly before midnight last night. Considerable damage was done by fire and water to goods stored on the ground and first floors.

WAR RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Acting Minister for the Navy (Mr. Poynton) intimated to-night that by direction of the British Admiralty the following war regulations and restrictions had been suspended:—

(a) Restriction on the publication of shipping intelligence and the cabling of shipping information. (b) Restrictions on the use of cameras on board ships. (c) Order requiring special masthead lookouts, except in areas liable to be mined. (d) Orders dealing with darkening ship navigation and anchor lights; ships to revert to full brilliancy navigation lights as soon as possible; darkening ship fittings of a permanent or semi-permanent nature to be retained. (e) Orders for ships to be dazzle painted, subject to proviso that should the necessity arise for ships to be again dazzled cost will fall on owners. (f) War instructions for British merchant ships suspended, except for safety of ship, life, and confidential documents, compliance with orders of the British or Allied naval authority. Masters to obtain and comply with instructions regarding routes and movements generally, and to take all precautions, keeping a good lookout, and strictly following instructions for the avoidance of mined or possibly mined areas. (g) All the above provisions apply to Allied vessels also as far as applicable.

INFLUENZA.

ANOTHER DEATH.

POSITION MUCH IMPROVED.

While the death of another of the Medic's troops is recorded—that of Joseph Biagoni, a native of Italy, 23 years of age—making a total of 28 death in quarantine, reports generally point to a substantial improvement in the outlook at the Quarantine Station.

Figures given out last night show that, taking both troops and civilians, eight patients are in hospital dangerously ill, 25 are seriously ill, and 129 are merely ill; 166 are convalescent in hospital, 56 have been discharged from the hospital area to the detention portion of the station, and 97 are convalescent on the station. In all, there are 464 contacts on the station, the total strength of those in hospital, both troops and civilians, being 328. This is a substantial reduction on previous figures, although it is pointed out that the extremely high figures given out a few days ago were due to the fact that of the cases landed a considerable number were found to be suffering to some extent from some euphemeral upset which did not prove to be pneumonic influenza. Three of the troops who were seriously ill on the previous day were yesterday merely ill.

Only one fresh case on the station was reported yesterday.

Dr. Elkington, however, issues a note of warning. He says that, while the prospects of keeping the disease within quarantine still seem to be very fair, no single phase of vigilance on the part of the public can be relaxed. "The position," he adds, "is still improving."

THE MEDIC.

The Medic has been cleaned up and disinfected, according to an official announcement. The point is emphasised that there are now no sick men on the Medic, only the healthy troops and the crew being on board; that all are under the closest medical supervision, and that upon the first indication of any sickness a sufferer is isolated and removed ashore.

No fresh cases were reported on the Medic yesterday.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Referring to complaints that no attempt had been made to move affected troops from the Medic, the Acting Minister for Customs, Mr. Massy Greene, said to-day that every possible effort had been made to remove such men from the ship to the quarantine station as soon as they became infected. Any suspicious cases appearing on board were immediately isolated, and on the disease being diagnosed as influenza they were taken to the quarantine station. As an instance that the steps taken by the quarantine authorities in that direction had proved successful, he stated that when the Medic arrived last Thursday week 120 cases of influenza were on board, and they were immediately removed to quarantine. Naturally a large number of cases was reported the next two days, but by Monday fresh cases had been reduced to four, Tuesday and Wednesday two each, and on Thursday no fresh cases were reported.

CONDITION OF PATIENTS.

The Medic cases given as dangerously ill are: Pte. Joseph Hunt (slightly better), Pte. Hector F. Hicks (same condition), Pte. Raymond Metzler (same condition), Pte. Charles Gaherity (slight improvement), Pte. Alfred Brown (no improvement), Ursina Luige (slight improvement), Notaroni Luige (slight improvement), Fireman Joseph Jolly (no improvement).

The Atua patients are reported to be all improving, while of the Manuka patients only one—Fred. Roberts—was given out last night as dangerously ill.

Nurses M'Gregor, Bell, Locke, and Brownlow are described as seriously ill.

FIJI OUTBREAK.

The Lord Mayor is in receipt of a telegram from the Mayor of Suva, stating that the local epidemic influenza is of a mild type, and that where deaths have occurred complications supervened, owing to carelessness or ignorance on the part of the patient. Moreover, the mortality was chiefly amongst the natives. Three Europeans had died. The outbreak, however, was well in hand.

INOCULATING DEPOTS.

The inoculating depots at Hyde Park, the Water Police Court, and the North Sydney Town Hall, will be opened again this afternoon, from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock.

A depot at the Manly cricket ground pavilion will be opened on Monday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

In the Postal Department arrangements have been made for a supply of serum, and the inoculation, free of charge, of any officers desirous of availing themselves of the opportunity of guarding against the more serious effects of the disease. About 200 officers have taken advantage of the safeguard afforded, and the option in this regard is still open to any who desire to be treated.

It is pointed out, in reply to a correspondent signing herself "The Anxious Mother," that if a Medic patient is convalescent he will not be required to return to duty until he has thoroughly recovered, and that upon his recovery he will be in the hands of the military authorities.

The information bureau will be opened to-day until 5 p.m., and on Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The vessel Edward R. West was released yesterday. There were no cases on board.

The steamer Melusia, from Rabaul, and the St. Louis, from Noumea, went into quarantine yesterday. There were no cases on board.

THE MAKURA FREE FROM INFLUENZA.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

It was officially stated in the House of Representatives that the Makura will be declared free from influenza. No passengers will be allowed to land unless they agree to pass through the inhalation chamber on the ship. There were a few cases of measles on the vessel. These would be completely isolated in the infectious diseases hospital. Contacts also would be isolated. These persons would be practically in Quarantine, and thus be kept until danger was past.

The influenza position continues to improve rapidly with a considerable decrease in the death rate.

BRITAIN'S CONSTITUTION.

TESTED BY WAR.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, in a speech at a luncheon which he gave to members of the Federal Parliament to-day, said: "I would take the opportunity gratefully to recognise the constant and unfailing support you have rendered during the long struggle to the great cause of freedom and independence, for which our armies and navies fought, and which has now been guaranteed by the occupation of the Rhine and the surrender of the German fleet." The British Constitution, based on tradition, custom, and experience, still showed it was the leading organism by its power of growth and adaptability, and thereby gave promise of century-long continuance. It was that happy combination of free political activity, Cabinet responsibility, and continuity in national policy, as represented by the Crown, which had made our system of government the most successful and stable known to the world.

NAVAL MEN RELEASED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Navy Office has received information that the following Royal Australian naval ratings have been released from Turkey and reached Malta on November 23:—Chief Engine-room Artificer Stephen T. Bell (No. 8722); Stoker Horace J. Harding (No. 7216); Leading Stoker Archibald Wilson (No. 7501); Able Seaman Alex. C. Nichols (No. 7298), Able Seaman Reuben J. E. Mitchell (No. 7476). These ratings were members of the crew of submarine AE2. Able Seaman Mitchell was on board one of his Majesty's submarines when taken prisoner.

ORIGINAL ANZACS.

Mr. Downs Johnstone, hon. organiser of strong posts, announces that about 400 original Anzacs will arrive at Woolloomooloo on Wednesday next.

W.A. UPPER HOUSE.

PERTH, Friday.

In the Assembly, Mr. Collier, Opposition leader, moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Constitution Act by making household suffrage the qualification for a Legislative Council voter, instead of an annual value leasehold of £17. The definition of householder is that provided in the South Australian Act. Mr. Collier was applauded by the Ministerialists, and the Premier promised the House should have an opportunity of further discussing the bill.

WAR CHEST.

APPEAL DAY.

SYDNEY EN FETE.

Gales could not discourage nor heavy showers damp the enthusiasm with which the War Chest collection was undertaken yesterday. Rain soaked the bunting, with which the streets were lavishly decorated—and it showed up in brighter colours. Cold winds drove the white-clad girls into macintoshes and mufflers; but their smiles belied the wintriness of their costumes, and thus collecting-boxes never rattled with greater insistency.

In the last year or two, many different organisations have held "Days," and systematically and thoroughly combed every available coin out of the city. One would suppose that Sydney would find a monotonous and even painful sameness about the proceedings; but Sydney comes up smiling, and asks for more. War Chest Day was organised on lines made familiar by a score of other "days," but the same crowds poured into the streets, imbued with the same carnival spirit; there was the same cheerful readiness to give, the same self-sacrificing effort on the part of thousands of collectors and assistants.

Martin-place and Moore-street were again the centre of the fair, and a remarkable amount of hard work and good taste were shown in their decorations. The main idea of the collection—that the Australian soldiers who have done so well, deserve all that we can give them in the matter of comforts—was brought out in a series of banners slung across the streets. Each was in the form of the big red star of the War Chest, and across each star was a name that will go down in all Australian history—Lone Pine, Pozieres, Messines—practically every great Australian battle from Anzac to Mont St. Quentin, was mentioned there. There was a splendid display of flags, both on the stalls and high over them, and the illuminations in the evening, when thousands of little coloured electric lights shone out, were remarkable and unique, giving the drab thoroughfares a touch of fairyland.

Outposts and pickets radiated far into the distant streets. Wandering and very determined patrols filled in unavoidable gaps, and saw that no man or women entered the city without contributing one coin to make things easier for the Australian soldier who, during the coming winter, will do sentry-go on the banks of the Rhine. Many of these outpost stalls were admirably conducted, and excellent work was done in the subsidiary centres like Macquarie-place and the Quay. "I've been submarined four times since I entered this street," complained one man in Macquarie-place. "You're tigers down here." But the "tiger" continued to smile, and her box was duly enriched.

As far as weather was concerned, it was a day of sharp contrasts. There was rain in the morning and heat at noon. But all day shower and sunshine followed each other with a rapidity that many stallholders found disconcerting. "I've spent half the day covering my goods from the rain and uncovering them for sale," grumbled one stallholder. "I think the weather might have been decent —on the last 'day,' too."

"The Last of the Days' was a slogan adopted by one energetic band which raided several blocks of offices, and it proved most effective. Who could refuse to give to "The Last Day" when the whole series of 'ays had been attended with complete triumph for the Allied arms?

So many thousands of ladies and gentlemen have taxed their ingenuity to discover novel and picturesque methods of attracting money from the pockets of the multitude that it seemed impossible to find anything new. But the War Chest organisers succeeded. Their "freak museum," conducted in Moore-street by a band of clever humourists, who induced the people to go inside to view all sorts of weird and impossible things, was a marked success. "A Street in Cairo," opening off Pitt-street, attracted crowds. An accomplished funmaker in Pitt-street, effectively using an extending arrangement of sticks, by which he placed a collection bag unexpectedly under the noses of persons on the other side of the roadway, had a delighted audience all day.

£38,754 IN HAND.

When counting ceased last night at the Town Hall the total reached was £7751. This included city collections and stall takings only. Many boxes remained unopened, and many others are yet to come in. This amount, added to the sum of £31,003, representing donations and the proceeds of sales of houses badges and buttons, brought the total amount in hand last night to £38,754. Mr. C. le M. Walker, one of the joint honorary organisers, stated last night that he was quite confident that the ultimate result of the appeal would exceed £100,000. Already there was £31,000 in hand from subscriptions, etc., and he estimated that the city and suburban collections and stall takings would reach £25,000. Besides this, 300 country efforts were being made, and, judging by the encouraging reports that he was receiving, he felt certain that at the very lowest these would yield £50,000.

In a joint statement last night Mr. C. le M. Walker and Mr. Warren C. Mayor, the joint hon. secretaries, said: "We desire particularly to express our most earnest thanks to the hundreds of women who, regardless of personal discomfiture owing to the weather, remained at their posts throughout the day, and made possible this most gratifying result. It is doubtful if the collection has suffered through the unfortunate weather as greatly as might be imagined, for the people of Sydney to-day have proved themselves splendid buyers and givers. Indeed, the whole of the people of the State are again responding to the War Chest appeal in the same magnificent manner that they have responded in the past. The spirit of the people has been one of thanksgiving for the glorious victory, in achieving which our boys have played so honourable a part. Many people have made special donations as thank offerings that their boys have come through the terrible ordeal safely. The knowledge that the endeavours of the War Chest lighten the heavy burdens borne so cheerfully by our men will be enabled to continue unabated; will, we are sure, be accepted as a sufficient reward by the thousands who have worked, and are working, throughout the State to make the appeal a success."

OFFICIAL OPENING.

The proceedings were officially opened at noon, in Martin-place, by his Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson. With him on the recruiting platform were Lady Davidson, Mr. G. W. Fuller (Chief Secretary), the Lord Mayor, Brigadier-General Ramaciotti (Inspector-General), Brigadier-General Lee (District Commandant), Brigadier-General Sellheim (Quartermaster-General), General Finn, Captain Glossop, Mr. E. P. Simpson (president of War Chest Day), and Mr. C. A. le M. Walker (honorary organiser).

His Excellency said that though 200,000 Australian soldiers were very far away fighting for us, they were still close to the hearts of the people of the country they loved best. In the coming winter those men would be in the midst of an enemy country, exposed to the discomforts they had known in other years, and any comforts from home would be welcomed by them. Therefore, there existed the same need for generous giving; Australia could not fail her soldiers at the last pinch, and on the occasion of the last appeal to the generosity and hospitality of the Australian people.

"I hope you will never fail to see that your men get what they ought to have from you, and which they love to accept from you," concluded his Excellency. "I hope that War Chest Day will be as successful as any of the previous appeals that have been made for the best men in the world—this sort of man"—and his Excellency amid cheering pointed to the guard of honour, all of whom were returned soldiers.

Two further ceremonies marked these proceedings. The Lord Mayor, on behalf of the people of Sydney, presented Mr. Walker with a large golden key, and said that it was to show appreciation of the enormous amount of work done for the War Chest fund—and therefore for the soldier relations of Sydney people—by one who was generally known as "Mr. War Chest Walker." The key represented the freedom of the city, and also signified the freedom which had been won for them by the A.I.F.

Mr. Walker said that he greatly valued the gift, and paid a compliment to the people of Sydney, who had so generously contributed to the war funds—had given with such regularity that they had now come almost to like giving.

Colonel Lorenzo formally handed to Mr. Walker, for the War Chest fund, a cheque for £500, as part of the proceeds of the military sports recently organised by the staff at Victoria Barracks.

THE STALLS.

MARTIN-PLACE.

Martin-place and Moore-street were, as usual, the main centre, and were thronged throughout the day. The kiosks were fairly well patronised, but there was not quite as much enthusiasm as on former days. It was a quiet day. Of the ways and means adopted for wheedling, cajoling, and extracting money from the pockets of the willing and the unwilling, it is sufficient to state that nothing that ingenuity could design nor thoroughness encompass was overlooked. The kiosks remained open till a late hour.

At the George-street end of Martin-place, at the bank corner, was the 7th Field Artillery Brigade stall, Mrs. Pearce and Miss Nea Doyle being in charge. The specialities were "peace" packets, the prizes being war bonds.

The stall of the 5th and 14th Artillery Brigade came next. Mrs. Minter was in charge, and associated with her were Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Carter (cakes), and Mrs. Millett (with a collecting flag). The stock consisted of home-made articles, aprons, bags, groceries, and perfumery.

Mrs. A. W. Allen superintended the 6th and 7th Light Horse stall, being assisted by Mrs. Warry and Mrs. Rennie, while Mrs. Rich and Mrs. Marks had charge of the dips. Australian pottery and basketware made by soldiers were among the articles displayed.

A mixed stall was run by the 13th and 45th Battalions, Mrs. Laseron being in charge, assisted by Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Woodrow, and Miss Neil.

A busy stall was that of the 55th Battalion, groceries being the feature. Among the ladies who assisted were Mrs. Rogalsky, Mrs. Biden, and Miss M'Rae.

The 20th Battalion (Mrs. Lamrock and Mrs. Charlton) had a fine display of cakes, sweets, jams, and produce.

The stall of the 18th Battalion (Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Woolcott) was laden with children's clothes, jams, cakes, and flowers.

The "Black Cat" stall at the Pitt-street corner did a brisk business in shilling lucky dips. Mesdames Floyd, Pockley, and Mackie were the ladies in charge.

In the centre of Martin-place, at the Pitt-street end, the War Chest workers had a series of attractive stalls, Mrs. Murray Campbell dealing in soft drinks and ice creams, Misses Graham and Welsh (baskets), Mrs Antill (produce), Miss Josephine Wight (sweets), Mrs. Walter Brunton (nuts), Mrs Lethbridge and Mrs. Simpson (cretonnes), Mrs. Mullens and Miss Jones (handkerchiefs), and Mrs. Throsby (cakes). Mesdames Learoyd, H. S. Holt, F. B. Wilkinson, and Stuart Wilkinson specialised in strawberries and cream and fruit salads.

A refreshment tent was conducted by the 46th Battalion, the principal workers being Mrs. Laurence Langdon, Mrs. Fred Langdon, and Mrs. Denham.

The staffs of the "S.M. Herald" and "Mail" had an attractive miscellaneous stall in the centre of Martin-place, at the George-street end, attached to which was a van with "Herald" specials, these being our old friends—the lucky dips—under a new name. It was superintended by Miss Austin. Mrs. McCoy and several Strathfield friends were in charge of the fancy section, the rest being controlled by representatives of the office staffs, with the assistance of some friends.

The French-Australian League had a very nice assortment of articles. Madame Playoust was in charge, and associated with her were Mesdames Davis, Harwood, Rouse, Price, Middows, Moore, and Archibald.

Lucky lemons were, as usual, the feature of the 1st and 53rd Battalion stall, which Mrs. Glanville conducted.

There was a most interesting display of jewellery and ornaments of all descriptions at the Old Gold and Silver War Fund stall, which was superintended by Mrs. E. J. Bayly Macarthur, Miss D. Wentworth, and Mr. J. S. Richardson.

The Army Service Motor Transport (Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Eaton) specialised in whitework, sweets, and jams.

Mrs. Herbert Allen and Mrs. Noyes were in charge of the 12th Light Horse stall, whose display consisted principally of fancy goods.

Mrs. Ballantyne (Second Ammunition Column and 22nd Howitzer Brigade) had fancy goods and the usual dips.

The 2nd and 54th Battalion (Mrs. Cuthbert) made a feature of "Victory" packets.

MOORE-STREET.

The first stall from Pitt-street on the left hand side going toward Castlereagh-street was that of Stott and Hoare's Business College, and next to it was Mrs. Parsons' stall, well stocked with home-made sweets and jams.

Mrs. Tower conducted the stall of the 110th Howitzer Battery, which dealt in fancy goods chiefly.

The 1st, 10th, and 12th Field Artillery had two separate stalls. One was devoted to articles for kitchen use, in charge of Mrs. James, and the other was in two sections—flowers and cakes—Mrs. Langley and Mrs. Scott being in charge of the former and Misses Cairnes, Mrs. Little, and Mrs. Callaghan of the latter.

Mrs. Sydney Smith managed the stall of the New South Wales Cricket Association, opposite Ocean House.

Mrs. Vernon and the Misses Smith and Arnold did good business at the 1st Light Horse stall.

Mrs. K. T. Bourne was again in charge of the No. 2 Army Service Corps stall, which made a feature of home-made jams.

An attractive stall was that of the Pioneers' Battalion, Mrs. E. A. Moir and Mrs. Robert Kerr being the superintendents. Island curios, donated by the Ancient Mariners' League, were a feature.

Mrs. Benjamin was in charge of the Commercial Travellers' stall opposite the Commercial Travellers' Club.

Mrs. H. R. Lysaght presided over the Hunter's Hill stall, which had a large assortment of toys made by returned soldiers.

Two stalls that were well patronised throughout the day were the Motor Transport (Mrs. Campbell) and Army Medical Corps (Mrs. Kirkland). Lady Maitland had a fancy goods stall close by.

Mrs. Street controlled the 3rd Battalion stall, which exhibited fancy goods.

Mrs. Parker, assisted by Mrs. Snodgrass and others, had charge of the Trench Mortar stall, which had fancy goods and cakes.

Mrs. J. Wills (Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League) and the girls of the Commonwealth Bank had attractive stalls.

There was a large assortment of miscellaneous articles on the stall of the 4th and 56th Battalions, of which Mrs. Langtree was again in charge.

Mrs. Herbert Clarke did a big business in collapsible travelling boxes, all being home-made articles.

Mrs. Thompson was in charge of the Red Star Bonus Stall.

A popular stall was that of the American-Australian League of Help. Among the more prominent of the workers were Mesdames Brittain, Evans, Jones, Todman, C. Norman, W. J. Allen, Cambage, Markell, C. H. Gorman, Fisher, Muston, and Miss Todman.

ABOUT THE QUAY.

Although a leaden sky gave way to genial sunshine, only to be followed by another canopy of black clouds and rain, stall-holders, and especially those within close range of the waterside, still had to contend with a frolicsome wind. Ordinarily, it would have tantalised these good ladies—it would have disarranged smartly-dressed hair, for instance, and set at all sorts of ugly angles hats arranged with extraordinary precision—but they were blind to its revels and discomforts on such a day as this. Let it whoop around as it might; their only concern was to unburden their heavily-freighted stalls.

The North Sydney War Chest and the Turramurra War Chest and Red Cross appeared to control the majority of the stalls at the Quay. For effective designing there was no stall more attractive than the "Old Castle," standing in solitary splendour at the Customs-house end. It was in charge of Mrs. G. A. Stedman, of Neutral Bay, whose son, Olaf, was once again out on the warpath in his khaki uniform. What impressed one around the stalls generally was the serviceable nature of the articles offering—fruit, vegetables, cakes, jams, and so on. The rising generation ought to be well versed in the manifold arts of the kitchen, judging from what Miss J. Wilson, superintendent of the cookery branch of the Education Department, and 22 of her teachers turned out from their stall outside the Customs-house. They made a feature of Christmas cakes. Figuring prominently at the National Women's Club stall were Mesdames Irwin, Bax, W. Stone, and Palfreyman, while the Manly Voluntary Aids were represented by a stall in charge of Mrs. W. A. Henderson. Superintending the big array of Turramurra stalls were Mrs. Alex. Turnbull and Miss F. B. Swayn, while Mrs. Russell Sinclair and Mrs. George Robertson looked to the smooth running of the big North Sydney effort. Others who figured prominently among a host of assistants about the Quay included Mesdames M. Kern, Crane, Bathgate, Finch, J. B. Thomson, W. Penfold, Nicklen, Perrett, Gibbins, Davey, Watt, Hall, John Callaghan, D. Cullen, Holden, E. Silva, Primrose, Cecil Hordern, J. Q. Wood, Phil Ward, C. Robertson, M. Park, and Misses Pearce, Scott, Coleman (Central Unit, V.A.D.), Hordern, Chateau, and Liston.

MACQUARIE-PLACE.

The members of the Master Carriers' Association, their wives and daughters, and friends were again to the fore with an imposing array of stalls running the full length of Macquarie-place, where brightly-costumed ladies busied themselves through the long hours in disposing of all sorts of useful articles. The ladies in charge were Mesdames F. Cridland, Gow, M'Keown, Johnson, Morris, Pritchard, and York, and Miss Sutton. The Australia, one of the "ships" figuring prominently on Jack's Day, was run by the Customs Clerks' Association for the Master Carriers, with Mr. Robbins in charge. A pet lamb, with collecting boxes, and led by little Miss Lois Pascoe, was again brought from the green pastures in order to bring in coin. It collected about £13 on another of these occasions, and can now fairly claim to have vindicated its existence. A band of stage children, dancing and singing with happy abandon, lent gaiety to the scene.

BRIDGE-STREET.

Bridge-street, aflame with colour on Jack's Day, looked somewhat deserted yesterday, but it was not wholly out of the picture. Little clusters of stalls around the Exchange played their splendid part. The big majority of them—five in all—were in charge of Mrs. Alfred Lee, whose ceaseless labours for the men in khaki were ably seconded by 58 assistants, representative of the Town Hall Red Cross Sewing Guild. Mrs. Lee's first lieutenants were Mesdames L. Packer, Guthrie, Boyd, W. Kranstuyver, Willoughby, Ripley, and Cousins. The North Sydney division of St. John Ambulance Association, with Miss Leggatt in charge, kept vigil over passers-by on the other side of the road.

RAILWAY STATION.

The Civil Ambulance stall at the Central Railway Station was in charge of Nurse Harris, assisted by Mrs. John Howarth and a large number of nursing sisters and others. The stall, which was artistically arranged, was well stocked with a varied assortment of goods, which found ready purchasers. A particularly live business was done with the sale of buttons.

Mrs. H. E. Davis and a number of energetic assistants also conducted a fancy stall on the station.

A STREET IN CAIRO.

The brilliant Oriental costumes worn by the lady attendants at the stalls, the blazing streamers of yellow, of scarlet, and other striking colours, the gippos galloping their donkeys up and down the narrow way through from Pitt-street to Castlereagh-street between crowded stalls surrounded by eager bargainers, all combined to make one forget that one was in the usually prosaic little byway known as Hoskins'-place. Amid such a scene it was not difficult to believe that one had strayed into a street in Cairo which, indeed, it actually did represent. The veiled ladies behind the stalls seemed to have every conceivable article for sale, and true to the best traditions of the famous Egyptian city, some did not seek to preserve any unnecessarily equitable balance between values and prices. If the figure elicited no protest so much the better for the War Chest; if it did, well, Cairo prices are elastic, and a prospective customer is seldom allowed to escape without making some purchase merely for want of a little modification. The curio stall, of course, had a prominent position, and was inspected by everybody. The quaint ornaments of brass and wood, the fans, silks, and pottery, quickly changed hands, some at figures very creditable to the sellers. The tourists were willing to be very "new," and it was only the returned soldiers, entering enthusiastically into the spirit of the bazaar, who engaged in heated arguments over prices with the excited vendors, just to show the interested visitors a little of the "real thing." About a dozen invalid soldiers from Randwick Hospital contributed much of the picturesque effect, as, with fez and flowing garments, they mingled with the crowd, and in a thousand ways promoted business with infectious joviality. Music also had a prominent part in the attractions of the Street in Cairo. The Katinka party, Miss Minnie Everett's pupils and Messrs. Fred Archer and Tom Rae won loud applause and many coins with their songs, whilst the programme was sometimes varied by the tricks of interesting conjurers. At the Pitt-street entrance to the little street there was a "Sphinx" stall, where the strangely-dressed ladies dispensed the most wonderful lucky bags to fascinated youngsters, and along the street people were buying all sorts of toys, cakes, flowers, carpets, etc. Under Mrs. John Fell, whose son, Mr. John Fell, was a War Chest Commissioner in Egypt and France before he joined the A.I.F., the effort was conceived and entirely carried out by relations of War Chest Commissioners. Although very good business was done, the Street in Cairo in common with most other efforts, suffered owing to the unsettled weather, and a considerable quantity of the goods was not disposed of. It was therefore decided by Mrs. Fell and Mrs. George Scott to hold an "at home" at Lane Cove at an early date for their disposal.

THE ILLUMINATIONS.

Martin-place and Moore-street presented a brilliant spectacle in the evening. The covering darkness obliterated all the unsightly debris that unavoidably gathers after a "day," and threw into bold relief the canopy of electric lights suspended to the banners inscribed with the historic battlegrounds of the present war. "Anzac," "Mesopotamia," "Vimy Ridge," "Pozieres," "Egypt," "Bullecourt," and many others were festooned with streamers of red, white, and blue light, which were looped to poles and buildings on each side of the street. A rotary fire ball was suspended about 80ft from the ground at the intersection of Martin-place, Moore-street and Pitt-street, and to it were attached four streamers which were carried to the corners of the streets. Festoons of lights, looped to poles by illuminated green wreaths, encircled this interior scheme of decoration. Macquarie-place, Queen's-square, Barrack-street, and Hosking-place were also illuminated.

CRUELTY TO THE HOMER.

A well-known homing pigeon breeder writes indignantly to the "Herald," drawing attention to the unsportsmanlike and cruel actions of certain people who interfere with the homing birds during their flight. He states:—"One bird came home in due course, but I was pained at receiving the other bird with his tail 'docked' and the ring filed off, showing that he had been shot at at a gun club meeting."

FEDERAL SESSION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

When the House of Representatives met to-day, the Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, replying to questions by Mr. Higgs (Q.), said that he had seen the statements in the Press that were made by Senator Pratten in the Senate yesterday regarding tin scraps. Speaking impromptu, he did not think those statements amounted to charges against Sir John Higgins and Colonel Oldershaw of grossly misusing their positions. He had not seen any report which indicated that Senator Millen endeavoured to discount the importance of the statements made. When the gentlemen concerned had forwarded their comments the Government would decide what action to take.

Referring to a cable message which he had received from England relating to wheat, Mr. Watt said that he had conferred with Senator Russell, and it was decided to call the Wheat Board together. After the cable had been considered by the Wheat Board the Government would make a statement.

Replying to a request by Mr. West (N.S.W.) to remove the embargo of the censorship on the Press, Mr. Watt said that when the War Precautions Bill came before the House next week he hoped to deal with questions arising out of it, and make a statement on the censorship.

Mr. Bruce Smith (N.S.W.) said that a passenger from America informed him that the Quarantine Station at Sydney was in a neglected and dirty condition, and that when he protested to the medical man in charge he was told that the place should be cleaned up by the ship's crew.

The Acting Minister for Customs, Mr. Greene, promised to make inquiries, and added that from inquiries he had already made he did not think the arrangements at the Quarantine Station were as indicated.

Mr. Kelly (N.S.W.) asked the Acting Prime Minister if he was aware that the War Precautions Act was used to prevent shipments of tin ore from Australia, and that other powers under the Act required smelted ore to be sold only to one buyer, who would not now purchase. He wanted to know if the anomalies would be removed.

Mr. Watt replied that embargoes had been placed on the export of quite a number of metals. Whether that was done under the Customs or War Precautions Act he did not know, but he was aware of difficulties in the tin-mining trade, and he was desirous that it should be relieved. He proposed to consider all the facts to see how far Government action could be taken.

Some of the proposals for peace celebrations, said Mr. Watt, would be dealt with by the special committee next week.

Mr. Watt read a cable message received from Senator Cosme de la Torriente, President of the Commission Havina, Cuba, stating that the commission for the war and for the assistance of victims of the war, had decided, with the approval of the President of the Republic, to send ten thousand pesos, estimated at £2083, to be devoted by the Australian Red Cross in the name of the Republic of Cuba to the assistance of Australian soldiers who were victims of the great war, "to which Australia has so powerfully contributed." Mr. Watt said that members would be glad of that evidence of national cordiality.

The debate had not concluded on the Works Loan Bill when the House rose at 4 o'clock till Tuesday afternoon.

In the Senate to-day, the Minister for Repatriation, Senator Millen, informed Senator Lynch that it was not correct that 6000 bales of good boot leather had been kept out of use in Australia by Executive authority.

Senator Millen gave notice of motion to amend the Standing Orders to limit speeches to an hour, with certain exceptions.

The Income Tax Bill was recommitted to consider an amendment by Senator Crawford (Q.), to exempt from the super-tax incomes where the tax amounted to only £1. The amendment was agreed to on the voices.

Senator Millen moved the second reading of the Beer Excise Bill, and the Iron and Steel Bounty Bill.

The debates were adjourned, and the Senate adjourned till Wednesday next.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

SYDNEY'S WATER SUPPLY.

The Speaker resumed the chair in the Legislative Assembly at 2.30 p.m. yesterday.

The amendments made in the Irrigation Amendment Bill by the Legislative Council were agreed to.

SYDNEY WATER SUPPLY.

In committee, the question of the advisableness of introducing a bill to sanction the construction of a concrete and masonry dam across the Avon river, in connection with the Sydney water supply, was considered.

The Minister for Works (Mr. Ball), in moving for leave to introduce the bill, said the dam suggested would impound 13,000,000,000 gallons of water, and would cost £600,000. The present water storage was not sufficient for the wants of the city. The Cordeaux dam, now in course of construction, would impound 12,000,000,000 gallons; but even then the water supply would not be sufficient for the proper requirements of the city for more than 15 years. The scheme had been recommended by a board of expert engineers.

Mr. J. Storey objected to the work being carried out without reference to the Public Works Committee.

The motion was agreed to by 30 votes to 21, and the bill was brought in and read the first time.

EXHIBITIONERS FEES BILL.

The University Amendment (Exhibitioners Fees) Bill was, on the motion of Mr. James, read the second time, and taken through committee.

PRISON DISCIPLINE.

On the motion for adjournment, Mr. Brookfield said that Donald Grant, a prisoner in Goulburn Gaol, had been appointed to inspect food supplied to the prisoners in the gaol. He had condemned certain food as unfit for human consumption, and the prison doctor was called in, and pronounced the food fit for human consumption. A day or two later Grant was brought before the visiting justice, and was ordered 48 hours in the dark cell. Some time after he had served this term Grant was removed from the Goulburn to the Bathurst gaol. Would the Attorney-General have investigation made into the case?

Mr. James answered that he had the authority of the Attorney-General for saying this matter would be investigated.

The House adjourned at 6.25 p.m until 4.30 p.m. on Monday next.

MEAT PRICES.

ORDER TO BE CANCELLED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Government has decided to repeal during the next few days the prices fixed for meat. In making this announcement to-day, the Minister for Price Fixing, Mr. Massy Greene, said that after a careful review of the whole position, the Government had come to the conclusion that no reason existed at present to continue the fixation of meat prices. In all the principal markets of the Commonwealth meat was being sold at lower prices than frozen meat could be put on the market. In view, however, of the fact that in the ordinary course of events a shortage would occur in the winter months, the Government was taking steps to arrange for an ample supply of frozen meat to be available, and this would be placed upon the market as required, at the fixed rates. The proclamation declaring meat a necessary foodstuff would remain as at present; the order repealing the prices will probably be signed to-morrow, or on Monday, and gazetted the same day.

DEATH OF MRS. T. J. DALTON.

The death is announced of Mrs. Dalton, wife of Mr. T. J. Dalton, K.C.S.G., of Wheatleigh, Willoughby-road, North Sydney, while on her return by the Makura from America to Sydney, in company with her husband. Mrs. Dalton was taken ill on board with measles, and pneumonia supervened. She was landed at Suva, Fiji, on Wednesday evening last, and died there on the following day. Mrs. Dalton was a Lady of the Holy Sepulchre, only three other ladies having been similarly honoured by the Pope—the Marchioness of Bacorna, Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, of Rome, and Lady Kaill, of England. It is an ancient order, established by Pope Alexander VI. The ladies of the order are also known as Dames. Mrs. Dalton was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Nugent, of Tipperary. She was the president of the St. Mary's branch of the Red Cross Society (Ridge-street, North Sydney), and her name and her many activities, as well as her philanthropic spirit, were closely linked with many other institutions.

JUDGE DOCKER'S VALEDICTORY.

In the District Court yesterday Judge Docker bade farewell to his long association with the Court. He said: "Before the Court adjourns, as you are all aware, by force of an Act of Parliament, I retire from judicial work at the end of this year. I have still to sit in the Quarter Sessions, but this is my last day in the District Court jurisdiction. I wish to take the opportunity of saying that I fully appreciate and am thankful for the cordial relations that have always existed between myself and both branches of the legal profession, and also the officers of the Court. I am now 76 years of age. I do look forward, in the ordinary course, to enjoy some years of leisure before I go over to the great majority. I wish good-bye to you all."

BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

A PLEA FOR SANE ECONOMY.

The half-yearly meeting of proprietors of the Bank of New South Wales was held yesterday. Sir Charles K. Mackellar, the president, occupied the chair. The report and balance-sheet disclosed a profit for the period ended September 30 of £273,560. A dividend, including interim dividend, at the rate of 10 per cent. absorbed £195,243.

The President, in moving the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, said:—The figures this half-year have shown more fluctuation than usual. Circulation has increased by upwards of £600,000 entirely in New Zealand. This arises from our participation there in financing wool and other products sent oversea or held in store awaiting shipment, all under Government control. The facilities afforded the banks by the Government in the way of the banks' note circulation, which is the only paper currency in the Dominion, has very much contributed to smoothing over difficulties which a less elastic system could not so effectually meet. Deposits we always show in the balance-sheet by themselves. They are only about £600,000 higher than last year. War Loans account for the small progress, and the wonder is that the effect of these has not been greater. There is also a disposition on the part of the community to spend money more freely, which tends to dissipate savings which would usually go to swell the deposits. Bills payable and other liabilities show the large increase of £3,000,000, which is spread over most of the larger items included in the list. Current bills payable are considerably higher on the year, a temporary fluctuation of no special significance, so far as we can judge. The investment fluctuation account for Government securities is also higher, as we have deemed it to be wise to make substantial reservations, which, however, in view of the improved war outlook, we hope will not be ultimately needed. Other items in the group have also been temporarily inflated owing to war conditions. On the assets side the first line (coin, etc.) is £1,285,000 less than at September, 1917, which arises out of the activity of the business in certain directions. However, after deducting maturing liabilities and special items included in the immediately preceding group, there is still about 10/ in the £ for the ordinary liabilities to the public, which is a substantial reserve. As to War Loan advances, by arrangement with the Federal Government all banks here have co-operated specially in the flotation of the Sixth and Seventh War Loans by financing clients to 90 per cent. of their subscriptions at 4½ per cent. per annum, repayment spread over 13 months, and similar arrangements have been made in New Zealand. Meanwhile, we hold the bonds with the customers liability behind them, and the advances will gradually work off. The amount at present is about £2,700,000, including New Zealand.

The item of wheat advances I have explained on previous occasions. We have Federal and State guarantees, and as the wheat is sold the account will be liquidated. But owing to shipping and other difficulties the process of liquidation may not be as rapid as we hoped at the outset. Now that peace is in sight it may proceed more rapidly, but the operation is one which the Australian banks have viewed as a proper one to undertake in connection with the national finance. The outstanding balance is £1,919,772. The ordinary advances show an increase of some £2,300,000; this partly arises from increased activity in the negotiation of bills in London on Australasia, and partly from the requirements of our customers on the mercantile side owing to war interference with transport and supply, and, furthermore, the same causes have affected meat clearances. All these things, including the War Loan and wheat advances, have arisen entirely from the war, and they represent the part this bank has taken with the other banks in carrying on the necessary financial operations of the country. To do so all the banks have had to strain their resources to the fullest extent possible. We must expect to go on participating in these national undertakings for some time longer, for it cannot reasonably be expected that we shall reach the normal again without some considerable delay in the process.

Seasonal conditions have not been good lately in Australia. Dry weather has prevailed in many parts, and though recently some mitigating showers have fallen, much more rain is wanted to place matters on a satisfactory footing for the summer. The wheat harvest will no doubt be short, but our wool has again been purchased by the British Government at a good price, and this will bring in some money to our people. The Armistice which has just been signed will at no distant date lead, we hope, to a permanent and satisfactory peace. The utterances from this chair have always been hopeful of the final issue. We congratulate the statesmen of the Empire and those of the Allies on their steadfastness all through the trying period, and we appreciate to the fullest extent possible the work achieved by our sea, land, and air forces. We realise what our own men from this continent and New Zealand have done to help in bringing about the successful issue of the great struggle, and to come nearer home still those who have volunteered from the bank have also discharged their duty to the fullest extent. Many have received distinction or been mentioned in despatches. Many, I am sorry to say, have made the supreme sacrifice by giving their lives for their country. The return to the normal will, I have ventured to forecast, take some time; meanwhile the policy of this country should be to increase its production in every possible way, so that money may flow in to enable it to meet the heavy financial demands the future will without doubt make upon our resources. And in this connection once more do I put in a word for a reasonable and sane economy all round, as being a very important factor in solving the difficult economic problems ahead of us.

The motion was carried. Mr. F. B. S. Falkiner, M.P., and Mr. J. T. Walker were re-elected directors.

NATIONAL POLICY.

MR. JOHN STOREY'S REPLY.

Replying last night to the speech by the Premier on Thursday night, Mr. John Storey, leader of the Opposition, said:—

"I agree that it is advisable for Mr. Holman to take every opportunity of informing the public of the solidarity of the National party. If the Premier does not make a daily statement telling the public of the solidarity of the National party, not only the public but he himself might forget it.

"I am pleased to see," said Mr. Storey, "that the Premier is satisfied with the result in Monaro. He is indeed welcome to any crumbs of comfort he may secure from the figures in the Monaro election, and to take one crumb from a man who is politically starving would be both unkind and unnecessary. Mr. Holman incorrectly states that the National party is not losing ground. The fact is that Labour has improved its position in every by-election. The statement that Mr. Holman is now in favour of proportional representation is amusing. However, a careful review of Mr. Holman's political career will disclose that he has been at one time both against and for every political question of importance that has arisen during the past five years.

"If the Premier really believes, as he says, that proportional representation will introduce into Parliament parties representing sects—because if the Catholic party is introduced we must expect the Protestant Orange party also to take its place in Parliament—then we will have the spectacle of members sitting in the Legislative Assembly with the brand of creed across their narrow foreheads. For the Premier to say that he believes that the introduction of proportional representation will mean parties representing creeds in Parliament, and then to state that he will support a system of that kind, is one of the most outrageous statements yet made by a public man in this community. I venture to suggest that the mass of the broad-minded electors will resent Mr. Holman's Machiavellian attempt to introduce the devil of sectarianism in this way. The Labour party has always resolutely declared that religion is private and sacred to the individual, and that all citizens must be free to worship God in their own way, according to their own faiths and beliefs.

"The Premier seems to fear that the National party will be destroyed by the Press, and he speaks scathingly of certain journalists on the daily Press as rodents. Mr. Holman must realise that the freedom of thought, speech, and Press are even more essential to the welfare of this community than to the welfare of the National party. So far as the Labour party is concerned, I can say that we fear no Press.

"The return of the soldiers seems to be a matter of great concern to Mr. Holman from the point of view of their political significance. But an overwhelming majority of these men were drawn from the ranks of Labour, and all they will have to decide on their return is whether they will support Labour or the party representing the exploiters of Labour. It is true that certain individuals, some of them military officers, are seeking to exploit the comradeship of soldiers to one another for political purposes, but the election of soldiers as soldiers and not as citizens would result in the establishment of a military caste in the Government which was to so great an extent the cause of the war in Europe. Let me assure the Premier and the country once again that we cannot fail to support any effort that tends to promote the welfare of the returned soldiers since the majority of them were drawn from the ranks of the people we represent."

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

This afternoon and on Wednesday the final matinees of "Katinka" will be given at Her Majesty's Theatre, where the successful piece will thus complete a run of ten weeks.

"Oh, Oh, Delphine," will be produced by the J. C. Williamson direction next Saturday night for the first time, with Misses Moncrieff, Young, Reg. Roberts, Phil. Smith, Leslie Holland, and other favourites in the cast. The plans will open at Paling's on Monday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Madame X," with Muriel Starr in one of her strong emotional characters as the hapless Jacqueline, is now in its last week at the Criterion, where next Saturday evening that artist will appear as Roxana Clayton in Avery Hopwood's brilliant comedy "Nobody's Widow." The plan for this love story of an American heiress and a British duke will open at Paling's on Monday.

PALACE—"THE EYES OF YOUTH."

Afternoon and evening performances of "The Eyes of Youth" will carry this successful drama of mystery and adventure "as through a glass darkly" into the last month of the year, with Emelie Polini as the heroine of changeful fortunes, which point her out the right turning for love and happiness.

The J. and N. Tait repertory season, under Gregan MacMahon's direction, will be continued next Thursday afternoon with a repetition of Galsworthy's serious drama "The Pigeon," and Shaw's farcical curtain-raiser "How He Lied to Her Husband."

CHANGES AT TIVOLI THEATRE.

The final performances of "Time Please" will be given at the Tivoli this afternoon and evening. From Monday to Friday a vaudeville programme will include Lawrence Campbell, Signor Balboni, The Camille Trio, Harry de Roebeck, Keith Kennedy, Fred. Arthur, Doodey and Wright, The Florettes, Little Verna, and other artists.

Saturday afternoon next Mr. Hugh D. M'Intosh's newly augmented revue company, which has Charles H. Workman as principal comedian, will be seen in "Everybody's Doing It," with a new combination, including Florence Fox, an American soubrette; J. A. Lipman, a "yiddish" comedian; May and June, dancers; and old favourites in Lottie Sargent, Hugh Humble, and Frank Greene. Plans open at Nicholson's on Monday.

PLAYHOUSE—LAST WEEK OF SEASON.

A new Pierrot Pie, "No. 9," was submitted by Mr. Sydney James at The Playhouse last night, the comedy numbers in the first portion of the bill being entirely fresh, and as diverting as novel. Mr. James wisely retained the travesty "Lies of Youth" upon the Palace Theatre success of the hour as the finale to Pie 9, and last night's large audience received it enthusiastically. The last seven nights of the "Pierrot Pie" season are now announced, Mr. James having to fill Christmas dates elsewhere. There will be a matinee to-day at 2.30.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

This afternoon at 2.30 there will be a repeat performance of Beethoven's wonderful Ninth Symphony ("The Choral"), by the Conservatorium Choir and orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Henri Verbrugghen. The programme also includes the piano concerto, No. 5, in E flat ("The Emperor") of Beethoven, Mr. Henry Penn being the pianist. A plebiscite will be taken at this concert to allow the audience to select the programme for an extra concert on the following Saturday. Plan at Nicholson's.

MONTGOMERY STUART'S RECITAL.

This evening, at St. James's Hall, Mr. Montgomery Stuart will give a song and dramatic recital, at which he will recite Sir Edwin Arnold's thrilling piece, "He and She," as well as humorous numbers. His songs will include "Route Marching" and "Au Pays." Miss Margaret Chalmers and Mr. Cyril Monk will play solos for pianoforte and violin. The plan, at popular prices, is at Paling's.

BURNS CLUB CONCERT.

An attractive programme has been arranged by Mr. J. J. Herford for the monthly concert of the Burns Anniversary Club, at the Protestant Hall to-night. Assisting artists will include Misses Alma Berge, Lillian Lawson, Agnes Chalmers, pupils of Miss Isabel Coates, Messrs. R. M'Clelland, W. R. M. Baxter, Billy Watson, Alick Johnstone, and the Burns choir.

OPEN-AIR BAND MUSIC.

The State Military Band will play at a thanksgiving service, Birchgrove-road, Balmain, 3 p.m., to-morrow, and at Hyde Park at 7.30 p.m. to-morrow, under Mr. J. B. Tougher, musical director.

The Eastern Suburbs United Band, under Mr. H. W. A. Wedd, will perform in Vaucluse Park to-morrow afternoon, at 3.15. At 8 p.m. the band will perform at Bondi Beach.

Congress Hall Band, under Conductor S. Winley, will render music in the Domain Rotunda to-morrow at 3 p.m.

Leichhardt District Band, under Bandmaster Thos. Goodall, will play in Leichhardt Park to-morrow, at 3 p.m.

MR. ROLAND FOSTER'S STUDENTS.

At the Conservatorium on Monday, at 8 p.m., a vocal recital will be given by Misses Gladys Verona, Marjorie Beeby, and Bronwen Fairhall, from the studio of Mr. Roland Foster. Miss Verona will sing the Mad Scene from "Lucia," Miss Beeby will sing an "Aria" by Bach, Miss Fairhall will render English Folk songs. Messrs W. J. Coad, A. W. and Wilfred Arlom, and W. H. Fletcher will assist. Plan at Paling's.

"THE GIRL FROM U.S.A."

On Monday next, at the Repertory Theatre, under Mr. Oswald Anderson, the Sydney Academy of Music will present the new musical comedy, "The Girl from U.S.A.," in aid of patriotic funds. The academy opera class of 60 will include Misses Hewitt, Harris, Nelson, Bonidjieff, Hume, Messrs. Les Williams and R. A. Long. Plan at Paling's.

Thursday night will be in aid of the Royal North Shore Hospital.

LIEUTENANT L. GODFREY SMITH.

At Lieutenant Godfrey Smith's concert at the Conservatorium on Tuesday (8.15 p.m.) he will play Fantasie (Bach), Gavotte (Rameau), The Cuckoo (Daquin), and several new pieces. Mr. F. Mowat Carter will assist. A central feature will be "La Ballade des Desespere," rendered by Mrs. Alexander Gordon, Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Miss B. Deloitte, Mr. T. H. Kelly, and Miss G. Teece. The plan is at Paling's.

A "NOVEL" ENTERTAINMENT.

An unusual form of literary entertainment will, on Tuesday next, be provided at the Hyde Park Unitarian Church by Mr. S. N. Hogg (author of "Lights and Shadows in War Time"), when he will review an as yet unpublished novel by Rev. George Walters, entitled "Storm Clouds."

THE ARTISTS' GALLERY.

Invitations have been issued for the summer exhibition at the Artists' Gallery, which will be open for private view on Wednesday, and to the public from Thursday next.

DULWICH HILL WAR CHEST.

A concert in aid of the War Chest (Dulwich Hill branch) will be held at Petersham Town Hall next Wednesday. Assisting artists will include Misses Alma Berge, Mary Bourke, Bridie Hogan, Ethel Somers, Messrs. Sid MacDonald, Vic. Grieves, Tom Quinn, and Chris. Young.

ANCELON-CHAPMAN RECITALS.

Next Thursday evening in St. James's Hall students from the Ancelon-Chapman School of Elocution will give a dramatic recital in aid of the "Mission Zone" Fund. The programme will comprise scenes from "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Ivanhoe," and "Martin Chuzzlewit." Tornillo will supply the music. The plan is at Paling's.

CHEER-OH GIRLS' ANNIVERSARY.

The Cheer-oh Girls are giving their second anniversary revue at the Repertory Theatre on Friday next at 8 p.m. A new programme, with a number of novel items and new costumes, will be a feature, as also the reappearance of Mrs. Bennett White and Miss Dorrie Ward. The hon. secretaries are Mrs. C. Parkinson, Misses Creagh and Logan, and the hon. treasurer Mrs. Alec. Thomson.

MR. HUTCHENS' RECITAL.

Mr. Frank Hutchens maintained a high standard of interest in his second programme at the Conservatorium last night, when he played Ravel's "Ondine," inspired by the poem of Aloysius Bertrand. A clever prose translation by F. S. Burnell put the audience throughly in touch with the musical scheme which alluded to the invitation of the Queen of the Lakes to a mortal, who had caught her wayward fancy, to visit her palace in the triangle of fire, earth, and water at the bototm of the lake. Ravel possesses a special genius for creating a continuously sparkling sound through which little rills of melody enjoy a brief existence before they disappear in a fresh shower of plangent raindrops. The music was beautifully played by Mr. Hutchens, and the artist then introduced for the first time "Compliments Galants," a pianoforte transcription from the Spanish composer's opera, "Goyescas." The composition was full of graceful melody and romance, and was rendered with both sentiment and verve. Besides playing the Beethoven "Sonata in C, op. 2, No. 3," the pianist joined Mr. Cyril Monk in an enjoyable interpretation of Debussy's "Sonata for Violin and Piano," so that the range of the programme was unusually wide. Mme. Goossens Viceroy sang with charm songs by Duparc and Leroux, in which she was perfectly accompanied by Mr. Ramsay Pennicuick.

MR. HARRY THOMAS'S PUPILS.

An elocutionary and dramatic recital will be given by Mr. Harry Thomas and pupils at St. James's Hall on Saturday next, at 7.45 p.m. The programme will include humorous and dramatic plays, recitations, and musical monologues. Messrs. Eric Harrison and G. Vern Barnett will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

FINANCIAL.

THE BOUNTY SYSTEM.

The Federal Government has introduced a measure to extend the bounty system for the encouragement of Australian industry. This is only in consonance with the declared policy of the country. The measure now introduced is for the support of a section of one of those industries termed key industries, because on them the future of the nation as an indutsrial producer, and its determination to become as far as possible self-sufficing depend. We now realise what we have suffered during the past four years because we did not produce sufficient iron for our own requirements. Even if the submarine menace had not cut down shipping the iron position would have been difficult, because the demand for iron in all the warring countries made a continual drain on the supply. War industry must be served before peaceful industry.

A bounty is protection in a more direct way than a tariff. It assures to the producer a certain sum on his product, whereas a tariff merely assures him that his foreign competitor will be placed in a disadvantageous position in competition. A bounty assures that the cost of the protection given shall be spread over the whole nation. A tariff ensures the cost being distributed only among the users of the article protected. A bounty has this advantage, too, that the cost of the goods is not raised by the protection afforded, and thus prices are not artificially high, though on the other hand they may be artificially low. The system has also the advantage that the nation knows exactly what it is paying for the encouragement of the industry concerned, whereas under a system of tariffs each hand through which the goods pass adds a little more on account of the increased cost brought about by the Customs duty, and there is no means of ascertaining what the people are paying for the protection afforded.

The earliest bounty fixed by the Commonwealth was that on sugar in 1903. In 190[illegible] we had the Bounties Act, whose object was to encourage the manufacture and production of certain articles in the Commonwealth, both agricultural products and manufactures. As the "Year Book of Australia" points out, although the rate of bonus on the agricultural articles is fairly liberal, the bounties have not been availed of to any great extent in the case of agricultural products. More success has attended the bounties given on manufactures, large amounts being collected on that account. To the remark concerning agricultural products, sugar is an outstanding exception. The bounties paid since 1908 have amounted to £2,896,521, distributed as follows:—

Wool tops	£70,001
Flax	2,200
Sisal hemp	191
Coffee	791
Cotton seed	89
Linseed	15
Cotton ginned	411
Tobacco leaf	2,108

BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The half-yearly report of the Bank of New South Wales covering the period ended September 30 shows a net profit of £273,560, which with £127,729 brought forward made £401,289 available. A dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum was recommended, including the interim quarterly dividend paid on August 27, absorbing £195,243, and the carrying of £75,000 to reserve, leaving £131,046 to be carried forward. Deposits are about £600,000 more than last year, the small increase being attributable to the war loan. The following comparison of deposits, advances, and profits over a series of years is of interest:—

Half-year ended Sept. 30.	Deposits.	Advances.	Net Profits
1912	£34,614,789	£26,842,965	£211,923
1914	36,722,127	27,207,838	246,323
1916	38,829,593	28,243,130*	248,443
1917	40,579,001	28,132,991*	274,602
1918	41,252,337	32,540,149†	273,560

* Includes wheat advances. † Includes war loan and wheat advances.

The increase in the bank note circulation is entirely in New Zealand, and is explained in the President's speech reported elsewhere. The accounts in more detail may be presented thus in comparison with previous years:—

	Half-year ended Sept. 30. 1916.	1917.	1918.

The board places on record its high appreciation of the services to the bank during his long time of office of their colleague Mr. E. W. Fosbery, who had resigned through ill health. During the half year a branch of the bank was opened at Port Kembla. Branches and agencies now number 336.

COMPANY NEWS.

The half-yearly meeting of shareholders of the Electric Light and Power Supply Corporation, Ltd., was held yesterday, the chairman of directors (Dr. Charles Oliver, C.M.G.) presiding. The report and balance-sheet, particulars of which have already appeared, was adopted, and a dividend declared at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, for the half year.

The Elite Picture Theatres, Ltd. (Piccadilly Theatre), has declared a further dividend for the year ended October 31 of 1/6 per share, making a total of 15 per cent. for the year.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

While there was still an easy feeling in the markets yesterday there was not that disposition to stop buying which was noticeable at the close of last week. Better orders were coming in from the country. Cables indicate that high prices are being maintained at the other side of the world, and the fall in freights is affecting only heavy goods to any marked extent. Larger supplies of chemicals are on their way hither, and if the embargo on sales were lifted the feeling would be better. At yesterday's prices it would be profitable to re-ship cream of tartar and tartaric acid to Europe. A sale of good quality Japanese sulphur was reported in the local market at £24. A good demand exists for carbide, and sales of Japanese manufacture have been made at 66/ to 68/ per drum of 100lb. Sicilian almonds, which are selling in Sydney at 2/, are quoted in London at 3/ c.i.f.

Parcels dealings in the oil trade were somewhat restricted, as buying operations were not carried on to any great extent. Consequently many lines were quoted at easier rates. Linseed oil found steady support at the proclamed prices, but parcels of turpentine sold lower at 5/9. For castor oil 3/5 a gallon seemed a fair level. Red lead was still unprocurable, though nominally quoted at £140.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Offal firm, good local and Queensland demand; oats firm, holders asking 4/ f.o.b. for shipping parcels, buyers indicate about 3/8. Barley market still erratic; prime English 5/10 to 6/ f.o.b. for parcels; Cape about 4/. Chaff 80/, trucks, Mile End, bags included. Jute goods unchanged. Onions weaker, £8 in the Adelaide market; potatoes firm, £13 to £15 for new.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Barley nominal, Chevalier malting 6/ to 6/6, Duckbill 5/6 to 6/, Cape 4/ to 4/4; oats firm, Algerians 4/2 to 4/4; maize dull, 5/7; chaff weaker, £6 to £6/15/; potatoes weaker, Carmens £8, Snowflakes £7 to £7/10/; onions steady, Globes £11 to £11/10/; jute, unchanged.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

Brisk business was transacted in most lines of dairy produce in Sussex-street yesterday, and good clearances were reported. Consequent upon the unexpectedly sharp advance in price, the butter market exhibited a somewhat subdued tendency. Dealings were on a limited scale, and the full effect of the new conditions will probably not be felt until next week. Cheese of all descriptions was well stocked, and a good demand existed, except for the matured loaf variety, which found fewer buyers at the recently-advanced rate of 1/1½ per lb. Little difficulty was experienced in clearing hams and bacon. Supplies of eggs were large and the market was again quiet. Graded new-laid made up to 1/1 a dozen.

Quotations were:—

Cheese (proclaimed prices).—Matured, large and medium, 1/1; loaf, 1/1½; prime new loaf, /11½; large and medium, /11 per lb.

Butter (boxes and cartage 2/ extra).—First-grade 172/8; second-grade, 168/; third-grade, 163/4 per cwt. Packed in prints, /3 per lb extra may be charged.

Eggs.—Hen, new-laid, 1/ to 1/1; South Coast and railways, /11 to 1/1; Northern Rivers, /11; duck, new-laid, 1/ to 1/1; case /11 per dozen.

Bacon.—Sides, 1/; flitches, /11½; middles, 1/2; shoulders, /10 per lb.

Hams.—Clota, 1/4½; seeds, 1/5½.

Honey.—60lb tins of choice, /5¾ to /6; dark, from /3 per lb.

Lard.—Packets, /10; bulk, /9¼ per lb.

Poultry.—Railways and Northern River consignments: Hens, old 3/6 to 5/; roosters, young and small 3/6, large 5/ to 8/; chickens, 1/6 to 2/; Muscovy ducks, 4/ to 6/; Muscovy drakes, 4/6 to 6/6; turkey gobblers, 18/ to 20/; turkeys, hens, 7/ to 10/; guineafowls, 5/ to 6/; pigeons, 2/ to 3/3 a pair.

Mossman, Ellis, and Co., Ltd., reports having obtained the following prices at their auction sale yesterday and on Thursday:—Eggs: New-laid, 1/ to 1/1; railway and rivers, /11 to /11½; case, from /10½; duck, new-laid, to 1/1. Roosters: Choice young, to 11/6; good, 7/ to 9/; medium, light, small, and old, from 2/6. Hens: Choice heavy, to 7/; good, 4/ to 6/; medium, light, small, and old, from 3/. Drakes: Muscovy, choice young, to 15/; good, 12/6 to 14/6; medium, light, small, and old, from 7/. Ducks: Muscovy, choice young, to 10/; good, 8/6 to 9/6; medium, light, small, and old, from 6/; English, choice young, to 7/6; good, 4/6 to 5/6; medium, light, small, and old, from 4/3. Turkeys: Gobblers, choice heavy, to 40/; good, 25/ to 35/; medium, light, small, from 20/; hens, choice heavy, to 20/; good, 15/ to 17/6; medium, light, small, from 12/6. Geese: To 15/. Pigeons: Young and old, to 2/6. Carcase pork: To /10¼ per lb. Carcase veal: To /4 per lb. Eggs were dull of sale. The poultry market was over-supplied, and prices were much lower in consequence, especially for hens. Pork and veal were in good demand.

BUTTER PRICES.

A message received from Melbourne yesterday by the Commonwealth Prices Commissioner (Mr. R. W. King) stated that the wholesale and retail increase in the price of butter operated as follows:—First grade, /2 per lb; second grade, /2½ per lb; third grade, /3 per lb, as from the 28th inst.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

Potatoes were considerably cheaper yesterday. A shipment consisting of 2000 bags from the Clarence River sold at £12 a ton, a drop of £5. There was no alteration in the price of onions. Consignments of South African maize were available, and moved off well at up to 6/3 a bushel. The arrival of a further 2000 tons is shortly expected. Quotations were:—

Broom Millet.—Prime long hurl £80 to £90 a ton.

Firewood.—Box 19/ to 23/; stringybark, 15/ to 20/; mixed wood, 12/ to 14/; ironbark, 13/ to 16/; bakers' wood to 19/; rough, 10/ to 11/ a ton.

Oats.—Tasmanian white, 5/3 to 5/4; Algerian feed, 4/6 to 4/9; milling, 4/10 a bushel.

Potatoes.—Clarence River, new, £12; Victorian, Snowflakes, £9 to £10 a ton.

Apricots.—Local, choice 10/, medium 6/ to 8/, small 5/ a half-case.

Plums.—Cherry, 4/ to 6/; Evans, 5/ to [illegible] a half-case.

Gooseberries.—5/ to 7/ a quarter-case; 4/ to 6/ a 12lb box.

Bananas.—Fiji, G.M., 6/ to 7/6 a bunch, 20/ to [illegible] a case; Tweed River, 7/ to 15/ a case; Queensland, 8/ to 13/ a case.

Mangoes.—Queensland, 6/ a bushel case.

Paw-paws, to 10/ a bushel case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Vegetables provided good business yesterday, most lines being well suplied. Peas made up to 12/ and beans to 5/ for best quality. Potatoes were easier, but onions continued firm. Cucumbers were fairly plentiful, and sold up to 8/ a half-bushel case.

Quotations were:—

Cabbages.—Local, 5/ to 12/; lettuce, /6 to 2/ per dozen.

Onions.—Silverskins, 14/ to 18/; Globes, 12/ to 16/; sweet potatoes, 10/ to 14/; Swede turnips, 14/ to 16/; potatoes, local, 16/ to 20/; Tasmanian, Brownells, Plunketts, and Commonwealths, 14/ to 16/; Victorian, 14/ to 16/; marrows, 3/ to 6/6.

MINING.

A fair turnover was effected in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday, but prices moved irregularly, without any general movement. In sympathy with Melbourne, the silver-lead section opened at lower rates, but rallied towards closing time. British closed /7½ higher at 44/4½ after sagging to 43/6, and "Hills," after opening /9 lower at 57/6, moved up to 58/3. Norths closed steady at 58/6, while Junction North displayed a net appreciation on the previous day's price. Copper stocks were quoted at a discount. Among tin stocks, Vegetable Creek, Carpathia, and White Crystal just maintained firm prices. Kampong figured lower at 51/6, while Ratrut were /9 higher at 18/6. With a predominance of forward business, movements in Mt. Dudley were of a lively nature. Though initially /6 firmer at 6/, the stock fell back to 5/5 by nightfall. According to advices received from the field yesterday, the clean-up, which has become an object of keen interest and speculation, will take place on Monday next. Hawkins' Hill Central receded a trifle to 2/. Gundagai Long Tunnel advanced to 14/3, and Bendigo Amalgamated provided exchange at 1/1½ and 1/1. Among rare metal interests King Island scheelite changed hands at 23/, while Mammoth Molybdenite found acceptance in the vicinity of 6/.

NOTES.

The C.S.A. furnace was in blast for [illegible] hours during the week ended November 2[illegible], and smelted 1049 tons of the company's ore and 121 tons of purchased ore, averaging 7.4 per cent. copper, for 202 tons of shipping matte, which contained 42 tons of copper.

The Araluen Redbank No. 1 dredge worked 238 hours during the fortnight ended November 29, and recovered 47oz 17dwt of gold.

RESEARCH ON BENDIGO FIELD.

As the outcome of the second year's existence of the special committee on gold research, the executive committee of the Commonwealth Advisory Council of Science and Industry has issued a bulletin on the "factors influencing the deposit of gold in the Bendigo goldfield." The bulletin discusses the connection between faults and quartz reefs and the occurrence of gold. Further knowledge has been obtained of the formation of the peculiar saddle reefs and spurry reefs.

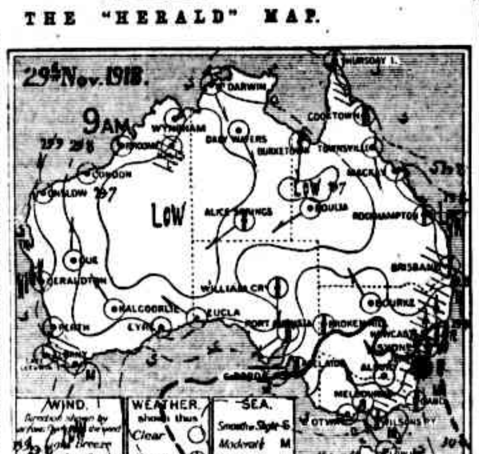
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



As the "high" pressure over the south-eastern States made easting after 9 a.m. Thursday, it gained over one-tenth in central barometric value, and on reaching its present position over Tasmania, active co-operation was effected with a disturbance of some cyclonic character over the Tasman Sea. Consequently, unsettled wet conditions set in over the central and southern coast and tablelands, with squally south winds (mostly S.E.) and disturbed sea. As depicted on the chart, an immense area of western and northern Australia is now occupied by a monsoonal depression, weak at present, but with several significant features favouring later developments. Indeed, the region under low pressure influence on Friday morning was the most extensive in the present season, and with the "high" so situated, such strong inducement is offered to that co-operation of the two systems, which is almost invariably associated with widespread rains. Present indications favour further coastal and highland showers and equally SW to SE winds, though both wind and sea are moderating. Temporarily fine inland, with E to NE winds, and both cloud and sultriness increasing. An unsettled thundery change approaching western and northern districts.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally southerlies between Gabo and Brisbane; elsewhere smooth to moderate.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Horse racing at Rosehill and pony and galloway racing at Ascot provide ample sport for metropolitan racegoers this afternoon; Sandown Park is the principal Victorian racing fixture; Western Australian sportsmen assemble at Canning Park; Ipswich Jockey Club caters for southern Queensland sporting folk; and a meeting of the Hay Jockey Club takes place in this State.

The general entry for the A.J.C. December and Summer Meeting at Randwick closes with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper, at 4 p.m. on Monday next. The added money for the ten events totals 3050 sovs.

The Ascot Racing Club holds a pony and galloway meeting this afternoon, and the programme to be played-out is an attractive one, comprising 13 races. The track is good going, and the customary means of transit by special and ordinary trams will be in vogue. The first race is timed to start at 12.30 p.m., and the results may be anticipated as under:—Encourage Stakes: First division, Cool Blarney, Farinetta, Broma; second division, William's Bullet, Hybill, Kernell; third division, Queen Lizzie, Lola Montez, Phast Cat; fourth division, Humming Girl, Rene O'B., and Green Smith. Fourteen-one Handicap: First division, Lady Mercer, Morven Lass, Dol Merv; second division, Iona, Little Jack, Mystify. Flying Handicap: First division, Peregrine, Sylvanell, Lord Malval; second division, Oetrine, Shekel, Lord Ballantrae. Fourteen-two Handicap: First division, Boree Roy, Miss Wedgewood, Clyrenic; second division, Quickstep, Amy Leon, Maggie N. Approved Stakes: First division, Martinmas, Ginger, Rattle; second division, Parsee Lad, Tressadia, Kenloo. Ascot Handicap: Coorangoora, Ballanto, Sir Bardolph.

Nominations for the Canterbury Park December meeting close with the secretary, Mr. W. L. Davis, at 4 p.m. on Monday next. The added money for the six races on the card totals 600 sovs.

M.M. (Paddington).—The totalisator dividend for 5/ paid on Mount Frisco, which ran second in the Farm Stakes at the Warwick Farm November Meeting on the 16th inst., was 4/6.

An important sale of racehorses will be held by Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. at their stables, Randwick, on Monday next, at 3 p.m. Among the lots catalogued are Dave Whitton, De Lyons, Coolriff, Wilbred, and All Foot; and the imported horses, Saltaire, My Valentine, and Coming Storm. The racehorse Choirmaster, by Sir Tristram (imp.) from Choir Girl, donated by Mr. P. H. O'Brien, will also be sold in aid of the War Chest Fund.

The weights for the A.J.C. Villiers Stakes and the Summer Cup will be declared on Monday next.

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

The following scratchings were notified yesterday:—

A.J.C. SUMMER MEETING.

December Stakes: Seashore filly, Hyades, Wildun, Dustrun, Spanish Prince, Devolution, Nata filly.

ROSEHILL NOVEMBER MEETING.

The programme for the November reunion of the Rosehill Racing Club, which takes place this afternoon, is a varied and attractive one, and a bumper attendance may be expected at that popular resort. The track is reported to be first-class going, large fields are assured, and as the Maiden Handicap and Nursery Handicap will be run in divisions, eight races are down for decision during the afternoon. The special transit service from the Central Railway Station includes specials leaving at 11 a.m. (horses), 11.43 and 11.48 a.m., 12.2, 12.10, 12.38, 12.53, and 1.8 p.m. The 11.48, 12.2, 12.53, and 1.8 p.m. stop at Strathfield to pick up passengers. Combined railway tickets to each of the reserves can be purchased at the Central Booking Office, Martin-place, before leaving the city.

Racing commences at 1.45 p.m. with the Maiden Handicap and the places in the first division may be occupied by Wollara Maid, Teregram, and Prairie Boy, while, in the second division, Stitching, Trilamah, and Red Gold may get home as named; Dungannon, Coolstone, and Gooriansaw may divide the honours in the Clyde Stakes; in the first division of the Nursery Handicap Lord Rector, Posadoon, and Walpole may claim the attention of the judge, and, in the second, Fair Persian, Horace L., and Cheeraspear may occupy the situations; First Rain, Harcliff, and Football may pass the post in that order for the Trial Stakes; All Foot, Call to Arms, and Red Cardinal may fill the situations in the November Handicap; and Cruzot, Diptych, and Two Blues may pass the post in that order for the Parramatta mile.

SANITARY SYSTEMS AT DANKS'.

Danks' just now are featuring some special Sanitary Combinations, especially desirable for warm-weather time, although essential for cleanliness and health at all times.

Where no sewerage is available the new "EMU" SANITARY COMBINATIONS are the latest and best devices for cleanliness and for the protection of health. They are fly-proof, and are available in several patterns and various prices—everyone efficient and sanitary.

We offer these conveniences at much below the usual prices—

DANKS' NOISELESS FLUSH SYSTEM.

Our special noiseless flush system has many points to recommend it. By simply pressing a button plug, a full and perfectly noiseless flush of water is obtained. No chains to pull, no irritating noise—absolutely efficient and highly desirable in cases where a noiseless lavatory would be appreciated. See these Sanitary Specialities at Danks'.

USE SANI-FLUSH FOR ALL LAVATORY PANS.

That well-known property Earls Court, situate in one of the finest positions in Manly, at the corner of THE ESPLANADE and JAMES-STREET, close to the wharf, and affording a most ideal centre for Residential Flats.

EARLS COURT is a 3-storied Brick Building on stone foundation, with flat roof, covered with ruberoid and iron.

ON THE GROUND FLOOR there are drawing-room, large dining-room, 17 bedrooms, linen room, kitchen, and 3 bathrooms.
ON FIRST FLOOR there are 21 bedrooms, linen room, 2 bathrooms, and usual offices.
ON SECOND FLOOR there are 21 bedrooms and 3 bathrooms.
There is also a BASEMENT, having access from the Esplanade, and which is at present used as a garage and storerooms.

The Land has a frontage of about 117ft to the Esplanade by a depth on one side of 106ft and on the other side of 100ft, the rear line being 124ft. Torrens Title.
EARLS COURT is at present a Residential Establishment, and may be purchased as a Going Concern.
Also VACANT LAND fronting GILBERT-STREET, at REAR.
This Allotment has a frontage of 124ft to Gilbert-street by a depth of about 80ft along James-street, Torrens Title. This land is unimproved, and may be sold separately from Earls Court.
This is an unusual opportunity to acquire a first-class property in the best part of Manly, and which with very little cost can be altered into up-to-date Flats.

THE AUSSIES' ESTATE, WILLOUGHBY.
TORRENS TITLE.
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14, AT 3.30.

R. T. FORSYTH, in conjunction with Messrs. RICHARDSON and WRENCH and KING and HUMPHERY, will sell that superlative Block of Land with frontages to Penshurst, High, Ashley, Orara, and Haig streets, and Douglas-avenue.

This well-known Property, upon which local residents and Visitors have always set longing eyes for Home Sites, has been Locked Up for 30 YEARS, and is unlocked at last that it may become occupied by many happy Homes, and ensure for Willoughby that once again her Parks will be filled with lusty young manhood, Prototypes of those never-to-be-forgotten Football Teams, Cricketers, and Batting Men who at the EMPIRE'S CALL at once changed their garb and did Gloriously—as we knew they would. Then Hip, Hurrah, and three times three for the Aussies, and don't forget that on SATURDAY, 14th DECEMBER, AT 3.30,

R. T. FORSYTH will Auction the AUSSIES' ESTATE, WILLOUGHBY, as subdivided into 100 LOTS, having 40 and 50 feet frontages and a depth of 150ft, giving you a chance you can't afford to lose to secure a Home Site, with Water, Gas, Electricity, and Sewer on hand, quite close to tram, and only 10 minutes from CHATSWOOD STATION. All Streets are Council Streets.

WILLOUGHBY is renowned for Health, and Statistics prove it to be the most progressive of suburbs. Elevation 400 feet above sea level.

Buy now—Buy a lot for the Child. Land here daily improves in value.

Terms: 10 per cent. Deposit, balance by twelve quarterly payments. Interest 5 per cent.

War Loan Bonds or Certificates will be received as cash.

If desired, Special Terms may be arranged with the Auctioneers.

This is the Builders' opportunity.

Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley are the Solicitors for the Estate.

THIS PROPERTY SHOULD APPEAL TO THE PROFESSIONAL MAN.

AT RANDWICK.

SUNNYSIDE.

A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park, a panoramic wealth of variety both by day and at night.

Far back in the early days at the beginning of settlement at Randwick the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.

Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands Sunnyside, a substantially-built House of Stone, containing Reception-room, Dining-room, Billiard or Smoke Room, 3 large Bedrooms, Dressing-room, 3 other Bedrooms, Servants' Dining-room, Kitchen, Pantries, Laundry, and other offices. Motor Garage and Stabling.

The Land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.

The Grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the City is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by Motor in 15 minutes, or by tram, which is close by, in 25 minutes.

FOR SALE, on extended terms, owing to the Owner's early departure abroad; or TO LET on Lease.

For further particulars apply to
J. F. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

WHY DICK WASN'T WHACKED.

Dad (with cane in hand): "Dick, come here. I'm going to thrash you."
Dick: "What for?"
Dad: "You've been fighting. You young varmint."
Dick: "But he biffed me first."
Dad: "Don't matter. It was the LANDLORD'S boy you 'biffed.' Do you want us turned out of house and home, and NO MORE HOUSES TO BE GOT?"
Dick: "But, Dad, why haven't you got a house of your own? Mum says you could have done it easy."
Dad (reflectively): "You're let off this time—I deserve a whacking myself. I'll see RICKARD to-day."

Having in view the present very serious shortage of HOUSES, and the likelihood of the situation continuing for a long period, to the people's detriment, we now
POINT A WAY OUT OF THE DIFFICULTY.

Our offer will enable each client to become THE OWNER OF HIS OWN HOME,
thus rendering him INDEPENDENT of LANDLORDS and extricating himself from the complex problem that now threatens the country.
THIS IS THE WAY:
When you've paid for a block of land selected from any of our numerous Estates, we are able to arrange to have
A HOUSE BUILT FOR YOU WITHOUT DEPOSIT.
Repayments to be made by small regular amounts, which do not commence until the HOUSE IS FINISHED AND HANDED OVER TO YOU.
WE FURTHER ASSIST YOU in the selection of your Block, and give the best advice.
There will be
NO DEPOSIT,

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

PLEASANT AS A HOME,
SAFE AS AN INVESTMENT.

HABERFIELD,
THE SUBURB OF GARDEN HOMES.

A good Building is not set off to advantage unless the surroundings are in keeping with its value.

This elementary principle (so necessary in present day construction) was particularly attended to by us in building the Suburb of Haberfield. Consequently the Haberfield of to-day shows a suburb well defined with wide avenue streets, and the assurance of gardens in each cottage before any of them is sold.

WE HAVE SOME BUNGALOWS NOW COMPLETED.
They range in price from £1225 to £1500, and we are able to arrange convenient terms for any buyer on and the balance in weekly or monthly instalments.
A MODERATE DEPOSIT,

If desired, a tenant can be obtained by the buyer, and the rental received will practically be sufficient for the instalments due. Any buyer has the right to pay cash whenever desired.
INTEREST IS ONLY 5 PER CENT.
ON HABERFIELD PROPERTIES.

A DESCRIPTIVE BOOKLET
may be obtained on request. Write us for particulars concerning Haberfield, and let us make an appointment to show you our New Bungalows. Visitors will be met at any time by our Manager at Haberfield Office.

FACTORY SITES.
THE CHEAPEST AND CLOSEST TO THE CITY ARE AT ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB.
Manufacturing, now that peace is at hand, must go ahead in Sydney with great strides. To act in co-operation with all available facilities of transit, the factory site of modern premises must be in such a locality as to derive every convenience for transport as well as for the obtaining of labour.
ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB is strategically the finest factory land in Sydney. It is practically on the City Boundary, with several means of access, whilst the allotments offered by us for sale are CLEAN, LEVEL SITES, FROM 2 TO 10 ACRES;
OR SMALLER LOTS, FROM 100FT FRONTAGE.
The prices range from £3/10/ to £5 per foot, and price per acre can be quoted for any large area required.

The Title is Torrens.
We are able to arrange convenient terms for buyers.
NOTE.—The following firms—James Stedman-Henderson's Sweets, Ltd., Parke, Davis, and Co., and W. Wrigley Spearmint Co.—have built their main factory premises at Rosebery. This will indicate the suitability of our land for the modern factory premises.
Our Representative is on the Estate at our Office on Saturday afternoon and week days. Write or call on us for particulars and booklet, land lot, etc.

AT RANDWICK.
SUNNYSIDE.

A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park, a panoramic wealth of variety both by day and at night.

Far back in the early days at the beginning of settlement at Randwick the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.

Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands Sunnyside, a substantially-built House of Stone, containing Reception-room, Dining-room, Billiard or Smoke Room, 3 large Bedrooms, Dressing-room, 2 other Bedrooms, Servants' Dining-room, Kitchen, Pantries, Laundry, and other offices. Motor Garage and Stabling.

The Land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.

The Grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the City is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by Motor in 15 minutes, or by tram, which is close by, in 25 minutes.

FOR SALE, on extended terms, owing to the Owner's early departure abroad; or TO LET on lease.
For further particulars apply to
J. E. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

AGED PEOPLE NEED HAVE NO FEAR OF EXTRACTIONS BY MY SPECIAL METHOD.

TEETH. TEETH.

I am constantly being called upon to extract teeth for aged and feeble people. Only the other day a woman almost 80 years of age was carried into my chair. I extracted 17 old, decayed teeth. The old lady did not suffer in the slightest, and two days after her daughters came in specially to thank me, and to say how wonderfully well the old lady was. I spent years perfecting this method and am so confident of its success that I will pay £5 to anyone who feels the slightest pain during an extraction.

I WILL DRILL ANY TOOTH ENTIRELY WITHOUT PAIN.

No need to dwell on the advantages of this achievement. I am the fortunate possessor of a wonderful apparatus, which enables me to drill and fill the most tender tooth without you feeling even a twinge of pain. This humane appliance also enables me to do the work better, because the patient is sitting at ease. I give you my written guarantee with fillings, also Plate and Bridge Work. Consultations free. Terms can be arranged. Open till 6 p.m. Daily (Sats. included). Until 9 p.m. Friday. Half-holiday Wed.

MOTOR TUITION FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS
DOHERTY AND ADAMS' MOTOR SCHOOL.
Let us prepare you for the strenuous battle of life with which you are now faced. Our course is interesting, simple, and thorough. We limit to no particular time, which gives the slow pupil or those attending hospital every chance to master the motor. Tuition given by principals only. Special terms to returned soldiers. Hear what Sydney's leading business men say:—
Mr. A. J. Hordern.—I am pleased to find that your instruction includes everything mechanical and electrical, as well as traffic-driving. I will have no hesitation in recommending your institution.
Mr. Jas. McMahon.—The whole tuition was so systematic and easy, and made so interesting, that I could not fail to get on.
Mr. Arthur Kidman.—In ref. to your tutoring of my son in the driving of motors, I am very pleased with the results. His driving is very satisfactory indeed.
Hours: Monday to Friday, 9-5. Evening Classes, Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, 7-9.

WHAT IS THIS?
Does it not strike you as conclusive evidence that after offering £100 Reward to anyone who has a Remedy other than my own (which no one has claimed) for the Total Destruction of Superfluous Hair, there are no other remedies? And that it is immaterial what you buy, it is useless as far as Superfluous Hairs and their destruction are concerned. No one has accepted my challenge, nor has one of the thousands of clients treated by me claimed the reward, because "their hair has grown again." This must forcibly impress on you that there are no other permanent cures only Electrolysis, which must be done by an experienced person.
I AM THE SPECIALIST OF SYDNEY.
FOR SEVENTEEN YEARS AT MY PRESENT ADDRESS.
For further proof am willing to remove a few hairs free of charge. This treatment will convince.
